Novato Father Dies On Viet Air Mission

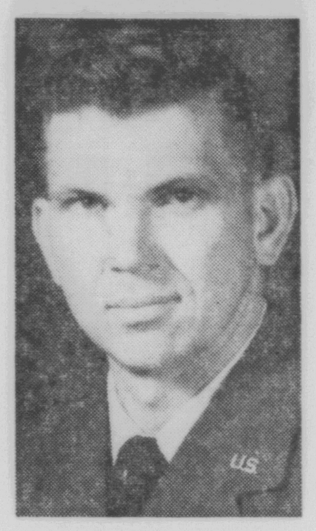
Capt. Herman R. Ritchie, who moved his family to Novato only a week before being sent to Viet Nam, has been killed in action.

The 30-year-old father of four was listed as missing after a mission last Thursday, the Defense Department disclosed today. On Saturday, his wife was notified that he had been killed.

The wife and children live at 1213 Lynwood Drive, Novato, where they moved in August. Ritchie earlier served at Hamilton Air Force Base in 1956-57.

He was pilot of a C-123 transport plane used to carry men and supplies of the 310th Commando Squadron in the Viet Nam jungle fighting. The plane was shot down Thursday.

The C-123 is a plane capable of carrying 60 men or 24,000 pounds of equipment. It is used to airlift and parachute supplies and men or as a transport, according to Col. Robert R. Fishel of the Hamilton Air Force Base information office.



HERMAN R. RITCHIE
Viet Nam casualty

A native of Okmulgee, Okla., Ritchie had been in the Air Force more than 10 years. He served with the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base in 1956-57, then with a military air transport squadron at Charleston Air Force Base, S.C., before his assignment to Viet Nam.

He left his wife, Betty Jo, and children, Deborah, James, Terry and Susan, for the war zone Aug. 15. Mrs. Ritchie and the three oldest children left today for Okmulgee, where a memorial service will be held.

In addition to his wife and children, Ritchie is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ritchie of Okmulgee; a brother, J. H. Ritchie of Ponca City, Okla., and a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Underwood of Springfield, Mo.

Prison Escaper's Campsite Found In Larkspur Thicket

Burglaries Blamed On Fleeing Killer

By STEPHEN COOK

William J. Dellinger, 36-year-old murderer who fled over San Quentin Prison walls early Friday, lived two days in a dense, poison oak-infested thicket below the Tamalpais high-rise construction site in Larkspur, Police Chief Howard Clark of Larkspur said today.

Using the campsite as a base of operations, the convict foraged through apartments and a consruction office in the area, stealing clothing and almost $230 before moving on, Chief Clark declared.

Clark said workmen arriving at the construction site on Via Casitas yesterday morning may have frightened the once-model prisoner away. As they set up equipment they heard something crash through the thick underbrush down the hill, Clark said.

Larkspur police and a force of prison guards searched the area for almost four hours yesterday afternoon and evening, and Clark stationed an officer at the site all night, but no further trace of the convict was found.

BURGLARY PROBED

Saturday morning, two Larkspur policemen investigated a burglary at the construction office. The thief had broken in Friday night and taken $228 in cash, eight packages of cigarettes, and a rubber chair pad.

Police found no clue to the burglar's identity, but when job foreman Leon Steward of Richmond came to work yesterday, he poked through the nearby underbrush, hoping the thief had discarded some of the stolen goods.

CLUES FOUND

Beneath some leaves, Steward found a pair of boots stolen from the office—and a pair of prison denim pants. Police resumed the search and found Dellinger's campsite.

There they found a comb and a comb case, an identification tag with Dellinger's prison number stamped on it, the rubber chair pad he used to soften his earthen bed, two empty packs of cigarettes, typing paper and envelopes and an instant coffee jar he used as a container for coffee he brewed himself in the construction office.

The boots, Chief Clark said, have markings on the soles which match prints found outside the bathroom window at the Vern C. Stanford apartment

West Marin Master Plan Voted, 4-1

After Arguments, Quarter-Acre Lot Minimum Adopted

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Over protests of many property owners wanting more intensive use of their land, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday recommended approval of the West Marin master plan.

The vote was 4-1, with Commissioner Niels Schultz Jr. making a strong dissent and commissioners Eugene Trombley and Harry H. Heifetz absent.

DENSITY ISSUE

Main issue in the three-hour discussion was housing density.

The plan, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Summers and Daniel P. Coleman, originally called for lots ranging from one-half to five acres, depending on the slope of the land.

After several hearings, a three-member committee of the commission, headed by Commissioner Hugh Dougherty, recommended 10,000-square-foot lots for established communities, bayside areas and the Olema Valley, one-acre lots on slopes less than 25 per cent, and two-acre lots on slopes over 25 per cent.

MORE POPULATION

Under the original recommendation, the over-all density would be .66 of a dwelling unit per acre. Under the committee's recommendation, which was finally adopted yesterday, the density would be .86 of a dwelling unit per acre.

Instead of an ultimate population of 66,000 as seen by the consultants, the population could become 87,500. And if a 25 per cent bonus recommended by the committee and adopted by the commission for good design were applied throughout, the population could become 109,000.

Schultz, who also served on the committee and filed a minority report, declared that the density was not responsive to the wishes of West Marin and was putting different standards

EX-KLANSMAN TESTIFIES—Billy Wilson, 23, testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, how he and others had dynamite-bombed a civil rights worker's home in McComb, Miss., on a July night in 1964.

One-Time Klansman Describes Bombing

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — A former Ku Klux Klansman related today that he and others hurled dynamite bombs at the homes of some Negro civil rights workers in the McComb, Miss., area.

"I lobbed one," Billy Wilson told the House Committee on Un-American Activities as he told of the incidents in the summer of 1964. Wilson ended up under a heavy suspended sentence for his activities. He was charged in October 1964.

After hearing Wilson's story, chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., recessed the hearings until Feb. 1. He said press of other congressional business was the reason, but that field investigations by the staff would continue.

The sentence of 15 years and 6 months, plus $500 fine, was suspended, Wilson said, on the condition he never take part in any violence again.

iWlson, 23, told of joining "Ray Smith's group" at McComb, and later being a member of a second United Klan unit because the first one had grown too large. He said he is not now a member of the Klan.

He told of dynamite bombs being tossed into the yards of Charles Bryant and the Rev. James Baker, and of a Klan meeting where he said the names of persons "who needed a job being done them" were put into a hat, with Klansmen drawing their "jobs."

Wilson no longer lives in McComb. For the safety of him and his family, his present residence is being kept secret.

Wilson said he joined a McComb unit of the United Klans of America on July 7. 1964. On Oct. 23 of the same year he pleaded guilty to bombing the home of Charles the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in McComb.

The bombing of Bryant's home, as far as Wilson was concerned, was done on short notice and without any reason being given by the local Klan leader.

"I guess it was for reason that Mr. Bryant was real active in the work that was going on in the area by the NAACP and COFO (Council of Federated Organizations)," he told the committee.

Board Rejects Justice Hall Bids, 4-1

By 4-1 vote, Marin County Supervisors today rejected all bids on the Hall of Justice addition to the Civic Center, and called for new bids to be opened Feb. 8.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen cast the dissenting vote.

The supervisors also agreed to revise the specifications downward by an estimated $474,200, delay re-bidding on site development for a year, and make further cutbacks in other phases of the project in hope of saving another $682,550.

The board thereby accepted the recommendation of County Administrator Alan Bruce, which had the blessing of auditor-controller Michael Mitchell, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, and Public Works Director Donald R. Frost.

In rejecting the bids, supervisors specified they were doing so because the lowest bid was a half million dollars above the architect's estimate, and not on the basis of legal objections to the low bid submitted by Haas and Haynie of South San Francisco.

Kettenhofen urged that his colleagues consider the bid rejection and the proposed cost reductions as separate issues, and said he was prepared to negotiate with the low bidder to incorporate the reductions in his original bid.

If the bids were rejected, he contended, supervisors should be prepared to make even more drastic reductions in the specifications because of rising costs. He said he was concern-

Bombing Pause Extension Is Considered

COMBINED AP & UPI

The United States was reported today contemplating a possible extension of the bombing pause in North Viet Nam until after next month's Moscow visit by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Apparently no firm decision as to the duration of the bombing pause has been made, but informed reports in London cited "suggestions" today that it be tacitly extended through February.

Diplomats feel the chances of these talks, however slim, would be improved if the bombing pause were still in force at the time the little Moscow summit gets under way.

Hope has been abandoned in the Vatican for any replies from Peking or Hanoi to the Viet Nam peace appeals that Pope Paul VI sent New Year's Day, a high Vatican source said today.

The pontiff had sent individual appeals to Red Chinese leader Mao Tze-tung, North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh, Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and South Vietnamese Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu.

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON — U.S. military strength in Viet Nam today soared to more than 190,000 men with the twin landings of thousands of fresh Marines and infantrymen from Hawaii and Okinawa. (See also story on additional ground forces and spending, on page 3.)

U.S. military commander Gen. William C. Westmoreland was on the beach at Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, when the first elements of the 4,000-man 2nd Brigade of the 2nd Infantry Division from Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, moved ashore.

By nightfall, all of the men were ashore in an operation which went off without a hitch, a U.S. military spokesman said. Among the arrivals were two battalions of the 27th Infantry "Wolfhounds," a unit which fought in Siberia in World War I, and later in World War II and Korea.

To the north at Chu Lai, 60 miles south of the Da Nang airbase, 3,000 men of the 1st Marine Regiment from Okinawa scrambled off LSTs which met their troop ships. This brought Marine strength in Viet Nam to about 42,000 men.

Hill said his only worry had been "that I might not make it to Viet Nam" since soldiers under 18 cannot serve here. Hill turned 18 to days ago.

The Kentucky soldier and his outfit were hustled onto trucks, driven to a nearby airfield and flown to the Bien Hoa base 13 miles north of Saigon.

The 1st Marine Regiment meanhile moved out into the Chu Lai region to beef up Marine forces guarding the Da Nang complex and clearing Viet Cong guerrillas from the countryside.

The landings came as the war tapered off in anticipation of a 3½-day cease fire in observance of the Chinese lunar New Year, Tet, beginning at noon Thursday (11 p.m., EST Wednesday).

Katzenbach Defends Voting Rights Act

Seated in a section reserved for special guests of the justices as court convened were Katzenbach's wife, Lydia; his mother, Mrs. Marie Katzenbach, 84, Trenton, N.J.; his mother-in-law; and Mrs. Robert S. McNamara, wife of the secretary of defense and a friend of the Katzenbach family.

Katzenbach — his voice and hands shaking slightly as he began — barely started speaking from a prepared manuscript before the court began peppering him with questions. Most of the 70-minute appearance before the court recessed was taken up by questions about the legislative history of the voting act and Katzenbach's enforcement of it.

"With all this talk about the need for an informed electorate," the attorney general said as he defended the suspension of literacy tests, "there are a great many white illiterates registered in most of the states under this act. And in South Carolina you can avoid the literacy requirement if you own a second-hand car, because of the alternate $300 property requirement there."

Replying to South Carolina's contention that its high illiteracy rate reduced its chances of meeting the act's minimum 50 per cent registration or voter turnout in November 1964, Katzenbach said, "I would raise the issue of whether the state's failure to give the Negro equal education opportunity can fairly be used today to disenfranchise him."

Americans Get Longer Life Span

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. population added a few months to its life expectancy in 1964, the Public Health Service reported today.

The figure, the average number of years a person may expect to live, rose to 70.2 years to equal the average reached in 1961. It was 69.9 years for 1963.

Based on mortality experience during 1964, the expectation of life at birth was 66.9 years for males and 73.7 years for females.

The data were given in a report by the National Center for Health Statistics on final mortality statistics for 1964.

NEVADA TEST SITE (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission today announced it conducted its second underground nuclear test of the year yesterday at the Yucca Flats test site. The blast was in the low intermediate yield range, the equivalent of from 20,000 to 2,000,000 tons of TNT impact.

San Rafael City Council Asks New Tunnel Deadline

The San Rafael City Council agreed last night to push for a new deadline on the reopening of the Puerto Suello tunnel by Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co.

A former deadline set by the California Public Utilities Commission was passed while the railroad challenged the PUC's jurisdiction in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Yesterday Boris H. Lakusta, attorney for San Rafael and Marin County in their fight to restore mainline railroad service to San Rafael, reported that the Supreme Court refused to consider the railroad's claim.

As a result, Lakusta said the PUC will have to set a new deadline.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said, "We can push it with the PUC to see that they set a new date and get this show on the road."

The council authorized Andersen to write a letter to the commission requesting action.

The tunnel has been closed since a fire July 22, 1961.

Aunt, Nephew On Trial For Murder

MIAMI (UPI)—A legal snarl over the availability of women jurors in Florida and the meticulous selection of a jury today slowed the trial of blonde Candace Mossler and her handsome nephew on charges of murdering her millionaire husband.

Candace

Circuit Court Judge George E. Schulz said he would try to find time after a resumption of the trial to hear a motion by the six-man team of defense lawyers renewing a plea for separate trials for ex-model Candace and Melvin Lane Powers.

He heard nearly 90 minutes of guments at the end of Monday's session on the motion challenging the constitutionality of a Florida law that allows only women who volunteer to serve on juries.

Melvin

Trial of the widow and the son of one of her sisters for first degree murder bogged down almost immediately in selecting a jury from over 250 prospects who jammed the sixth floor courtroom.

The two are charged with the murder "by premeditated design" of multi-millionaire Jacques Mossler, who was 69 when he was stabbed 39 times and smashin the head until his skull was crushed June 30, 1964.

Things Looking Up For Hero

NEW YORK (AP) — For Enrique Negron, 56, a Puerto Rican who says he was forced out of business because he helped a white policeman fight off a mob of Negroes, it has been up and down in the past eight months. Now it's up again.

Negron

A former grocer, Negron says his customers boycotted his business and called him "cop lover" and "nigger hater." He was on the verge of destitution with $300 left, he was unable to find a job to support his wife and teenage daughter.

Then offers of help poured in yesterday from a congressman, a union, two firms, the Small Business Administration and private citizens.

"Thank God and everybody," Negron said Monday night. "Now at least I have some hope."

Negron was stabbed in the back last May 22 as he went to the rescue of the policeman, who was attacked while attempting to arrest a suspected Negro burglar. The incident took place in a predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican section of the Bronx.

For his act, Negron was hailed as a hero but, afterwards, he said his closest friends, even Puerto Ricans, turned against him and he became a social outcast.

GOP Rips LBJ War, Home Views

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders say the State of the Union is less than good, the nation's world prestige is drooping and its domestic economy is threatened by inflationary Democratic spending.

This was the summation of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford as they ignited their "torch of dissent" to President Johnson's programs in a taped national broadcast Monday night.

Reviewing the world situation, Dirksen said that despite $120 billion spent on foreign aid, "our prestige on the world thermometer of good will has dropped fast and far."

He called for continuing war and peace efforts in Viet Nam. In each, he said, there can be "no substitute for victory" — no withdrawal and no negotiation from weakness which "would mean defeat before we ever reached the negotiation table."

Ford denounced the "inflationary policies of the President" which he said had increased the cost of government $26 billion in two years. He called for sharp budget pruning of domestic programs he said would eliminate the need for $1 billion in new taxes Johnson has asked.

Democratic reaction was speedy.

House Speaker John W. McCormack said the Republicans were "a little presumptuous" in billing their effort as a GOP "State of the Union" message. It was the President's job to make such a report, he added.

However, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he is glad the Republican leadership "had a chance to deliver its message to the people of the United States."

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., a Senate Foreign Relations committeeman, said Dirksen was "blowing both hot and cold" on Viet Nam while purporting to support the President.

The Republican leaders chose the old Supreme Court room of the Capitol for their televised addresses. They packed it with a partisan audience of about 200 — including about 60 of their House members and a dozen senators — coached in advance to give "vigorous applause" that could be recorded for the television-radio audience.

Dirksen's review of international affairs drew little sustained applause because he dealt largely in generalities. But Ford brought the Republicans to their feet with thunderous applause by his demands for "truth in budgeting by the White House" and his attack on what he called "the bad odor of political bossism" in the anti-poverty program.

The White House said Johnson is maintaining "flexibility of decision" and has set no deadlines for ending his current peace offensive.

Dirksen advocated an overhaul of the foreign aid program to limit assistance to projects which would provide "dividends in the form of good will and real devotion to peace and freedom."

Ford said education is the key to solving the problems of racial tensions, unskilled youths, school dropouts, and those needing vocational training.

CONTROLLER SAYS HE'LL RUN AGAIN

Cranston Issues Challenge For Job —He Likes Work Of Important Position

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Alan Cranston, first Democratic state controller in this century, announced formally today his candidacy for a third term.

The 51-year-old incumbent made known his plans in a news release, plus the usual swing by plane to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento news conferences.

He listed four reasons for seeking re-election:

The challenge of the next four years.

"I like the work."

"It's an important job."

"I think I've done a good job."

Cranston was first elected in 1958, and voted in again in 1962. He lost a close race in 1964 for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination.

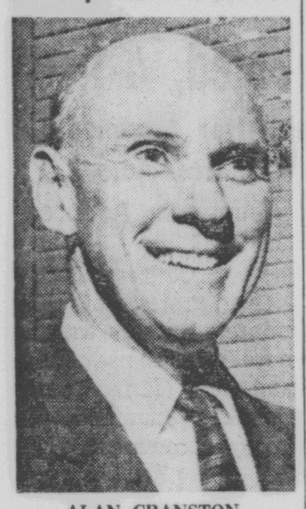
Although he as yet has no opponent from either party, Cranston said he is "not at all cocky about an easy ride to victory in 1966."

There are two reasons for this, he explained.

"First, I suspect that I have been tabbed as a target for extinction by political extremists in California," because of speeches denouncing extremists on all sides.

"Second, the problem of financing a campaign." This will be complicated, he said, because he no longer will accept financial contributions from the corps of state inheritance tax appraisers he appoints.

Cranston lashed out at Republican candidates for governor Ronald Reagan and George Christopher—"one a right-wing refugee from Death Valley and the other a two-time loser in statewide campaigns."



ALAN CRANSTON
'Not at all cocky'

The big issue of 1966, the controller said, will be a choice between "the tested, sound, reliable and progressive leadership in Sacramento now, and the negative platitudes of inexperienced challengers ... Republican leaders face deep, ideological divisions which cannot be bridged no matter how many harmony statements they issue."

Democrats, he said, will unite for the campaign.

Apology For Jackie

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes has publicly apologized for a suggestion by the Ocean County Democratic Committee that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy run for the U.S. Senate. Hughes, a Democrat, said the move was "deplorable ... a discourteous bandying of the name of this wonderful and distinguished lady."

Shriver To Wear One Hat, That Of Poverty War Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sargent Shriver today began full time duties as the war on poverty's director.

Within minutes of President Johnson's announcement yesterday that Shriver was leaving his dual role as Peace Corps director and poverty program chief, Shriver responded to GOP cutback demands.

He said Republicans had opposed the program from the start and "some of the things they are saying today are exactly the same things they said two years ago ...."

"I think the specific charges they are making today are greatly exaggerated and without much foundation in fact."

To succeed Shriver in the Peace Corps, Johnson returned Jack Hood Vaughn to the corps from his State Department position as assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Vaughn, 45, was formerly director of the Latin American program of the Peace Corps.

Shriver had directed the Peace Corps since its inception in 1961.

Psychiatrist Again Tells Views On Teaching Drinking

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Harvard psychiatrist Dr. Morris E. Chafetz says many people have misconstrued his proposal that lessons in drinking alcohol be given in public schools.

"I'm not trying to sell drinking, and I'm not trying to encourage my own children — or any children — to drink. I'm just trying to help them develop a healthy, responsible attitude toward alchohol," he said last night.

"I believe in and respect the individuality of children. I don't believe in treating them as non-human beings until they're 21, then expecting them to suddenly assume adult responsibility they've never had to experience."

He said he has taught his own sons — Adam, 8, Marc, 12, and Gary, 18 — to drink liquor or leave it alone.

"It's always available to our children," he said and added that the two youngest strongly dislike it.

Chafetz said he prefers the teaching of social drinking in the home, rather than in school.

Mill Valley Gives Mid-Year Raises

City of Mill Valley employees in 18 categories last night received a mid-year one-step raise retroactive to Jan. 1.

City councilmen approved the cost of $4,400 for the remainder of the fiscal year, to come from the city's contingent fund.

Police Lt. William Walsh, president of the employees association, requested that salaries be brought up to the median of a control group of Bay Area cities, saying, "Come July, we will be back in the position we are right now." Walsh cited increase in cost of living and an increase in social security due to Medicare having taken "quite a cut" from each employee's salary.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer recalled that last year it was agreed that salaries would be reviewed at mid-year and, if they were found to be dropping behind, an increase would be requested.

"We have surveyed the control group of cities and discovered 18 positions have dropped substantially below the median," he said.

A fireman who has been receiving a top salary of $644 per month will be raised to $660. A police patrolman, formerly at $660, will receive $676.

John DeBecker asker the council if every city employee is supposed to live within the city limits. Balmer replied: "No, they can live any place they choose. One reason is that due to the higher cost of real estate in Mill Valley." He said all except two live in Marin.

The council heard a report by investment counselor James McNab, and asked Balmer to check with Occidental Life Insurance Co. to see about removing about $85,000 in employees funds still tied up with that company.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

1. Adopted an ordinance rezoning the area covered by the east Mill Valley general plan, a large portion of which has been unclassified, as open area and commercial-recreational.

2. Adopted an ordinance establishing 25-mile-per-hour speed limit on Camino Alto between East Blithedale and Miller avenues. Speed has been 35.

3. Heard commendation of the police department by Acting Mayor Albert E. White for "stamping out crime in the city."

4. Authorized publication of April 12 election notices. Candidates may file from Jan. 27 to noon Feb. 17. This year, for the first time, the candidate has a choice of writing 150 words of his qualifications which will be printed separately at his expense, Balmer said.

5. Authorized Balmer, City Engineer Stanley M. Bala and Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon to review development plans, including master plan, contract for soil engineering and bulkhead design, of small craft harbor improvements.

6. Heard from Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks that selection of an architect for the public safety building has been narrowed to two and they are to show sketches to a council subcommittee in two weeks.

7. Designated Councilman George E. Wickham to head a committee to propose policy changes regarding city and private property owners' requirements in developing streets.

8. Approved library board action rescinding the right of Mrs. John P. Farnham, board chairman, to approve change orders up to $250 on the new public library, thus eliminating any conflict of interest since Mrs. Farnham now works for the architectural firm which designed the building.

9. Authorized Balmer to call for bids for library furnishings, estimated at $50,000 (exclusive of carpeting estimated at $16,000).

10. Voted to retain Royston, Hanamoto, Mayes and Beck, landscape architects, to prepare a diagrammatic plan for Boyle Park improvement at a cost of $500.

11. Continued request of Corte Madera Sanitary District that the city provide sewer service for Madera Park subdivision, which is in Corte Madera but within Mill Valley watershed, pending further meetings of Balmer with Corte Madera town officials.

Mayor Michael Wornum was absent.

Ross Forgoes Poverty Cash For Schools

Under title one of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, Ross district would have been entitled to $1,010.68, said Supt. William W. Monahan.

"There was some debate as to whether Ross could be called an impoverished area exactly," he said, "but in any case the amount is so small the board members considered it not worth while applying for."

The board set for Jan. 28 a day-long institute of faculty and specialists in the teaching of reading and mathematics. Monahan said the staff will discuss different methods and types of teaching with experts in these two fields.

Members also approved changes and additions to board policy bringing it in line with new state laws. They included increasing the amount of sick leave available to staff.

New Charge In Marijuana Case

A felony charge of possession of marijuana was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against a 32-year-old Mill Valley man arrested Sunday with an alleged $30,000 cache of marijuana in his home.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Cary Thomas said Melkin Melkonian, 424 West Blithedale Avenue, will be arraigned in Marin County following arraignment in San Francisco County Municipal Court on a felony complaint charging sale of the weed.

Melkonian was booked in San Francisco County Jail in lieu of $1,100 bail after his Mill Valley arrest by state narcotics agents and Mill Valley police. Thomas said about 55 pounds of marijuana was seized in Melkonian's house.

City-Owned TV Cables Studied In Mill Valley

Should a city go into the community television antenna business?

Acting Mayor Albert E. White last night posed the question to Mill Valley city council in a discussion of a proposed community antenna television ordinance.

No action was taken, the subject being continued to Feb. 7 when City Atty. Leland H. Jordan will give councilmen a second draft of the ordinance and City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer is to have investigated propriety of the municipal function.

Noting there are five or six applications for franchises, White said "this is undoubtedly a desirable thing to have in the city.

"I would like to know how feasible it would be for the city to enter into this operation as a city function, and where the council feels this is an appropriate thing to even consider before we even grant a franchise," he said. "I'm amazed at the number of outfits willing to sell this service."

Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks noted it would be of interest to know what cities are engaged in the business. A television cable representative in the audience said only two or three cities in the nation provide the service.

Councilman William M. Secor asked the cost to install antenna service for the City of Mill Valley and was told an estimate is $5,000 per mile at 45 miles, or about $200,000, with all lines going overhead. Underground facilities are more expensive.

"The quicker we get it underground the better," said Secor.

The city now has no antenna service.

Jordan said the proposed ordinance, similar to that of Sausalito authorizes the city to issue one or more franchises either to cover the entire city or portions of it. It provides the franchise holder must pay the city a compensation equal to two per cent of gross annual receipts, and reserves the city the right to review rates charged by the franchise holder.

School Districts Unit Postpones Meeting

Meeting of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization scheduled at the Civic Center tomorrow has been cancelled, Robert Stannard, assistant county superintendent of schools, announced today.

Next meeting will be Feb. 15. By then the committee will have word of the state board of education's action on proposed unification of the Tomales High School District area and three unified districts in the Tamalpais High School District area.

Mill Valley Given Money By Citizens

The Mill Valley City Council looked two gifts in the eye last night and readily accepted them.

One was a check for $200 from the Highlands Assn., to be used to help pay for a bulkhead to be built on a pedestrian and bicycle pathway bordering the municipal golf course on Buena Vista Avenue. The check was presented to Acting Mayor Albert E. White by association president Robert G. Moore.

The second check was from Almonte Improvement Club. A letter from President Herbert Davis said the money is to be placed in other parts of Mill Valley," said Dean Meyer in the audience. "They are not a luxury but a necessity."

Strong State Birth Control Law Proposed

A stringent birth control program in California is one way the state could solve the problem of rising immigrant population, Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of Planned Parenthood - World Population, said here yesterday.

Speaking at a meeting of the Planned Parenthood Assn. of Marin at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael, he cited California as an example of a state with "certain responsibilities."

He said: "I do not think California would look unfavorably on some form of population control, particularly because of the large number of immigrants flocking here from all over the country.

"It would give you time to consolidate your housing and your schools and to increase facilities to deal with this new influx."

Conservationists, too, he said, are concerned with the inroads being made into wide open spaces by the growing population.

He considered that if the present one-an-one-half per cent increase a year could be reduced to three-quarters, it would help matters.

Turning to other aspects of population control in the United States, Dr. Guttmacher said militant Negroes who advocated an increase in the birth rate would not help the situation of their race.

"There are more intelligent ways to gain equality than by stuffing ballot boxes," he declared.

Some militants, he said, were calling for 60 million Negroes by 1980. There are now 21 million Negroes in this country.

"We whites owe a great duty to the Negro. Our misdeeds in the past have to be made good by equality of opportunity and jobs. Then the Negro will gain his ends," said Guttmacher.

"But just to increase the numbers . . . I cannot honestly believe this can improve the situation."

The argument is one Planned Parenthood is finding hard to counter, however, he said.

"These militants will have nothing to do with us. They believe we are a white organization selling them down the river," he said.

Army, Marines Slated For Most Of Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The vast bulk of the 113,000 additional fighting men sought by the Johnson administration will be used to strengthen Army and Marine ground forces, it was learned today.

American ground forces are shouldering an ever-greater combat load in the Viet Nam war.

The Navy and Air Force each will get only a few thousand more men in the new buildup, which will push total U.S. armed strength over the 3-million mark for the first time in a dozen years.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told newsmen at the White House yesterday that the administration will ask Congress to vote another $12.356 billion to underwrite the soaring costs of the U.S. involvement in Viet Nam. The White House said $415 million will also be asked for economic purposes, bringing the supplemental total to $12.761 billion.

The new administration money request—heralded as long ago as last summer—will be sent to Capitol Hill today and McNamara will give the specifics in testimony before senators on Thursday.

This is the second major supplementary money request and military manpower increase for this year stemming directly from the deeper U.S. commitment in Viet Nam.

Last August, when the basic decision was made to put large American ground forces into the battle, Congress granted the administration another $1.7 billion and authorized an increase of 340,000 men, mostly for the Army.

The second installment will boost the manpower ceilings to a point more than 450,000 above the level anticipated at the time the big Viet Nam buildup was ordered last summer.

McNamara said that only $4.6 billion of the new installment will be spent before this fiscal year ends next June 30, the rest later.

Together with the $1.7-billion Viet Nam supplement voted last summer, this will increase defense spending this year to $54.2 billion, about $6 billion more than had been anticipated.

The new supplemental money request for Viet Nam will be followed next Monday by the main defense budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1. This will total $58.3 billion, according to the White House, with a significant portion of that to be spent for supporting the war in Viet Nam.

Women who drive it call it cute
Men who drive it call it gung-ho
We who build it call it Corvair

The happy fact is that Corvair's got a lot of unusual advantages for men and women.

The steering's as quick and agile for one sex as for the other (engine weight's on the rear wheels, so the front ones turn easier).

The car churns right through slush, sand and gravel as readily for one as for the other (engine weight on the rear wheels keeps them gripping on most any surface).

The ride feels stable and solid for everybody because Corvair has four-wheel independent suspension (and only Corvette among U.S. cars can match that).

There can't be any partiality in the economy either. For instance, everyone gets an air-cooled engine, so no one's got a radiator to fill with antifreeze.

And everyone gets the same standard safety features, including front and rear seat belts, windshield washer, dual-speed wipers with electric motor, padded instrument panel and sun visors, back-up lights, outside rearview mirror and shatter-resistant inside rearview mirror (use both as a double check before pulling out to pass).

So if you're a woman who'd welcome a car full of fresh driving sensations, all you have to do is see your Chevrolet dealer. And if you're a man, ditto.

The Stanfords said they found their bathroom window pried three-quarters of the way open when they returned home at 10:30 p.m. Saturday. A neighbor said she heard someone run away from the apartment as the Stanfords arrived. Nothing was missing.

Chief Clark said he could not discount the possibility that Dellinger might still be somewhere in the area, but that with the stolen money and civilian clothing, the convict could have easily gone away on a bus.

Prison officials place the time of Dellinger's escape over the 20-foot high wall at 4 a.m. Friday. From there, Chief Clark said, he could have walked to the construction site under the cover of thick fog which hung over the area all day.

Clarke theorized that Dellinger waded through marshlands along Corte Madera Creek to the wooded area just below the site. His prison pants, the chief said, were wet and muddy when found.

Dellinger, who was sentenced to life in prison for the 1958 slaying of his stepfather in Kern County, was considered a model prisoner by San Quentin authorities and was made night watchman at the prison textile factory, where the wall is unguarded after midnight.

He scaled the prison wall with a ladder, then lowered himself to the ground on the other side with a rope.

He has brown hair, blue eyes, is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 158 pounds. He has several tattoos on his arm, including the Marine Corps motto, "Death Before Dishonor."

Auto Crash Victim's Condition Still Poor

Larry Gene Bridges, 19, of 39 Manor View, Sleepy Hollow, one of three men injured in an auto accident in front of San Rafael Improvement Club Building yesterday, remained in poor condition today at Marin General Hospital. He suffered a skull fracture and multiple cuts and bruises.

Others involved in the crash, John Richard Store, 19, of 46 Mariele Drive, Sleepy Hollow, and Peter Henry Dingman, 21, of 1913 Center Road, Novato, were still in fair condition today.

Nuclear Engineer Runs Amok With Gun, Kills Self

UPTON, N.Y. (UPI) —A nuclear engineer, described as "a very quiet and friendly person," went berserk today at the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory, seriously wounding three colleagues with a shotgun before committing suicide.

FBI agents and Suffolk County police were called to the laboratories, situated 40 miles from New York City.

Officials identified the engineer as Michael Maresca, 34, of East Patchogue, N.Y., the father of three children. His victims were reported in fair to good condition at Brookhaven Memorial Hospital.

A spokesman for the laboratory said there appeared to be "no reason at all" for the shooting. Maresca was a veteran reactor evaluation engineer and had worked at Brookhaven since 1958. He recently returned from a vacation in Florida.

Authorities said Maresca brought a shotgun into a large laboratory of the complex shortly before noon EST, thereby violating a Brookhaven regulation. Without explanation, he blasted away at James R. Powell, a nuclear engineer, Martin S. Zucker, an associate physicist, and Leif Hjarne, a visiting assistant physicist from Sweden.

Maresca then dashed outside to his car, placed the shotgun barrel inside his mouth, and killed himself, officials said. His body was found by Brookhaven personnel and police.

Fire Department's Glad To Lend A Hand

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A burning trash truck made a run to Fire Station No. 35, but there was only one fireman on hand — a battalion chief — and he had only a garden hose.

The other firemen were testing their equipment at the Fire Department Academy. The garden hose was inadequate, so a pumper truck from Station No. 4 rumbled over to No. 35 and put out the fire.

Youth Accused Of Auto Burning

Israel Whittaker, 21, was arrested at a Woodacre house yesterday by Fairfax Police Patrolman Gurnie Cook and charged with burning a stolen auto on San Geronimo Valley Drive Friday.

Whittaker, whose address was given as "all points Marin County," was booked at the county jail on charges of possessing stolen property and arson of a motor vehicle. He was held in $6,050 bail.

He was later re-booked on a charge of the theft of a stove found in the house where he was arrested, 34 Crescent Lane, Woodacre.

The car, gutted by fire, is believed to have been taken from Fairfax and the license plates stolen from San Francisco.

Pedestrian Tragedy Also Fatal To Driver

HEPPENBACH, Belgium (AP) — A car skidded on a snow-covered road here just as a 6-year-old boy ran out of a school entrance. The boy was killed.

The driver, a 67-year-old doctor, got out of his car and collapsed with a heart attack. He also died.

on just one area of the county. He said it was not in line with constituted rights.

"That's fairness?" he asked. "I think not."

Schultz's position was supported by several in the audience, including attorney Bryan R. McCarthy, representing a group of owners, and Melvin Rupp of the Marin Property Owners Assn.

Peter D. Whitney, secretary of the Inverness Property Owners Assn., declared the committee's recommendation would not be appreciated in Inverness, for the 10,000-foot lots to be allowed in the area would tend to destroy "the historical core of the town."

In another matter, the commission also went against Whitney's request. Commissioners voted 5-0 to recommend resort and commercial recreation on 14 acres owned by Larry Marks Jr. along the bay shore north of the Golden Hind Boatel. The land is adjacent to Whitney's property. He wanted single family zoning there.

Included in the action yesterday was recommendation that Shoreline Highway follow the floor of the Olema Valley to Bolinas Junction rather than Bolinas Ridge.

Dougherty said to clear up confusion about earlier action, the route recommended for Shoreline Highway would follow around the southwest side of Marincello to connect through Tunnel Road with the Golden Gate bridge.

The commission recommended that the 700 acres owned by Waldo Giacomini at the southern end of Tomales Bay could be developed with residential lagoons and some commercial recreation if public purchase for open space failed to come about.

The commission's recommendation will go to supervisors a week from today, at which time they will set a public hearing.

U.S. planes did not attack targets in Communist North Viet Nam. The truce in the air war against the North began at 6 p.m., Dec. 24 at the start of the 30-hour Christmas cease fire.

Late today, a large force of Viet Cong ambushed to platoons of Vietnamese troops in Vinh Binh Province 60 miles south of Saigon. The Viet Cong opened up with automatic weapons, small arms fire, grenades and mortars, inflicting moderate casualties before withdrawing after about an hour.

The Communists launched three simultaneous attacks before dawn today at targets around Binh Hiep, 50 miles est of Saigon. A squad of government defenders was wiped out at a watchtower four miles South of the town. The Viet Cong also attacked a platoon four miles north of Binh Hiep, inflicting moderate casualties, and were turned back in a third raid against the Thanh Tri resettlement center six miles to the northeast.

U.S. Marines today terminated "Operation Mallard," a six-day sweep 16 miles south of Da Nang. A spokesman said final totals for the operation showed 34 Viet Cong killed, 29 captured and 221 suspects detained.

U.S. Strategic Air Command B-52 bombers from Guam were airborne again today, this time striking Viet Cong bunkers and entranched positions in Tay Ninh Province about six miles from the Cambodain border.

Political infighting among South Viet Nam's military leaders again raised fears of trouble for the seven-month-old government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. He was reported to have told a battalion of army troops at Saigon airport yesterday that "5 to 50" generals were seeking to overturn his regime.

Rumors of an impending coup swept Saigon over the weekend during the visit of Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Most of the country's top military leaders were in Saigon at the time. The rumors subsided later.

The measure which became a law Aug. 6 resulted in the abolition of literacy and other voter qualification tests in seven Southern states. Nearly 250,000 Negroes have registered to vote in those states since the act took effect.

Attorneys for South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana argued that the act was an inappropriate device to enforce the Constitution's 15th Amendment, which prohibits denial of voting rights because of race or color.

They argued also that Congress was usurping judicial powers in applying the law to just a few states whose voter turnout or registration fell below 50 per cent in November 1964.

Novato Librarian's Condition Worsens

The condition of John J. Gallas, librarian for the Novato Unified School District, took a turn for the worse today at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, where he was admitted yesterday after a heart attack.

Gallas was listed in serious condition by the hospital. He was taken to the hospital after the seizure at his home at 213 Third Street, Sausalito.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Rey, Belvedere Succumbs

Mrs. Audrey Rey, former city treasurer of Belvedere and wife of Britton Rey, longtime city manager, died last night in a local hospital after a short illness. She was 69.

Mrs. Rey was born in Ellicott City, Md., but resided much of her life in Belvedere. She served 12 years as city treasurer, retiring in 1964 shortly before her husband retired as city manager.

Belvedere Mayor Merritt K. Ruddock, speaking on behalf of the city's official family, said today:

"All her fellow citizens of Belvedere are deeply saddened by the passing of Audrey Rey, a gallant lady, a dedicated public servant, and an irreplaceable friend. Without her, Belvedere could not be the community it is today. Her work will live on as we seek to achieve the goals for which she and her devoted husband worked tirelessly for so many years. Our hearts go out to Bing Rey and the other members of the family."

Mrs. Rey is survived by her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Jane Rey Van Keulin of Seattle; two sons, Robert R. and James L. Rey of Belvedere; four sisters, Mrs. Paul Stromberg, Mrs. Leah R. Bell, Mrs. Alex Donovan and Mrs. Walter Cheek, all of Maryland.

Parking Meter Thief Sentenced

Robert Earl Williams of San Francisco was sentenced in Marin Superior Court today to four months in county jail and placed on two years probation for looting San Rafael parking meters.

Williams, 30, pleaded guilty to the petty theft with a prior conviction on Dec. 21. Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales recommended a year's jail term be given by Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Board Votes Annex Of College Area

Marin County supervisors today approved annexation of the Marin County portion of Tomales High School District to the Marin Junior College District.

The action, which will require concurrence of the Sonoma County supervisors before it goes into effect, will put all but a small portion of the county—the Lincoln, Laguna and Burdell districts—in the college district. The portion of Tomales in Sonoma County would become part of the Santa Rosa Junior College District.

The Tomales district, not now in any junior college district, has supported Marin Junior College through a 10.5 cent per $100 assessed valuation "attendance" tax. With its annexation, the district tax, now at 77.5 cents, will be imposed.

Tam Trustees Approve Teachers Workshop

The Tamalpais High School District board last night unanimously approved summer workshop for art and industrial arts teachers, although two trustees voted some reservations.

Trustee J. M. Stubblebine said, "I'd like to see the industrial arts program related to other school programs. The students study the solar system in one class and I'd like to see them working with their hands and perhaps building a model of it in another class."

"I think you'll find that's what we are going to be trying to do in these workshops," said Joseph Rooney, Sir Francis Drake High School art teacher.

Trustee John C. Siemens said he was a little concerned about the $12,000 cost.

"Most of the cost is for teachers' and consultants' salaries," said Supt. Chester G. Carlisle. "I think you'll find the cost will be well worth it after you see the results."

The four-hour a day workshops for 17 teachers will be held at Redwood High School, Junee 22 to July 20, concurrent with the district's summer school.

The Tamalpais School District Board Also:

1. Approved a 1966-67 school calendar year of 176 days.

1. Hired Alice M. Nashashibi to teach Spanish at Tamalpais High School on a long-term substitute basis. She replaces Mrs. Iris Meyers, who has been granted a maternity leave.

3. Accepted the resignation of Reberta K. Koss, mathetics teacher at Redwood High School.

4. Awarded a $1,500 contract to E. D. Bullard Co. of Sausalito for 400 safety face shields and a $940 contract to American Optical Co. of San Francisco for 800 safety goggles, to be used in industrial arts classes. They were the only bidders.

5. Accepted as complete the swimming pool at Redwood High School. Contractor on the job was Herrero Brothers, Inc., of San Rafael.

Labor Boss Wants Wage Review Units

DETROIT (UPI) —United Autoworkers President Walter Reuther called yesterday for the creation of industrial review boards with members representing labor, management and the public to rule on price and wage increases in basic industries.

Reuther said the "tri-partisan boards" he envisioned now would be weighted in favor of the representative or representatives of the public. He said he would give the public members the decisive vote.

The UAW president said the boards should be set up in companies that produce more than 20 per cent of a basic commodity and for public employes.

He pointed to the New York City transit strike as an example of a breakdown in conventionaal negotiation machinery and said, "Society can no longer tolerate stoppages which endanger the very existence of that society."

Reuther, who several years ago advanced a plan for public review boards for such industries, said under his latest proposal, both labor—when seeking wage increases—and price increases—would be answerable to the board.

Coin Cache Linked To Dope Raid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A coin collection valued at more than $10,000, was turned up by Federal narcotics agents last night in an apartment raid.

Today authorities were trying to establish ownership.

Fred Dick, U.S. narcotics supervisor, quoted the arrested man, Norman J. Mosher, 26, as saying the coins were obtained in Los Angeles. There was no further explanation.

Some of the coins were found in two suitcases in an adjoining yard. Others were in to boxes found in a bedroom of the raided apartment.

Mosher and an ex - convict, Richard Potter, 36, were charged with possession and sale of 22 pounds of mairjuana.

Dick said Potter served more than nine years in Folsom, Chino and San Quentin for armed robbery. He was picked up on a street corner after making a sale. Then agents arrested Mosher at his sister's apartment.

Dick said Mosher was carrying his sister's baby in his arms when the agents showed up; on seeing them, Mosher dropped the baby and ran but as overtaken.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert C. Weaver was sworn in today as the nation's first Negro Cabinet member. He took his oath of office as secretary of housing and urban affairs at a White House ceremony.

President Johnson said Weaver's task as the first man to head the new Cabinet department "is to build our cities anew."

Weaver, former head of the federal housing agency, was nominated for the Cabinet position Thursday and unanimously confirmed by the Senate yesterday.

Robert C. Wood, who has been head of the political science department at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was sworn in, along with Weaver, as undersecretary of the department.

"This is a proud moment for America."

"It is the beginning of an exciting adventure. We are setting out to make our cities places where the good life is possible . . .

"Bob Weaver has his charge. It is to build our cities anew."

The President also announced at the ceremony that he is appointing Ambassador Lincoln Gordon to be assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Gordon, who has been serving in Brazil, will succeed Jack Hood Vaughn who was named head of the Peace Corps by Johnson yesterday.

Los Angeles GOP Leader In Race

Jud Leetham, 47, chairman of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee, announced today he will seek the Republican nomination for attorney general.

If elected, he promised a change in "the trend toward disregard of our laws and the lack of interest in our shockingly mounting crime rate."

He attended public schools in Phoenix, Ariz., then went to Stanford University. Hovercraft Test Revenues Off, But Will Go On

The Oakland Board of Port Commissioners has acted to continue the jet skimmer "hovercraft" project through the summer months in spite of curtailed schedules.

Commissioners learned yesterday that passenger revenues for the project's first five months are lower than originally estimated, and according to Ben E. Nutter, port executive director, it will require approximately $120,000 to support the service through the high travel volume summer months to August.

The amphibious air cushion vehicles are being tested in passenger service here to determine their adaptability to mass transit.

Nutter explained that night operations have been ruled out by the U.S. Coast Guard and a 50 knot speed limit placed on the craft which is capable of speeds up to 80 knots.

Count Both Winners, Losers In Making Difficult Contract

If you have too many losers, concentrate on getting rid of one.

This is good advice, but with a difficult hand in which you must ruff in dummy as well as in your own hand, count your winners as well as the losers.

South won the first trick with the queen of diamonds and cashed the top hearts to get rid of a spade.

This good play cost him his contract.

South ruffed a heart and led his other spade.

West took the ace of spades and led another trump.

SOUTH STILL LOSES

At this point South held one trump and five clubs. Dummy had two trumps, a good heart, and K-x-x of spades.

No matter how he played, South had to lose two more tricks.

If South led his trump to draw West's last trump, dummy could cash the heart but would have to give up the two low spades.

If South, instead, ruffed a club in dummy to ruff a low spade, he could not get back to dummy to draw the last trump.

In this case, dummy would not get a trick with the ten of hearts.

ONE TRICK SHORT

The best chance is to save a spade entry to dummy.

Then he leads a spade. West takes the ace of spades and leads another trump to dummy's jack.

South ruffs another heart, leads a spade to the king (the crucial trick) and ruffs a spade.

Now he can ruff a club with the seven of diamonds, draw the last trump with the ace of diamonds and cash the ten of hearts as the eleventh trick.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ A Q J
♥ Q 4 2
♦ 5 3 2
♣ A 9 8 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass or bid one club.

You would prefer to open if you had a good sprinkling of tens and nines or even if you had three small hearts and four clubs headed by the ace-queen.

A queen is more valuable when acompanied by the ace or king of the same suit.

Supervisors Split On Fire Appointee

Marin County supervisors voted 3-2 today to appoint Henry Alvernaz to a vacancy on the Novato Fire District commission, overruling the wishes of the commission, Novato Fire Chief George J. Cavallero, and Supervisor William A. Gnoss.

Gnoss, whose district includes Novato, and Supervisor Thomas T. Storer were in the minority.

Gnoss recommended appointment of Robert Busher to fill the vacancy left by Robert Campbell's resignation from the commission. Campbell resigned to become a fireman with the district.

Busher also was recommended by the remaining two members of the commission and the chief. He is executive officer of H. Pini Feed Co. in Novato. Alvernaz is a county employee: chief dispatcher in the communications department.

Alvernaz made a strong plea for his appointment before the board. He said he and Joseph F. Silveira tied in the election last April, each getting 460 votes. Silveira was named to the position by flip of coin.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said he has "great faith in the elective process" and thought Alvernaz deserved the appointment. Supervisors Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Byron W. Leydecker agreed.

San Anselmo Lions' Sign Plea Is Opposed

San Anselmo Park and Recreation Commission last night voted to recommend the city council deny a request by the San Anselmo Lions Club for a service club sign in a landscaped area at Tunstead Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The sign was at that location before a bench and some landscaping were installed by the park and recreation department. Commissioners felt a sign would detract from the area, department director Andrew J. Snyder said.

Commissioners promised to consider installing hiking trails and picnic areas on the 60-acre, city-owned Sorich Ranch at the end of San Francisco Boulevard. Mrs. Anne West of the San Anselmo Homes Assn. requested the hiking trails. The ranch is earmarked as a future city park.

Commissioners heard a request by Mrs. Charles R. Lietzell, wife of the city engineer, for a gymnastics program for school children. They promised such an activity would be included in the summer program if an instructor can be found.

Once Ousted, Professor Will Return To Berkeley

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Dr. Eli Katz, dismissed from the faculty of the University of California at Berekley in 1964 in a civil liberties struggle, announced today he would return to the Berkeley campus at the invitation of its new chancellor.

Katz, now a professor of German at Western Reserve University here, was dismissed by former Chancellor Edward W. Strong when he refused to answer questions of the House Un-American Activities Committee. He had signed a university loyalty oath.

His dismissal set off a fight that brought faculty condemnation on Strong.

Katz said Roger Heyns, the new chancellor, had contacted him and urged him to return to the California faculty. A group of graduate students had urged his return in a petition.

"I am leaving Western Reserve with a great deal of regret," Katz said. "This university has been good to me. It has been a pleasant place to teach. But in many respects, California has been my home for a long time and I am looking forward to returning."

Prison Term Ordered In Girl Assault Case

Guy H. Cooper, 43, was given one to 20 years in state prison today in Marin Superior Court for assault with intent to rape a 19-year-old San Francisco girl on Jan. 10.

Cooper assaulted the girl at his apartment, 206 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo after holding her at knifepoint and forcing her to disrobe, San Anselmo police said. He pleaded guilty last Friday.

This Bandit Knew Where Money Was

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A lone gunman escaped with $3,000 last night after holding up the Evergreen Pharmacy at closing time. Clerk Samuel S. Totah, 27, said the bandit apparently knew what he wanted. He ordered Totah to hand over two canvas bags on the counter.

One contained $1,000 in store receipts. The other held $2,000 in Pacific Gas & Electric Co. collections.

Coach To Face Reduced Charge

Michael Joseph Diaz, 30, head basketball coach at San Rafael High School, was scheduled to plead in Marin Municipal Court today to an amended charge of battery.

The coach, of 416 Alameda de La Loma, Novato, originally was charged with assault with a deadly weapon on Sally Jane Hubbard, 90 Porteous Avenue, Fairfax, last Christmas at her home.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas said today the amended complaint was filed because of Diaz's "clean" record and circumstances of the alleged assault, which he said appeared to be a "lovers' quarrel."

Hub Planners Urge Action On New Mall

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night voted to recommend that the city council begin implementation of the town center plan by construction of a major thoroughfare to replace San Anselmo Avenue.

They recommended the street, 40 feet wide on a 60-foot right of way, be constructed closer to San Anselmo Avenue than shown on the Wilsey, Hamm and Blair report, guide for the town center plan.

The new street route was plotted by Commissioner Warren Perry. City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell said it would cut through 26 parcels of property. Most of which have old buildings on them, though one has "a fairly new apartment house."

The street would parallel San Anselmo Avenue from Ross Avenue to San Rafael Avenue, where it would cut over and join San Anselmo Avenue.

Commissioners urged that land between San Anselmo Avenue and the new street be zoned commercial. Land from the new street to Cedar Street should be zoned for high and medium density apartments, they said.

Commissioners last night also elected Perry to serve as chairman during 1966. Perry, who was vice chairman last year, replaces chairman Jerry W. Lloyd.

Soviets Honor Space Designer

MOSCOW (AP) — The genius whose designs put Soviet Cosmonauts in space first but whose identity was hidden until death by Kremlin secrecy was honored today by Soviet leaders with a big funeral in Red Square.

The ceremony contained a strong hint that the late Sergei Pavlovich Korolev may been the anonymous "chief designer" who headed the Soviet space program and gave the instructions from the ground control center during space flights.

The announcement Saturday of Korolev's death revealed that he had designed early Russian space ships.

Korolev died Friday at the age of 59. He had been operated on for removal of a cancer but death was officially attributed to heart failure.

Suspects Deny Slaying In San Rafael Bistro

Murder suspects Jack R. Gorman, 36, and Marc Charles Osuna, 30, both pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court today to the Labor Day slaying of San Rafael bartender Mario Ferrari.

An estimated five-week jury trial was scheduled by Judge Thomas F. Keating to start May 9 before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Judge Keating also granted a motion for a separate trial for Gorman on a second charge of armed robbery. He scheduled that jury trial for April 4, before Judge Harold J. Haley.

A second defendant in the robbery case, Harold Frank Percell, 24, pleaded guilty last Nov. 23 and was sentenced to six months in county jail. The robbery was that of Rudy's Liquor Store, 1835 Fourth Street, San Rafael, on Aug. 30.

Dist Atty. Bruce B. Bales objected to a separate trial on grounds that many of the same witnesses will appear in both murder and robbery cases.

Osuna and Gorman, both in San Quentin Prison as parole violators, are accused of shooting Ferrari to death during a robbery of Mission Inn in San Rafael.

Novato Little League Park Site, Cost Study Sought

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission last night asked for a study on possible location and construction cost of a Little League baseball park.

The Novato Little League, state champion last year, has been given the sectional playoffs for next summer, so the city must have a suitable ball park by July 1, said Recreation Director Edward W. Adams.

The commission voted to sponsor a farm league of the Little League. Adams was asked to determine costs and recommend a fee for the farm league. The Little League now charges $12, Adams said.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also added a section to its policy on teen-age dances that only those sponsored by the parks and recreation department, Novato Unified School District or a public youth group would be allowed at the Novato Community House. The motion will go before the city council for approval.

Brown Requests Flood Assistance

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown today asked President Johnson to declare Humboldt County a major disaster area, eligible for federal aid to repair storm damage.

Brown said storm damage in the county amounted to almost $7 million. Public facilities, such as streets, roads, bridges and buildings, suffered more than $4 million, he said in a telegram to the president.

Brown estimated the county would be eligible for some $1.6 million in federal assistance funds.

Tiburon Tourists Lose Camera, Wallet

John R. McDonough of Alameda told sheriff's deputies in Tiburon yesterday that his $100 Leica camera was stolen from on top of a cigarette vending machine in the Prince Charlie Inn in Tiburon, where he had placed it Sunday afternoon.

McDonough's companion, William T. Tierney of San Francisco, reported his wallet, containing credit cards but no money, vanished about the same time.

Instructor Training

Airman 3c Donald A. Droesch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Droesch of 8 Jefferson Avenue, Santa Venetia, has been graduated at Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex., from the course for electrical power specialists and is remaining at Sheppard for instructor training.

Woman Indicted In Mate's Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The grand jury last night voted to indict Mary Ada Schooley, 40, on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of her ex-convict husband.

Also named in the indictment was George Lyons Jr. Both were also accused of robbery.

Mrs. Schooley's husband, William, was found dead on a rock ledge at Devils Slide on the San Mateo County coast the day after Christmas. He had a .38-caliber slug in his head.

Mrs. Schooley and Lyons turned themselves in after police issued an all-points bulletin for their arrest.

Patrick Decries Campus Activity

Public facilities such as University of California should not be used to demoralize U. S. troops in Viet Nam, a gubernatorial hopeful from Tiburon told Berkeley Republican Women today.

"I strongly urge prosecution to the fullest extent of the law, against the VDC or any others who initiate and engage in such apparently seditious activities, both on and off campus," said Patrick.

Tonight, Patrick is scheduled to speak to the Contra Costa County Republican Central Committee in Martinez.

Burglar Takes TV Set In San Rafael House

A thief forced open a window and entered the home of Wenona K. Guaraldi at 23 Fowler Court, San Rafael, yesterday, taking a television set, some men's jewelry and bath towels, the owner told San Rafael police.

She said she discovered the burglary when she returned home from work.

Simmer orange slices in 1 cup of the peach syrup after bringing to a boil, for 10 minutes. Add ½ cup brown sugar, ⅓ cup cider vinegar, 1 three inch stick cinnamon, 4 whole cloves and 4 whole allspice. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Add drained peach halves and simmer 5 minutes. Cool. Cover tightly and refrigerate overnight. Makes about one quart.

Silverthorne Defense Cites Usury Concern

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Don C. Silverthorne's attorney said today the former head of the defunct San Francisco National Bank was advised by a bank examiner to put bank money into his own account to avoid state usury charges against the bank.

Attorney George Martinez outlined this key defense claim in his opening statement to a federal court jury trying Silverthorne and William S. Bennett, a money broker, on charges of misapplying bank funds.

Martinez said Silverthorne was told by the examiner that loan fees collected by the bank ran the overall interest cost "to a usury limit not countenanced by California state law."

Martinez quoted the examiner as telling Silverthorne:

"Why don't you do like the other bankers — put the money in your own account first and pay bank expenses from that account?"

Silverthorne's attorney said the examiner probably would contradict the accused banker's report. He said the defense would produce witnesses to corroborate the statement.

Under California law the nominal interest maximum is 7 per cent. It allows a top of 10 per cent in loans covered by written contracts. The law also includes, however, a host of exemptions.

Martinez said Silverthorne chose to play safe on the usury question and followed the advice to deposit "money taken in points"—loan fees — in his own account.

The government completed its case Friday.

Silverthorne is charged on 14 counts of bank fraud. Bennett is charged with count of conspiracy to defraud the bank and aiding in misapplication of funds.

Federal District Court Judge Charles L. Powell said there was not enough evidence against Bennett to require him to put up a defense on the three suspended counts.

The three counts accused Bennett of paying fees to Silverthorne for the privilege of borrowing from San Francisco National Bank.

Youth Imprisoned For Auto Theft

Timothy Vincent Ferranti, 20-year-old Redwood City youth shot last May 3 while stealing a car, was sentenced in Marin Superior Court today to one to five years in state prison.

Judge Thomas F. Keating made the sentence run concurrently with an auto theft sentence from San Mateo County.

Ferranti was shot by San Rafael Police Sgt. James W. Carlton while taking a vehicle owned by Gene D. Bluder, 275 Canal Street, San Rafael. He has been at California Medical Facility in Vacaville for 90 days observation.

Dog Death Laid To Neighbor

A misdemeanor charge in the shotgun killing of a neighbor's dog has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against John William Shirley of 15 Knoll Way, Los Ranchitos.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas said Shirley allegedly shot the terrier, Frisky, owned by Earl Van Note, 12 Farm Road, Los Ranchitos, last Sunday.

Shirley is scheduled for arraignment at 1:30 p.m. Jan 26. Thomas said he told sheriff's officers the dog was bothering his sheep and ducks.

Probation Report Ordered In Killing

Cancer Dinner Raises $3,000

More than $3,000 was raised for the American Cancer Society last night at a no-expense Project Victory dinner at Sabella's of Marin in Alto.

"It was a resounding success," said Nina Brandt, executive director of the Marin chapter, today. "We still haven't finished counting the proceeds."

Among performing guests were movie star Dennis Morgan, entertainer Allan Sherman, and football players Kermit Alexander and Clark Miller.

All proceeds go to the cancer fund. Restaurant owner Angelo Sabella donated the expense of the dinner. His employees again gave their services and time to the society.

Woman Smiles, Then Jumps Off Gate Span

A 21-year-old woman from Fair Oaks, Sacramento County leaped to her death from the Golden Gate Bridge at 2:20 p.m. yesterday after exchanging pleasantries with a bridge worker.

Adrienne L. Haxton parked her car at Vista Point and walked to the North tower of the bridge on the east side. On the way she passed bridge painter William Gavre of 54 Ross Avenue, San Anselmo, who said she smiled and said "hello," the California Highway Patrol reported.

Moments later, Gavre said, he saw her poised on the railing just before she leaped. Her body was recovered on the rocks at the base of the tower.

A note found in her car read: "I just couldn't stand it any longer. I just don't want to live like this."

Sit-In Leader Faces Warrant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A municipal judge issued a bench warrant Monday for Miss Tracy Sims, convicted of disturbing the peace during 1964 sit-in demonstrations seeking more jobs for Negroes.

Miss Sims, 20, the leader of the demonstrations, cannot be extradited from New York, where she now lives, for a misdemeanor offense.

Judge Lawrence S. Manna forfeited her $56 bail after she failed for the third time to appear for sentencing. She could be sentenced to 45 days in jail and fined $220.

She wrote her attorney she had undergone minor surgery and was not well enough to travel or serve a jail term.

Judge Manna, however, declared: "This is surgery of a minor nature and the court feels it has no alternative but to issue a bench warrant and forfeiture of bail."

Ecumenism To Be Rule For War On Poverty

It was a significant extension of the technique of interfaith cooperation developed during the 1964 battle for enactment of the Civil Rights act.

Established at a top-level, closed meeting here was a new body to be known as "The Inter-religious Committee Against Poverty."

Its mission is to mobilize the full weight of the nation's principal religious organizations for an effective and continuing fight against poverty.

The founders said the three major faiths are "united in the conviction that toleration of persistent poverty amid our national affluence is morally indefensible."

Joining in creation of the new committee were the National Council of Churches, which embodies 30 major Protestant and orthodox denominations; the National Catholic Welfare Conference (NCWC), the official secretariat of the U.S. Catholic hierarchy; and the Synagogue Council of America, which is a coordinating body for all three major branches of Judaism.

States Rebuffed On Taxing G.I.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today states may require servicemen to license and register their motor vehicles, but rejected attempts to collect personal property taxes on the vehicles.

Justice William J. Brennan wrote to separate opinions for a unanimous court in disposing of cases from Mississippi and California.

The decisions interpreted a section of the 1940 Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act. The section says a serviceman's exemption from taxation by a state where he is temporarily stationed, including automobile fees, if fees required by the serviceman's home state have been paid.

Seven Counted Dead In Crash

MADRID (UPI) —Investigators today combed the wreckage of a U.S. Strategic Air Command B-52 bomber and a KC-135 jet tanker in southeastern Spain in an effort to determine what caused them to collide during in-flight refueling yesterday. Seven airmen reportedly died in the cash.

Four survivors—all from the bomber—were being treated for minor injuries at a Strategic Air Command (SAC) base hospital near Madrid.

Rescue workers said they counted seven bodies in the wreckage. The Air Force said there were four survivors, four dead and three missing.

Rafferty Offers College Tactics

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Max Rafferty has offered junior college officials suggestions for handling campus disturbance.

In a letter to the officials yesterday, the Superintendent of Public Instruction noted that each college was empowered to set its own rules for student political activities.

Rafferty made seven recommendations, which included reviewing college regulations, establishing "rapport" with local law enforcement agencies, permitting administrators to act immediately on all campus problems with the local board becoming an appeal agency, advising students of regulations and keeping the faculty informed.

Players Producer Revives Theater

By BETTY FROST

"Little theater activities should be a community effort for self-development and enjoyment," said Lucille Shreve, producer of the Cove Players.

The founding of the Cove Players in the Belvedere-Tiburon area almost 15 years ago was the inspiration of Mrs. Shreve. Now, after several years of inactivity because no theater was available, she is spearheading a revival of the Players. The principles of fun and personal growth have proved sound, for a number of the original Players are eager to start in again.

AMONG THE founding members are Bill Carter, technical director; Laverne Cash, make-up artist; Reggie Petersen, prop man; Mrs. Robert Boat, a member of the board of directors, and Mrs. Bruce Keppel, who, says Mrs. Shreve, "will help out in any capacity needed." Bill Roberson is stage manager.

After having performed at schools, in a loft, a tent, the Officers' Club of the former Tiburon Naval Net Depot and a Tiburon movie theater, the rejuvenated company is now rehearsing at the theater-in-a-corner on Main Street in Tiburon.

"The Cove Players are looking forward to this new challenge," says their producer, "The new locations, suggested by Tommy Cox, a long-time Cove Players fan, is a banquet room above Cox's Restaurant on the Tiburon waterfront. We have chosen for our opening vehicle a light-hearted play with a small cast, 'Under The Yum Yum Tree'." The play will open Jan. 27.

Lucille, who is the wife of Nelson Shreve, an advertising man with a San Francisco firm, keeps house in what she calls a "miniature mansion" in Sausalito. Although no longer a resident of the Tiburon Peninsula, she is still very much interested in the Cove Players and still dreams of a permanent little theater for the area.

AS PRODUCER, she works closely with Dan Totheroh, whom she persuaded to work with the Cove Players over a decade ago. The two also work together on the Mountain Play, with Dan as director and Lucille as assistant director and producer.

Once the producer and the director have selected the play, the producer issues try-out notices, assists with casting, rehearsal schedules, obtains the wardrobe mistress, prop men, make-up artist, works with the publicists and photographers, and makes sure that the show goes on.

During the six weeks from try-outs to opening night, Mrs. Shreve takes care of all these responsibilities. Although smitten with the theater, she has no desire to act. She says she has "A lot of fun" in her avocations despite an occasional headache.

Her good-natured enthusiasm seems to be contagious. She insists that little theater is a family affair, and encourages husbands, wives, youngsters and sometimes even pets, to take part. If, for example, the husband has an active role, the wife may become the ticket-taker, and the children ushers. Lucille's husband, Nelson, helps out in many ways and always does the photography for the productions in which she is involved.

The Tamalpais High School Parent-Teacher Assn. is planning its first social event in many years to include all parents of students as well as the students themselves.

It is to be an international potluck dinner, with exchange students as honored guests, at Ruby Scott auditorium on Jan. 29.

Mrs. Richard Jessup, chairman, departed from the usual rummage sale this year, she said, because "I feel it is time the whole Tam family had a reunion."

Those attending the dinner will bring a dish prepared from a foreign recipe. After dinner there will be entertainment directed by Donald Michaelian assisted by Mrs. Hubert James. Included will be a comedy skit by the Joe Allens and folk songs by Marianna Adler.

There will be other comedy skits, folk dancing, singing by local artists, students and faculty members with Bill Gavin, Mill Valley radio personality, as master of ceremonies. The show will be followed by dancing to records.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Making Trek To The Crosby

By MOLLY MARIN

With the Crosby tournamet opening in two days, several golf enthusiasts from Marin are planning to make the trek to Pebble Beach for the four-day series and entertainment. The Meadow Club set will have quite a representation, as usual, including the William Carewes and Huntley Bennetts of Ross, G. Edward Frenches, Gene Vayssies, Rudy Langs of San Rafael, Henry Martins of Corte Madera and William Scott Andersons of Kentfield. Joining the group will be the Charles Wintons of Modesto and the Sam Arnolds of the Peninsula. Mrs. John Allen Jr. of Ross will be with the Don Earlys of the Peninsula, who formerly lived in Marin . . .

SEVEN MARIN women will be among the hostesses for the annual fashion gala of the Junior League of San Francisco at the Hilton. Wearing the red, white and navy ensembles for the Feb. 9 Americana event will be Mesdames Richard F. Cahill and Christopher Rivers Jr. of Belvedere, Donald F. Wilcox and Miss Katherine Kirk of Ross, Mesdames Walter Coulson of Kentfield and Kirk Frederick and Robert W. Dawson Jr. of San Rafael.

VISITING IN BELVEDERE before embarking on a round the world cruise Thursday are Mr. and Mrs. Alex V. Fortey of Vancouver, B. C. The Forteys are the house guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Kennedy. Belvedere neighbors of the Kennedys, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Selby, honored the travelers Sunday at a cocktail party. On their return from the 90 day voyage aboard the President Roosevelt the couple from Canada will stay with the Belvedere family, then go on to see other relatives in Las Vegas.

LEAVING NEXT WEEK for a raft voyage along the coast of Mexico will be Mill Valley's remarkable 74-year-old traveler, Miss Roberta Winans. The trip is sponsored by the American River Tour Assn., the group with which she took a raft trip down the Grand Canyon several years ago. The party this time will be composed of as many rafts as are necessary to accommodate from 18 to 40 people who will be going. The rafts, Miss Winans said, are of the rubber-like neoprene with wood floors and canopies that were made for the U.S. Navy.

Leaving from Oakland on Monday, the intrepid Miss Winans will drive to Texacatita, Mexico, where the party will board the rafts. Her friends have been trying to persuade her not to go, she said, fearing exposure to the weather would be hazardous, but they will be in a tropical climate and will actually wear tropical clothing like muu muus and shifts. The water is warm enough day and night for swimming, she said. All meals will be cooked and served by the crew, and the travelers will sleep on air mattresses in sleeping bags so that the whole adventure promises not to be too strenuous, she says.

The party will sail north along the coast and will stop a day in Puerta Vallarta, but the rest of the time they will camp on uninhabited beaches and hike inland at points where there are no roads to villages in which the natives have never seen white people. Their only contact with the world is by sea. The voyage will end at Guadalajara, where Miss Winans will spend a day before starting the drive home.

THE BELVEDERE SAILING SOCIETY will have its annual membership meeting and dinner at the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere on Monday, with a cocktail hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 o'clock. Mrs. James K. Levorsen of Belvedere is reservations chairman.

THE WALTER J. TAITS of Loch Lomond are rejoicing over news of the birth of their first grandchild, a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bobrick (Janet Tait) of Woodland Hills. The little girl has been named Cheryl Lynne.

HOME AFTER a visit to Santa Barbara, where they entertained their granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kreutzkampf who live in the Channel city, are the Bruce Johnstones of Inverness. The Johnstones spent the holidays at the Santa Barbara Biltmore Hotel.

ner and the open air production of Peer Gynt at the Mountain Theater this spring will be fascinating, she says. "At the Mountain Play, with such a large cast, we always have the air of a family picnic during rehearsals."

ONE TREND in little theater in Marin County that the lady producer finds "very healthy and good" is the exchange of directors and actore throughout the county. The try-outs for "Under the Yum Yum Tree" brought people from all over Marin, as well as other parts of the Bay Area.

AN ALL-Marin cast was chosen as it turned out. Maudee Wilcutt of Kentfield, Lionel Stott of Ross, Carolyn Purse of Novato and John Peebles of Sausalito have the major roles.

The Cove Playere, now back in action, have a full program scheduled.

With such a demanding hobby, does Mrs. Shreve have time for any other activities? Yes, indeed. She plays golf, has accepted an invitation to join the Sausalito Woman's Club, maintains a household which includes two dogs and three Siamese cats, has a part-time job with a Tiburon Music Co., and travels to Mexico frequently. . . . What she'd like to do now is learn to pilot a helicopter. . . .

WITTY, KNITTY

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

FLORENCE, Italy — You are going to notice women this spring. Italian boutique designers have decided that.

Dark-eyed, dark-haired manikins demonstrated this on a runway in Pitti Palace here where crystal chandeliers hang low over the audience of buyers and fashion press attending a three-day session of spring collection openings.

AMONG the fashion-approved methods of demanding attention this spring will be: Make the clothes bright, make them black and white, make them tight, make them witty, and make them knitty.

Possibly safety was the reason for creative brilliant-hued raincoats that could be seen on white checks, bold orange linings, bright borders all were eye-opening design methods for coats with matching hoods and boots.

FOR SUNNY days were bikinis that were attention-getting enough without their vivid colors. Apron skirts that wrapped around some bikini-clad models did nothing to make homebodies out of them. One little after-swim coatdress was tied around a yellow bikini costume in such a way as to keep the perky yellow bra exposed.

As grandmother made patchwork quilts, Italian knitwear designers Inesmarina, Lida, Nardini, Romnaita and Golf Tricots stitched together wild sections of color. Sometimes the color of each pants leg was different. Often a doublet flipping over these was still another color.

Dr. Spock— Parents Have To Be Firm

Dr. Benjamin Spock has warned parents to keep their children in line — even those as young as a year and a half—lest they turn into tyrants.

The famous pediatrician complained about "how far we have gone in America in emphasizing the rights of children and limiting the rights of adults. Whatever happened?" asked Dr. Spock in a current magazine article.

"I believe that if a child as young as one and a half is allowed to assume that his wishes come first, he can develop into quite a tyrant in a short time." The result is bad for both parents and children, he said. Parents may develop a "resentful, revengeful attitude," and the child's "guilt is apt to make him be more provocative in his behavior.

"Many parents feel that that when in doubt they'd better let the child have his way, rather than run the risk of distorting his personality with the wrong management," Dr. Spock said. However, if common sense prevails and parental love is apparent, "it is better for good parents to be confident of themselves—even if they are technically somewhat mistaken—than for them to be hesitant and submissive."

Parents have to be firm but reasonable, Dr. Spock wrote in Redbook. "I don't think it's wise," he said, "for parents to let their child control their conversation.

Gloves Language Dates Back To Chivalry Days

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gloves have a romantic language, dating back to the days of chivalry, reports the current issue of Jerome L. Rodale's "Quinto Lingo" magazine.

When a lady dropped both gloves, it meant—"I love you." Biting the tips of gloves meant —"Get lost." Holding the tips of the gloves downward was a way of saying—"I wish to get acquainted." When the lady struck a glove on her hand, it meant—"I am shocked." And when she turned a glove inside out, it meant—"I hate you."

How To Do Heavy Duty Wash Of Drapes, Spreads And Rugs

Rugs, draperies, slip covers, bedspreads—all have to be laundered every once in a while to keep the house crisp and clean.

Slip covers—Place slip cover in dryer immediately after washing, and regulate time and temperature settings according to the fabric. While still damp-dry, remove them from the dryer and press any pleats or ruffles. Then replace on furniture where the slip cover will finish drying to snug, smooth fit.

Do not dry more than one couch cover, or two chair covers, or five pillow covers per load.

DRAPERIES—BEFORE laundering, remove all trimmings, detachable hooks and weights. Drying time and temperature will vary, depending on weight of fabric, size and remaining moisture. Allow the drapes plenty of room for tumbling. Remove when damp-dry, run drapes lengthwise on the ironer and rehang.

Note: Do not dry-dry lined drapes. Watch drying time carefully the first few times you dry drapes and slip covers. You'll be able to calculate exact time for future reference.

CURTAINS: Weight and size of curtains will determine the number of pairs that make up one load. Allow to remain in dryer until damp-dry, then remove and run through ironer. Rehang immediately.

After being washed, nylon, orlon and dacron curtains will dry in just a few minutes in your automatic dryer. Since sheer curtains need plenty of room to fluff up, take care not to overcrowd dryer. Check periodically as they are drying to see that all items, like tie backs, are tumbling freely with the load. Remove curtains while some trace of moisture remains, touch up with ironer if desired and rehang.

To keep curtains crisp in hot weather, you may wish to starch them. Starched curtains should be dryer-dried along with several bath towels to absorb excess starch. Remove from dryer when damp-dry or completely dry, according to starch manuaftcurer's instructions. Iron immediately, if possible. Place damp curtains in plastic bag or other protective cover if ironing is delayed.

When curtains are not soiled, but require airing and dusting, use your automatic dryer to "revive" them. Allow several pairs of curtains at a time to tumble freely. Remove from dryer and rehang . . . curtains will be fresh and sunshine-fragrant agin.

'Mod' Clothes Need Architectural Hair

NEW YORK (AP) — Vidal Sassoon, the London hair sylist who makes Janes look like Joes, claims every woman in America ought to get rid of her hair "so she'll have time to do some real living."

Nightly pinups, teasing, bouffant hairdos and bobby pins are ridiculous, he says, "especially when this country is otherwise such a modern, spectacular place."

Short hair, he says, would give women time to be more feminine.

SASSOON expressed his views for 200 fashion writers attending New York Couture Group style previews. The ladies gasped when shown one German model with platinum blonde hair shorter than Sassoon's.

"Every woman would cut her hair this way if she saw how easy it is," says Anna Lens of Munich. To contrast her close-cropped hair, she wears make-up that takes an hour to put on.

"Men love my hair short," says Sassoon model Judy Mursch, 23, of Copenhagen, Denmark. "They rub their hands in it. They can't believe it's so straight thick. I think it's very sexy."

Kelly McKeown, 28, of New York, wears her blonde hair in what looks like a blown cut. "It's so interesting I get twice as many job bookings now," she says.

Sassoon charges $25 when he cuts a girl's hair, and she must have it recut every two to three weeks.

"EACH GIRL'S hair is done individually," he says, "it's styled to her bone structure and contour of her face. She can brush it any direction and it will look perfect."

Sassoon, 38 this month and handsome, has been cutting women's hair for 20 years. Most important is the over-all image.

"The clothes image is destroyed without a good haircut," he says. "Modern clothes need short, architectural hair." He has a new style, also short, ready for the Paris and Rome fashion openings, but he won't talk about it. He just laughs.

So far, ladies in this country aren't rushing to their hairdressers to cut their tresses.

In the words of beauty expert Virginia Graham: "Imagine showing your wedding pictures and have people ask, 'Which one's the groom?' "

Sassoon shrugs off criticism.

School Board Man Questions Secrecy

Secrecy in the matter of names of candidates for school boards, especially the Marin County Board of Education, will be re-examined by the county board Feb. 7.

The question arose recently in the selection of a person to fill a vacancy on the Bolinas-Stinson School District Board. The local board was stymied by continuous 2-2 votes, and asked the county board to make the appointment. The county board voted for a policy holding secret names of all candidates except the one selected for appointment. The county board has followed similar policy in filling vacancies in its own ranks.

Chairman James A. Carroll said the secrecy would prevent "hard feelings" by persons not chosen.

Last night at a special meeting of the board, Carroll asked to reopen the question, saying he had had a change of heart.

He said in his own case, he doubted if he could have ever been selected for the county board by a committee meeting in private. He won the position by popular election.

County School Board Delays Pay Increases

Without changing a single line item, the Marin County Board of Education last night adopted a $352,911 budget for the county school service fund for next year, on first public perusal. The total is up from $331,929 for the 1966 fiscal year.

The board held up action, however, on proposed salary increase, after learning that an employee salary proposal listed comparisons with only the highest paying school districts in the Bay Area.

The budget adopted is one of several which the county schools office uses. It covers certain services to small school districts and others, such as research and film library, provided all districts. Most of the money for it comes from the state, although some features depend on federal foundation grants or contracts with school districts.

Not included in the budget are administrative services (paid for by the county), and special classes, such as those for mentally retarded, orthopedically handicapped or those at San Quentin and Juvenile Hall.

The salary request, however, was for everyone. It called for a two per cent hike plus $250-a-year across-the-board increase for teachers, two per cent plus $500 for administrators, and a straight five per cent hike for all other employees.

Questions by board member Patrick W. Pollock revealed that only high-paying districts had been used in the salary request presentation. Pollock began asking questions after chairman James A. Carroll sought justification for the $250 and $500 flat increase requests.

George H. Renworth, principal of Bayview Schools at San Quentin Prison, who made the request, promised more information.

From the first, Carroll wanted to hold off on salary approval, but the pay increases were in fact passed, thanks to a confusion over parliamentary procedure. Then they were rescinded.

Board members Adele J. Alpers and Lee C. Richardson Jr., on the motion to rescind, voted to let the raise stand, saying they had enough information to approve a pay hike. It was then that Carroll and Pollock started asking specific questions.

The county service fund budget, which must be sent to Sacramento for state approval by Feb. 1, includes the proposed pay hikes, on the ground they could not be inserted later.

But Carroll contended that if the raises are not approved, that part of the state money simply would not be spent.

Services to small districts were cut from $41,225 to $38,700, because less state money is expected to be granted.

The main cut was for supervision of instruction, from $17,028 to $9,544, on the grounds that all but the very smallest districts now have competent administrators of their own, and do not need the county's.

However, health services to small districts, and time from a psychologist, were both increased.

The biggest increase in the budget, about $13,000, is for audio-visual services, mostly for purchase of films and filmstrips.

Asst. County Supt. Robert Stannard said this increase would be financed by raising the charge to school districts from $1.50 to $1.75 per child.

"Coordination," a function which includes the salaries of several top administrators, was raised from $118,735 to $124,684.

No specific money was included for a coordinator of vocational education, subject of dispute with the county board of supervisors recently. However, a lump sum for consultants, $9,700, may partly cover that expense.

The new proposed salary schedule for teachers would raise the bottom pay from $6,716 to $7,100 a year, and top pay (for a teacher with a doctorate and eight years with the department) from $12,089 to $12,581.

Carroll said the top and bottom ranges of the schedule were no longer significant, since the county virtually never hires at the bottom step, and almost no one stays in teaching once he has a doctorate.

Renworth, arguing for higher pay, said teachers in the county department have special problems. For one thing, they do not receive law-protected tenure as do teachers in the districts.

Linthicum May Get San Rafael Planner Post

The San Rafael City Council, impatient with the delay in finding a new city planner, may wind up appointing Acting Planner Charles Linthicum and hiring an assistant to help him.

Several councilmen praised Linthicum's work last night, and City Atty. David J. Menary Jr. suggested, "Why not hire Chuck (Linthicum) and a good assistant to take the pressure off, him?"

Linthicum suggested the city "exhaust all its resources" in recruiting a planner, but said he would be willing to go along with the council's decision.

The job has been open since George H. Rodgers left last Aug. 15.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini asked last night for a progress report on recruitment. City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said two men have been interviewed, but neither filled the bill.

"I just can't believe that we can't find a good planner," Bettini said.

Councilman Fred Jensen said, "I think we're doing damn good right now." He said Linthicum has "turned out more work" than any city planner in years, and "should have the job now."

"I'm happy with him," said Councilman Harry A. Barbier.

Andersen said that the job has been widely advertised, but that there are many planning positions open on the West Coast.

Mayor Bettini said, "It's obvious that something's wrong, and usually it's the salary."

Candidate Waters Sees One-Party State

Recent sharp boosts in basic food prices are but one aspect of the Democratic "spend and lend theory of government," Laughlin E. Waters told Marin Federated Republican Women at a luncheon today.

Waters, who seeks the GOP nomination for governor, spoke at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

"Hang on to your pocketbooks," he warned the audience. "The Democrats are out to make this a one-party state, if it takes your last dollar."

The former United States attorney for Southern California and four-term assemblyman said he hates labels.

"Too often they conceal more than they reveal. That is one reason why I have been insisting upon a wide-open primary as a method of rejuvenating the Republican Party," he said. "Full, complete and totally honest discussion of differing views makes the affixing of labels more difficult."

"But I am happy to accept one designation that some might call a label, because I have hung it upon myself. I am a fiscal conservative."

Waters said the Democratic administration in California had caused dislocations in agriculture, economy and employment.

"They assert they have led California to unparalleled economic health—and the areospace and electronics industry hangs by a thread on developments in Viet Nam.

"They say they have furthered employment—yet California cannot keep up with the national average of employment and hasn't yet licked the problem of a hard core of continued unemployment."

Divorcee Shoots Former Husband

SAN JOSE (AP)—Mrs. Helen Bacigalupi, who lost a child custody dispute, fired six shots through a screen door yesterday, killing her former husband and wounding his second wife, police said.

Killed was Gerald A. Bacigalupi, 40, and wounded in a hand and a foot was his second wife, Jean, 37.

The first wife, 35, lives in Palo Alto and was booked for a homicide investigation.

Police said a divorce settlement had given her former husband most of the couple's property, including the Willow Glen house where the shooting occurred, and their three children.

Bacigalupi was a liquor store clerk.

Sausalito Council Hearings Slated

Sausalito City Council will hold a hearing at its 8 p.m. meeting today on an application from Martino and Moscini for planned unit development of the Marina Vista subdivision.

The development, to contain 190 single family and duplex units, is bounded by Rodeo Avenue and Nevada Street, Bayside School and Highway 101.

Councilmen will discuss a proposed new employees' group health insurance, plan to introduce a community antenna television ordinance, and will hear a request from the Sausalito Community TV System for an ordinance amendment to permit the system an increased area of franchise coverage.

Chinese Awaiting New Year Fete

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chinese New Year comes this Friday but an Occidental in Chinatown will scarcely know it.

Chinatown celebrates the arrival of the Oriental lunar calendar New Year at home and quietly. The parade and hoopla come later.

The parade will be Saturday night, Jan. 29.

Miss Chinatown will be crowned Saturday night.

This will be "The Year of the Horse" and it is No. 4664.

And, in case you have forgotten, you say Happy New Year's: "Gung Hay Fat Choy!"

St. Vincent's School Area Power Line Plan Debated

Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s proposal to extend a 115,000-volt transmission line south along the east side of St. Vincent's School to a substation proposed east of the Marinwood interchange yesterday prompted county planning commission discussion of the whole question of locating power lines.

The county has little say in the location of lines except that it can initiate a hearing before the California Public Utilities Commission.

Commissioner Hugh Dougherty suggested the PUC be asked to delay approval of the current proposal until the county has a chance to study it.

Gordon Tandy of PG&E declared that this was not necessary, that the utility had always cooperated with the county planning staff and would continue to do so.

After much talk, commissioners decided they would like to see all the proposals as well, and if they were found wanting, a PUC hearing would be requested.

On the plan for lines near St. Vincent's, the procedure will be tried for the first time. Acting Planning Director David Van Pelt was asked to report Jan. 31.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

1. Approved a tentative map for the subdivision of one acre between La Verne and Hawthorne avenues in Homestead Valley into six lots, as requested by John Ribiero.
2. Continued until Jan. 31 the request of Charles Tijerina for medical and dental offices on the second floor of the Alto branch of the Tiburon National Bank.
3. Granted Joan Taylor permission to convert a one-family dwelling into a duplex at 106 Central Avenue, Woodacre, overruling the denial recommended by the zoning administrator.
4. Continued until Jan. 31 consideration of Alice Garrison's request for lot frontage on a 20-foot easement, rather than the required 40-foot easement at 11 Greenwood Way, Kentfield.
5. Approved a tentative map for subdivision of 2.5 acres between Miller Creek and Idylberry roads in Lucas Valley into 11 lots, as asked by Eichler Homes, Inc.
6. Agreed to allow existing power poles in the 17-lot Hidden Harbor tract at Black Point, though the tentative map was approved after the county's underground utilities ordinance took effect. The existing poles and lines cross the property to serve developments on either side.
7. Scheduled discussion Jan. 31 on putting a requirement in the subdivision ordinance for subdividers to dedicate land for parks. A new state law makes the requirement permissable for both school sites and parks.
8. Set March 7 for discussion of general revisions in the subdivision code which would do away with ambiquities and bring it in line with new state codes.
9. Set discussion on March 7 of a letter from Carroll A. Snyker of the Marin Development Foundation complaining about involved procedures required of developers in manufacturing zones.
10. Adjourned at 8:50 p.m.

Commissioner Harry H. Heifetz was absent.

Amateur Troupes Combine Forces

The Terra Linda and Hamilton Air Force Base little theaters will join in a production of "Heaven Can Wait" by Harry Segall.

The play will open March 11 at the air base theater.

Tryouts for the play, which was the basis of the movie "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," will be held at theater 2 on the air base on Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The play offers seven major male parts and four major female parts.

Art Gallery

Herbert Hoover, director of the Pomeroy Art Galleries of San Francisco, will speak on "An Art Gallery's Service to the Community" at 8 p.m. Feb. 2 at the Marin County Civic Center. The speech will be sponsored by the Marin Museum Assn.

Human Rights

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing of the Boston Roman Catholic Archdiocese has announced the formation of an archdiocesan commission on human rights to be concerned principally with racial issues.

Brown Expects Announcement By Anderson

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Glenn Anderson will announce he'll run for a third term as lieutenant governor, probably within 48 hours, Gov. Edmund Brown said last night.

"I'm absolutely confident he'll run again," Brown told county editors and publishers, "and I expect he'll announce his candidacy within 48 hours.

Brown said, however, he won't endorse a running mate for the June 7 primary because: "I have my own troubles."

He said he expects Anderson to win the Democratic nomination. There could be "a couple of other good candidates," he said, mentioning Thomas Braden of Oceanside, president of the State Board of Education.

Turning to a controversial topic, the governor again indicated that he will boycott next month's California Democratic Council convention as long as Simon Casady is its president.

He said he "expects to be up in the snow" Feb. 18 when the convention begins in Bakersfield.

Piano Lessons

Group courses in piano for children and adults, sponsored by the City of Mill Valley, will start next month at the community and youth center. Further information may be obtained at the city hall, according to Don Dimitratos, park and recreation director.

Eight United States presidents and six wives of presidents were born in the state of Virginia.

Millions Sought In Divorce Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mrs. Francis Taylor filed a separate maintenance suit against her husband yesterday asking $5.5 million in damages, $7,500 a month alimony and $1,000 a month for each of their two daughters.

Mrs. Taylor, who now lives in Barrington, R.I., accuses her husband of adultery and says he spent thousands of dollars on a woman identified in the suit as a Jean Peters.

Independent Colleges Name Sister Patrick

Sister Mary Patrick, president of Dominican College, San Rafael, yesterday was elected secretary-treasurer of the Independent Colleges of Northern California.

George M. Dean, vice president of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., was elected president. Voting took place at the organization's annual board meeting in San Francisco.

African Leader Calls For Order

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Maj. Gen. Aguiyi Ironsi, Nigeria's new military ruler, says he will end disorders in this West African nation and will impose martial law if necessary.

Ironsi told a news conference at his heavily guarded headquarters that he will have a committee draw up a new constitution and will hold national elections when the constitution is completed.

"I am a soldier and it has never been my ambition to meddle in politics," said the 41-year-old military chief who took over power Sunday after announcing that an attempted coup had been smashed.

Bennett Claims Vindication In Gas Line Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Public Utilities Commissioner William M. Bennett of Kentfield yesterday predicted ultimate victory in his long-standing battle against El Paso Natural Gas Co. after the U.S. Supreme Court granted his petition for a hearing in the case.

Bennett called the Supreme Court action, announced yesterday, "a vindication and a victory."

"This will be a victory for all California gas users, because every time El Paso faces competition, the prices of natural gas come down," he said.

By its action, the Supreme Court re-entered a lengthy complex case in which it ordered El Paso to divest itself of Pacific Northwest Pipeline Co. in 1962. A plan for the divesture is being drawn up in a federal court in Salt Lake City.

However, Bennett objected to the plan on the ground that it would injure California consumers. He said the present plan would set up Pacific Northwest with officers picked by El Paso and insufficient funds and reserves.

Both companies supply natural gas to California utilities.

Bennett's action in entering this case caused a dispute between him and Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Bennett, now a candidate for attorney general, said he entered the case as special counsel for then-Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk. However, Brown said Bennett was exceeding his authority.

France Disputes Market Proposal

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — France clashed with her five partners in the European Common Market today over veto rights of each member in the economic group.

France wants the veto preserved while the other nations propose making a majority vote binding at least in some cases.

The foreign ministers temporarily dropped the question. They resumed discussion of a French memorandum to limit the power of the Executive Commission that manages the Common Market.

The French insisted that the commission consult the member governments individually before making its proposals.

The commission's term has expired but it is expected to remain in office until the plan goes through for merging it with the executives of two other organizations—the European Coal and Steel Community and Euratom, the atomic pool.

The six member nations have already agreed to merge each pool's executive body with the market's Executive Commission, but the move has not yet been fully ratified.

The French were expected to ask that this be done as soon as possible. They were expected to press for a limit to the powers of the new joint body and to use considerable political leverage on the composition of its 14 members. The Executive Commission now has nine members.

One French target is the ouster of Walter Hallstein of West Germany, the Executive Commission's chairman, whom French President Charles de Gaulle dislikes because he has, in De Gaulle's view, assumed too much power as head of the market's management body.

"De Gaulle just doesn't like seeing Hallstein standing there on a red carpet, wearing a cutaway and striped pants, receiving new ambassadors. He thinks Hallstein is pretending to be the emperor of Europe," said one French official.

The French sought to curb the Executive Commission's powers in a 10-point memorandum yesterday after ending a six-month boycott of the community's meetings.

Absentees Cancel Council Meeting

The Corte Madera Town Council meeting scheduled last night was canceled for lack of a quorum after two councilmen and an audience of 15 waited 35 minutes for appearance of an additional councilman.

Present were councilmen Charles F. Pendleton and William W. Collier. They asked Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher to reschedule the meeting for Jan. 31 at 7:30 p.m.

Usher said Mayor Edward W. Colthurst and Councilman Norman R. Barnett both called yesterday afternoon to report they would be out of town for another meeting. Councilman Albert E. Kogler indicated he would attend the council meeting, but then was delayed by a business meeting, Usher said.

Closed Session

Kentfield School District trustees will hold a special meeting in closed session at 7:30 p.m. today in the multi-use room of Wolfe Grade School on replacement of an employee.

Savings Bonds Interest Rate Hike Ordered

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson today ordered Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler to boost interest rates on U.S. savings bonds.

Fowler said at a savings bond luncheon here he would implement the President's order soon. He did not specify a date.

Fowler gave no indication of how large an increase was being considered.

The present interest rate on series E and H savings bonds is 3¾ per cent.

The Treasury secretary told the luncheon of top corporate executives involved in the savings bond deduction program that the President felt it necessary to improve the rate of return in order to keep its interest yields on the securities at a par with interest rates elsewhere in the economy.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

The irritable colon syndrome (gas, abdominal pain or diarrhea) is common in high-strung, tense, or overworked individuals. Resting the victim and his bowel usually brings relief. We know that some of these people have a biochemical problem that involves lactose, a sugar found in milk and milk products.

Between 25 and 50 per cent of supposedly normal individuals do not absorb the carbohydrate. We know this occurs because the amount in the blood does not increase after the individual drinks a lactose solution or milk. In addition biopsy studies of the intestinal wall show a marked low lactase activity.

SOME OF these normal individuals do not have symptoms after ingesting lactose or milk. A proportion shy away from milk because they do not like it or have found that it does not agree with them.

In contrast, others in the group suffer from cramps, gas, abdominal distension, or diarrhea. This takes place because the lactose remains in the intestine where it draws fluid into the bowel and encourages fermentation. A few recognized milk as the offender and were comfortable so long as they omitted the food.

Dr. Elliot Weser and his colleague, from Cornell University medical college decided to study the effect of lactose on 27 individuals who suffered from the irritable colon syndrome from 2 to 30 years. Tests showed that 13 had faulty lactose absorption. All in this group experienced diarrhea after lactose ingestion. There was marked improvement in eight after milk products were eliminated from the diet.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request).

THREE TIMES AND OUT

D. R. writes: I have been told that after three attacks of strep throat the poison can kill a person. Is this true?

REPLY

Most of us have suffered several attacks of this common infection and have lived to tell the tale. But I don't mean to belittle streptococcus, a dangerous organism. It is responsible for many maladies such as scarlet fever, rheumatic fever, Bright's disease, subacute bacterial endocarditis, and erysipelas.

PAIN AND STIFFNESS

W. O. writes: What is the shoulder-arm-hand syndrome?

REPLY

A condition in which pain and stiffness of the shoulder and hand occur. The skin of the hand on the involved side becomes taunt and shiny. The cause is not known, but the syndrome may develop as a complication of stroke or coronary thrombosis. Physical therapy is the best treatment.

ALLERGIC REACTION

B. N. W. writes: Can a person be allergic to smallpox vaccine?

REPLY

Now and then a generalized rash develops seven to eight days after the child is vaccinated. This reaction is thought to be due to allergy to the smallpox virus. The complication is rare, however: it is said to occur once in every 4,000 to 5,000 vaccinations.

UNDEVELOPED

D. P. writes: Can a woman with an infantile womb become pregnant?

REPLY

Yes, if ovarian function is normal. The pregnancy may not go to term in these circumstances.

LIGHT

REPLY

I doubt that it makes much difference if both are adequate.

INFLAMATION

A. W. writes: Years ago my doctor told me I had chronic conjunctivitis. My glasses were changed several times. After two years I saw my doctor for a periodic eye exam and was dumbfounded when he said I was getting cataracts in both eyes. Is surgery for this condition serious?

REPLY

All eye operations are serious. The chance of dying from the operation is practically nil but best results are obtained when the ophthalmologist is skilled in doing this procedure.

San Rafael Bans Shooting In City

The San Rafael City Council last night unanimously passed to print an ordinance to prohibit the firing of guns, bows and arrows and slingshots, except in special circumstances.

Under the proposed ordinance firing will be permitted in defense of persons and property or "in a regularly and properly constructed shooting range or gallery."

Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, who requested the ordinance, said there have been problems, "people shooting at deer with a bow and arrow," and others shooting pellet guns and slingshots.

Councilman Louis H. Baar said he left that people should be entitled to shoot in their own yard.

Councilman Harry A. Barbier said, "I hope you can't shoot a .22 in your yard."

Councilman Fred Jensen asked, "Suppose someone with a bow and arrow wants to practice in his back yard with a bale of hay?"

Menary said this could be allowed under the provision for "a regularly and properly constructed shooting gallery."

When councilmen learned that the ordinance covered possession of sling shots, Baar quipped, "How about pea shooters?"

Discussion of a proposed ordinance to require undergrounding of utilities in new subdivisions was postponed after Baar reported the California Public Utilities Commission is considering state regulations in the field. However, the council authorized City Mgr. Dan E. Anderson to get cost figures in undergrounding in cities that have municipal electricity, and report Feb. 7.

Passed to print was an ordinance amending the building code to permit certain alterations in Fire Zone 1.

Two ordinances received final passage, both by unanimous vote:

An ordinance rezoning four parcels in Northgate Shopping Center Unit One, on the north side of Las Gallinas Avenue, from general commercial to planned community, as requested by D.M. Christensen.

An ordinance rezoning 38 acres of Kerner-Bellam properties on the east side of Kerner Boulevard from planned commercial and light industrial to multiple residential and special residential, requiring 2,000 square feet of land area per dwelling unit.

Council Not Satisfied With Firehouse Plans

The San Rafael City Council may shift the location of the proposed Glenwood Fire Station slightly in an effort to bring the cost within the $76,000 budgeted.

When the bids were opened Dec. 3, the lowest was $83,838, and the council later asked architect Roger F. Hooper to redesign the firehouse to trim the cost to $76,000.

Hooper presented his proposal for "re-design" last night, with a list of deletions and substitutions to trim $6,000 from the cost. The council labeled it unsatisfactory. Councilman Fred Jensen called it "a complete joke."

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said all the architect did was "take out things we'll have to buy anyway."

Hooper contended he was limited in making changes because he was "given the basic design to follow" — the same design he used for Firehouse No. 3 in Terra Linda and No. 4 (Bellam Boulevard). "We were given a building to fit to the site including structure, size and material," he said. "The only thing you can reduce is either the scope or the quality."

The Glenwood station is causing a problem because mud at the site which requires pilings.

Andersen said possibly the station could be re-located on the site, but soil tests would be needed to determine if this could be done.

The council asked that this be explored.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Authorized Andersen to negotiate with Walter Freitas for the purchase of a five-acre Montecillo Road park site, which would be developed into a neighborhood park.
2. Referred to the Planning commission, for report Feb. 7, a complaint by Mrs. Frances Larsen, a property owner on Jordan Street, that two auto wrecking yards on that street are not complying with the conditions of their use permits.
3. Referred to the public works department a petition from 14 residents of Vistawood Way claiming their cul-de-sac street in San Rafael Highlands is hazardous.
4. Referred a claim from Gerard A. Hendriks of 326 Forbes Avenue for $1,161 for damages resulting from a sewer back-up at Forbes Avenue and Elizabeth Way, last Dec. 14, to the city insurance carrier.
5. Granted Tele-Vue Systems of Marin an encroachment permit to provide antenna service in the Sun Valley area.
6. Set for Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. opening of bids on pedestrian-operated traffic signals at the Miracle Mile and Greenfield Avenue.
7. Tentatively scheduled a joint meeting with the park and recreation commission for Feb. 2, but did not designate time and place.
8. Authorized Andersen to attend the city managers' spring meeting in Coronado Feb. 23-25, and city finance officer Orrin Wendling to attend a conference in El Segundo Feb. 2-4.
9. Hired Robert L. Hodges as a maintenance man at $442 a month.

Another Model U.N. Delegation Picked At Drake

Sir Francis Drake High School will represent a second government at the Model United Nations, to convene in mid-February in Berkeley.

The school's forensic society had been selected to speak for Yugoslavia, but senior Peter Stone suggested that Viet Nam should be represented by delegations of observers, since Southeast Asia would be discussed.

The organization running the session agreed, and named delegations for North and South Viet Nam and the National Liberation Front. Drake was allowed to represent South Viet Nam.

Army Man Is Given Achievement Award

Army Sgt. Maj. Clarence Bluhm of 731 Las Colindas Road, San Rafael, has received a certificate of achievement while serving with the U. S. Forces in Korea.

Sergeant Bluhm received the award for performance during his previous assignment as operations sergeant of the plans and training division at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, from June, 1962 to November, 1965.

Peacock Gap Real Estate Office Wins

The San Rafael City Council last night upheld Fox and Carskadon's permit to operate a temporary real estate sales office at Peacock Gap, but ruled out re-sales.

Thus, the firm retained its permit which expires March 28, after a one-hour public hearing which attracted about 25 persons including real estate salesmen and Peacock Gap residents.

Norman P. Higby of 58 San Marino Drive appealed the city planning commission's Dec. 28 decision to extend the firm's permit for 90 days. He said that by engaging in re-sales, Fox and Carskadon was "becoming a general real estate business" and as such should not be operating in a residential area.

The council denied Higby's appeal, but limited the firm's permit to lot sales and new homes sales, and banned resales. Higby said he favored these conditions.

Fox and Carskadon was backed by the Peacock Gap Home Owners Assn. and several Peacock Gap residents.

San Rafael To Ask For Freeway Aid

San Rafael city officials are to appear before the State Highway Commission in Sacramento at 11 a.m. tomorrow to request action on Highway 101 projects.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen and Mayor C. Paul Bettini will ask that the construction schedule on highway improvements in San Rafael be advanced.

Andersen said the city will ask for construction of extra lanes over Puerto Suello Hill to provide six lanes instead of four.

The city also wants a newly constructed road alongside the railroad tracks extended from Third Street to Mission Avenue. At present the road runs from Second to Third streets, as part of the new southbound on-ramp pattern.

Andersen, City Councilman Louis H. Baar and representatives of the San Rafael public works department met with State Sen. John F. McCarthy yesterday to explain the city's requests. Baar said last night he would make the trip to Sacramento if he possibly could.

Johnson Asks Cash For Asia Bank Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to pledge $200 million toward a billion-dollar Asian Development Bank which he said "can mean the difference between opportunity and chaos" in that part of the world.

The funds he proposed for the bank would be in addition to the $1 billion the White House has promised to speed the economic development of Southeast Asia.

BUTTERFLY HAVEN IN BOLINAS

Hundreds of migrating Monarch butterflies fill the trees near an unnamed lane on Bolinas Mesa. The present flock is only a fraction of the thousands which mob the area beginning in December, coming from across the United States, heading south, some as far as South America and the West Indies. The Monarchs will hibernate for the winter before laying eggs in the spring. The Monarch was native to the Americas but has been carried, or perhaps has flown oceans, to Europe, Japan, the Philippines. (Independent-Journal photos)

SAVE MY BABY!

Woman Saves Boy Choking On Candy

Athens Getas, a teacher's aide for a class for the mentally retarded, was eating lunch at home yesterday when she heard a woman scream, "My baby! Save my baby!"

She hurried from her apartment at 420 Canal Street, San Rafael, to find 18-month-old Robert Jones lying unconscious in a car outside. Two men were standing nearby, but did not seem to know what to do. Mrs. Getas started to give mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Then someone mentioned the child had choked on a piece of candy.

"All I did is take the baby and turn him upside down," Mrs. Getas recalled today. "I said, 'God forbid' and slapped him on his back. That was all there was to it."

She walked away after being thanked by the child's mother, Mrs. Wanda Jones of 9 Walter Place, Los Ranchitos. Moments later Mrs. Jones realized she had not learned the name of the good Samaritan.

Neighbors today revealed who the woman was, but Mrs. Getas was unimpressed with what she had done. She had not even mentioned it at work.

"I work with these quiet children," she said, "and sometimes you have to keep calm and level headed. It was just a matter of being level headed without getting excited." She works at a kindergarten class operated by the county at 71 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia.

Mrs. Jones said she had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dalton of 400 Canal Street.

When the child started to choke on a lemon drop Mrs. Dalton ran to her apartment to phone for help, but forgot her keys and could not get into the apartment. She ran to find a telephone.

Mrs. Getas said the boy was unconscious when she arrived.

A telephone was finally found, and firemen arrived within a few minutes, but by then the boy had recovered and Mrs. Getas had disappeared.

Tiburon Thief Hits Restaurant

Atterbury told sheriff's deputies the restaurant at 2000 Paradise Drive was entered between 12:15 and 9 a.m. by breaking open the kitchen door. The establishment is closed during those hours.

He said two cash registers were opened, but the thief got less than $20 in loot.

Police Set North State Pistol Shoot

More than 300 law enforcement officers from throughout Northern California will shoot it out—at targets—in San Rafael on Feb. 5 and 6.

The competition will be in pistol shooting. It is called the H.O. Peters Memorial Winter Championship in memory of the man who for many years trained Marin law officers in handling firearms, and who established the San Rafael police pistol range.

In the past, the competition has been only for Marin officers, said Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa; but this year it has been opened up for all of Northern California. There will also be civilian competition, separate from that for the lawmen, he said.

Because of the many shooters, the two firing ranges near Francisco Boulevard which are used regularly by Marin officers will not be sufficient, Chiesa and Sgt. Raymond Bleasdale told the San Rafael City Council last night. They asked the council to authorize the city public works department to ready two more ranges. The council agreed.

Group Teaching Idea Explained

Fifty persons attended a meeting of the Mill Valley School District Board last night at which Mrs. Miriam Swett described "flexible grouping" of pupils and use of team teaching techniques at the Fairmont School in San Mateo County's Laguna Solada District, of which she is principal.

Mrs. Swett showed pictures of classroom wings which accommodate five class groups in an area the size of seven regular classrooms. The wings are carpeted, acoustically treated, and virtually free of walls.

Trustees considered letters from Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baumgarten and Naphtali Knox regarding the proposed building program in Mill Valley, both stressing the need for clear statements of educational objectives and employment of a consultant to help the board devise a bond proposal. Other letters were read which also urged the need for a consultant.

Further discussion on the subject will be held after study groups meet Saturday at Park School. The meeting will be a joint study session of various groups involved in the building program, and will run from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Dr. Earl C. Kelley will speak to the Mill Valley Teachers Assn. at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow and again at 8 p.m., both times at Edna Maquire School, on questions facing the Mill Valley district. Kelley is an author, lecturer and professor of education. These two appearances were announced in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly, saying Kelley was to appear at Edna Maguire School yesterday.

Marin Inmate Escapes From Napa Hospital

A Marin County jail inmate, transferred to Napa State Hospital last Friday for psychiatric observation, has escaped the hospital, sheriff's officers were notified today.

Deputies said Blaine J. Walters, 19, of 345 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was missing from the institution about midnight. Other details were not learned.

Walters was sent to the hospital because he had cut his left forearm with half a razor last Wednesday, requiring treatment at San Rafael General Hospital, and refused to eat following his return to jail, officers said.

He has also been charged with destruction of jail property in an earlier apparent escape try, and with battery last Jan. 4 of a cellmate, James John McElhinney, 43. Four other inmates are also charged in that assault.

Valley Gas Line Given Reprieve

San Geronimo Valley Assn. has been given an extra six months by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to come up with the 640 signatures necessary before natural gas lines are brought into the area.

Jean A. Bevans, president of the association, said today he had heard from PG&E that the company was willing to extend the deadline from last Dec. 15 to June 1, subject to the approval of the California Public Utilities Commission.

Bevans said so far 461 residents have signed the petition for service and 298 of them have paid the $50 deposit to PG&E.

Silberberg Assessment Is Reduced

Marin County supervisors, sitting as the Marin County Board of Equalization, today granted a reduction in assessed valuation of $2,570 on 47 acres near Mill Valley, but the owners' representative was still not happy.

The equalization hearing was opened on court order to consider valuation of land owned by Sara Hilarita Boyle Silberberg, Carmelita Boyle Silberberg and Ida Boyle Gross.

In their suit for a rehearing, they claimed the county assessor did not know the City of Mill Valley's master plan on the area would restrict density.

After four hearings and an inspection of the site by Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, the board agreed to cut assessed value from $32,430 to $29,860. Mervyn Silberberg, speaking for the owners, argued the value was still not realistic.

San Rafael Police Cite Boy In Theft

A 15-year-old Redwood High School student from Corte Madera was cited by San Rafael police yesterday for the Nov. 26 burglary of the Patio Fountain, 711 D Street, San Rafael.

Police said the youth admitted the theft of four cartons of cigarettes, $2.50 from the cigarette machine, candy, two pounds of ham, five pounds of cheese, and two loaves of bread.

Plea Scheduled For Burglary Suspect

Samuel Wesley James, 43, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of burglary of Lafargue Laundry and Dry Cleaners, San Rafael, and his case was continued to this afternoon for plea entry.

James, an ex-convict residing at 1333 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was arrested inside the laundry at 1110 Third Street by San Rafael police Sunday. Officers said a rear door had been forced.

Budget Guide Asks County Pay Increases

Marin County budget guidelines for fiscal 1967, adopted by supervisors today, call for salary increases for county employees to "restore or retain" the county's competitive position for hiring in all classes.

The guidelines also call for "harsh" judgment of new proposals and programs, reduction of service and supply budgets, and study of a comprehensive bonding program to be proposed for capital projects.

The guidelines were prepared by county administrator Alan Bruce. He will begin meeting with department heads on the coming budget Friday.

Two Found In Home Vault Off Balcony

Two Mill Valley men jumped 25 feet off a balcony last night in Sausalito after an apparent burglary attempt at 532 Sausalito Boulevard.

Police said they managed to get themselves to Marin General Hospital, where they were apprehended by officers and booked on burglary charges.

John Lem, 19, of 12 Eagle Rock Road, remained in the hospital today with a back injury. Brian Baeszler, 18, of 2 Lehman Lane, was in county jail.

David Hunter, 57, a teacher, told police he returned home at 8:25 p.m. and, while still outside, heard voices in his home. He opened the door and found Lem and Baeszler inside. They ran to the kitchen, threw open the door to the balcony, and jumped over the railing, a drop to the ground of 20 to 25 feet.

Overseas Students Position Clarified

Mrs. C. Fosberg Hughes is Northern California chairman of Youth for Understanding, and is not associated with the American Field Service, as reported yesterday in the Independent-Journal.

The story dealt with Sir Francis Drake High School student Geja Barens, who returned to Holland because of homesickness.

Hearing Set For Suspect In Stabbing

A San Quentin stabbing suspect was tentatively scheduled today to appear before the prison's disciplinary committee for a hearing next Tuesday, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The man, accused of the stabbing Saturday of Harry S. Luckett, 39, convicted forger, was found yesterday during an investigation by prison authorities. Park today still would not reveal the suspect's name.

He said the man had been locked up in the prison's maximum security adjustment center, awaiting the hearing.

Dias Ranch Master Plan Is Approved

Master plan for the Dias Ranch, 170 acres west of Mill Valley, was approved by the Marin County Planning Commission allowing developer Alfred J. Stern's requested density of 3.41 dwelling units per acre.

This housing density will permit a total of 581 units, many of which will be clustered duplexes and townhouses near the top of the ridge that dominates the property.

David Van Pelt of the county planning staff recommended application of the slope policy set in the Tamalpais Valley Master Plan which covers a portion of the property. This would have allowed 1.52 units per acre, or a total of 259 units. Van Pelt suggested a 15 per cent bonus for the quality of the plan, which would increase the number of dwellings to 298.

Philip Buskirk of the Warren Callister architectural firm, designers of the plan, argued at length against the lower density, saying the number of bedrooms per unit is a factor in figuring population, and population determines the demands for service in an area—not number of units. The units in the Dias ranch would generally be small with one or two bedrooms.

The commission voted 6-0 in favor of the plan as presented. Commissioner Harry H. Heifetz was absent.

Supervisors are to receive the commission's recommendation a week from today, at which time they will schedule a public hearing.

Apartments Proposal Approved

The Marin County Planning Commission, after much discussion and an inspection of site during the noon recess, yesterday approved eight apartment units asked by Loyal Davis at 548 Miller Avenue near Mill Valley.

The vote was 3-2, with commissioners Hugh Dougherty and Felix M. Warburg dissenting. Commissioner Margaret Azevedo abstained because she missed the discussion earlier in the day, and Commissioner Harry H. Heifetz was absent.

The action brought to a close a debate that has flared off and on before the commission for almost a year. It followed denial by both the planning commission and board of supervisors of 12 units on the property.

Davis and his attorney, Julius Selinger, said $30,000 had already been invested in retaining walls and foundations for the eight-unit building. This was prior to a stop-work order issued last spring.

Senator To Talk On Conservation

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Monterey, will be guest speaker at the 1966 Conservation Dinner Feb. 26 at the Marin Rod and Gun Club, Point San Quentin, sponsored by the Marin Conservation Council.

At the dinner, awards will be made to persons and organizations found to have done the most to protect and develop natural and recreational resources in Marin.

Those to receive awards will be chosen by a panel consisting of Judge Leonard A. Thomas of the Marin Municipal Court, chairman Felix M. Warburg of the County Planning Commission, and chairman Gibbs Lawson of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Helen K. Koller of Woodacre has been awarded an outstanding performance certificate by the Department of the Army for her work as secretary in the office of the Sixth Army Staff Judge Advocate at the Presidio of San Francisco in 1964-65.

Novato High Run-Off Vote Set Tomorrow

A run-off election for second semester president of the Novato High School student body will be held tomorrow, with Nanette Baget and John Young as candidates.

The two tied, according to a student elections officer, in initial voting Friday, in which a third candidate, David Budde, was eliminated.

Mark Moore was elected vice president, defeating Diane Paul.

Elected without opposition were: Vivian Morse, secretary; Diane Castaldi, treasurer; Barbara Jones, commissioner of student activities; John Musser, commissioner of athletics; John Dolinsek, commissioner of justice; Sherri Dunphy, commissioner of public relations, and Sue Spencer, commissioner of spirit, and Sue Yates, re-elected commissioner of inter-school affairs.

With Apologies To Miss Brown

INDIANAPOLIS Ind. (AP)—With the scenery full of Hermits, Beatles, Rolling Stones and the like, it isn't easy for a new musical group to find a distinctive name.

A North Central High School six-piece band, with a girl vocalist, did it, though.

They call it, "Six and the Single Girl."

Batman's Publicity Better Than Scripts

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Publicity men and woman are a much put upon lot. Frequently they are better educated, more honest and finer social companions than the stars and producers they must work for. If anything happens, they must take the blame but little credit. So it seems only fair to give some credit where it is due. I am talking today about ABC-TV's new "Batman" series.

There is no question that, for all its shortcomings, "Batman" is the most talked about new series of the television season. And there is no question that this was accomplished primarily because of the imaginative promotion and publicity campaign behind it. At the moment, the status of the series is like that of a balloon sitting atop a pinhead. Precariously inflated, full of nothing—prominent only because somebody managed to blow it up.

While the producers of "Batman" have taken a fence-sitting, half-hip, half-straight adventure approach to satisfy both adults and children in the audience, only the publicity campaign has struck precisely the right note in its approach—and one wonders whether the show might not be better if the writer of the press releases had written the scripts as well. The full contents of one release, for instance, read as follows: "Jill St. John acts like a brazen hussy Jan. 12. Batman knows how to deal with her kind."

Another press release, for last week's episodes, read like this: "Quiz: In the event Batman can't get past 'The Riddler' this Wednesday and Thursday, what will ABC-TV broadcast next week? (A) An interlude of recorded music . . (B) Potemkin . . . (C) An armed forces training film . . . (D) Highlights from memorable weathercasts of 1957."

The irony of the whole "Batman" campaign, however, is that its success only emphasized the reason why it is really extraordinarily difficult for the series to be "hip." The idea of the show, we are told incessantly, is that it is a put-on. Yet for a put-on to be successful, it is essential for the target of the put-on to be innocent (at first) of the fact that he is being put on. Otherwise, it is like listening to the fellow who precedes a joke by saying, "This is the funniest story you've ever heard. It'll kill you." End of joke. Likewise, end of put-on.

It should also be understood why, in part, ABC-TV is trying with "Batman" to cash in hard on the pop art-high camp-hipster fad:

The network, unlike CBS-TV (which has Lucille Ball, Andy Griffith, Dick Van Dyke and many top names), has few major stars, the staples who carry shows and broadcasting organizations year after year. It must therefore try to take new directions and hit a hot fad. A year ago it had "Shindig," a prominent rock 'n' roll series, and now that show isn't even on the air any more. "Peyton Place" and its notion of night time soap opera also gave ABC-TV a hot streak for while, but no more. Stars stay, but trends and fads pass, sometimes very quickly, and this is the situation "Batman" faces unless it goes for straight kiddie stuff after taking pseudo-intellectuals for a ride.

The Channel Swim: "Golf with Sam Snead," a series of 13 half-hour lessons by the famous professional, begins on NBC-TV March 26 . . . "Sixteen in Webster Groves," a one-hour documentary examing the knowledge, aspirations and ideals of 16-year-olds in Webster Groves, Mo., airs on CBS-TV Feb. 8, using a survey by University of Chicago social scientists as a base, and described by the network as trying to give a representative look at youngsters in "well-to-do" suburbs mushrooming all over the country."

ABC-TV's fourth fiction special based on the work of the United Nations, "The Poppy is Also a Flower," drawn from a story by the late Ian Fleming about an international narcotics ring, will be presented April 22, with those taking part including Princess Grace of Monaco, Marcello Mastroianni, Yul Brynner, Rita Hayworth and Omar Sharif .

Crippled Mantle May Switch To First

Mantle arrived here yesterday for three days of examination, tests and possible treatment of his shoulder and legs, which hampered his outfield play greatly in 1965.

The shoulder is Mantle's biggest worry. He has played on painful legs much of his 15-year American League career.

"It doesn't pain me," he said of the shoulder, "but I can hardly lift it. I can't put anything on a throw."

The Mayo examination apparently will determine whether surgery can alleviate the shoulder trouble, or if it is just a symptom of age. Mantle was 34 last Oct. 20.

Because of the shoulder, the Yankees may try to convert the great outfielder into a first baseman, a position Mantle has been reluctant to assume in the past. Now, however, he admits he's giving it some serious thought

"I've never tried first base," he said, "but if I can't throw and they want me to try it, I'll give it a try."

Such a move would send Joe Pepitone to the outfield, a position he has played for the Yankees.

Mantle had been doubtful about playing at all next season after the woes he experienced last year. But he said Yankee Geenral Manager Ralph Houk has persuaded him not to quit baseball, and that he will play in 1966 if he is physically able.

"I guess my chat with Houk eased my mind," Mantle said. "They want me, and I'd like to play if I can."

Mantle said that running and playing golf have kept his legs in good condition, but that he has done no throwing in his conditioning program because of the soreness in the shoulder.

Mantle blamed injuries for the Yankees' tumble from pennant winner in 1964 to sixth place in the American League in 1965 and warned:

"Don't count out the Yankees. A lot of people think we're through because we finished sixth last year. We had injury problems last year. Believe me, the Yankees won't finish sixth again. They'll be back in contention."

Looking to the '66 American League race, Mantle added:

"Four or five clubs could win the pennant this year, but the Minnesota Twins are the defending champions. It looks like they're the club to beat. They won it last year, and I don't see them getting any weaker."

EX-HAMILTON BOXER TO TURN PRO FEB. 10

McCoy, 24, won 160 of 163 fights in an amateur career that included many bouts while he served four years in the Air Force.

Promoter Jimmy Conseza, in making the announcement yesterday, said McCoy has received special Permission from the California Athletic Commission to go 10 rounds in his pro debut.

The Last Of The Great Coin-Biters

Whenever you get out-slickered in a business deal, the first thing to say is, "I'll take this to the highest court in the land! I'll fight this all the way to Washington, I don't car who get hurt!"

It is usually uttered by some guy in high-button shoes standing there with the deed to the Brooklyn Bridge or a nice shiny gold brick in his hands or a handkerchief that used to hold his life savings and now holds a lot of old newspaper clippings. Once in a while, it's just a guy who found out he bought four acres of Florida alligators and he's not going to need a car to come home at night, he's going to need an oar and an anchor.

HE HAD it there just a minute ago; so George didn't panic. He looked under the bed, pulled out all the dresser drawers, finally got a lantern, notified the Missing Persons Bureau and started to drag the lake. He instructed his staff to be on the lookout for ransom notes, roared "Get me J. Edgar Hoover! Get me the FBI!"

As time went on, it became increasingly clear that young George Allen had indeed been whisked out of his baby carriage or at his home bedroom and had not gotten lost in the Merchandise Mart or run away with the circus or joined the Navy.

IT WAS then that Halas remembered the soft-spoken, well-dressed young stranger who had requested his permission to speak to Asst. Coach George Allen only a few days before. "What was that young fella's name—the owner of the Rams?" roared George. "I think you'll find his card in my upper right-hand pocket. What was it? Reeves? Yes, that was it, Daniel F. Reeves."

George, of course, thought Dan Reeves wanted to talk to young George Allen to see if he had read any good books lately, or what he thought of the situatiton in Southeast Asia, or where he stood on capital punishment.

TURNED OUT the blackleg scoundrel wanted to discuss wages, hours and working conditions. That vagrant suspicion never crossed George's mind. He was apoplectic. I mean, dammit! Was nothing sacred?

George flew to the last refuge of the wronged American, the courts of the land. They put him on the calendar right between the widow who had deeded over her house to the handsome stranger who turned out to be already married and the guy who just bought a half-interest—and a half a map—in a sunken treasure ship from a man who had just left town with no forwarding address.

TO UNDERSTAND why he would seek redress in law, you have to understand George A. Halas, a man I once described, accurately enough as I come to think of it, as "the last of the great coin-biters."

Reconstructing the Great Coach Robbery, it seems clear enough what happened. George gave Dan Reeves permission to "talk" to his indispensible coach, Allen, because he did not want to be put in the position of the father whose kid said, "Why can't I go out in the sun and play like the other kids?" And the father answered, "Shut up and deal."

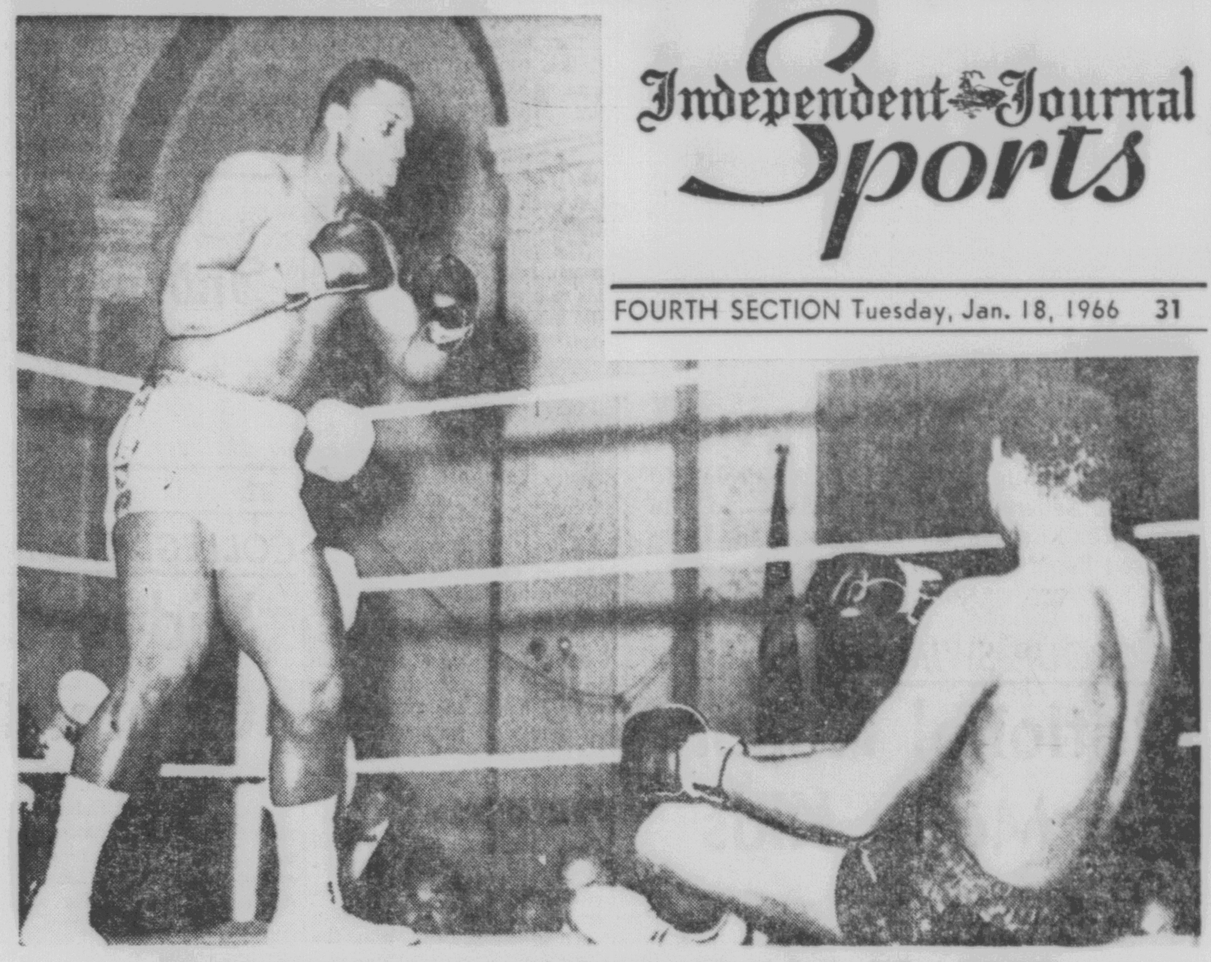
ASSISTANT COACHES, you see, are the great anonymities of our day. Waiters are celebrities by comparison. But George had no intention of letting George Allen go. He just didn't want George Allen to know that. For one thing, he pays George Allen $19,000 a year. Now, I don't know about you, but I wouldn't have to take too much of a tuck in my belt to live on that. As assistant coaches' salaries go, I make it in the top ten.

George was sure Dan Reeves wanted Paul Brown—or Gov. Brown. Anyway, not George Allen. Just to be sure, however, he leaked the word he wanted George Allen right back in his comfortable rut as soon as he had his holiday on the Coast.

HALAS, YOU see, with some justification, considers pro football his personal invention. Also property. He doesn't like to lose games, money—or coaches. He doesn't even like to lose footballs. And when Paul Hornung threw one in the stands one day, he made him pay for it.

But George may get tackled in his own end zone this time. For one thing, he may open up a lot of nasty little law for his invention—the game of pro football—which is as illegal as polygamy in many cases, as far outside the Constitution as public whipping—or Baseball whose reserve clause is sometimes just that.

IT IS inconceivable that George thinks he can get two more years of first-rate coaching out of Allen with a gun at his head. It is also inconceivable that any judge can find any kernel of discernible law in the morass of professional athletic contracts. It is one time George should have punted. When you holler copper, you better hide your own dice, too.



ONE-PUNCH KNOCKOUT FOR FRAZIER

New Life For Coast Cage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Stanford sophomore Arthur Harris won his second player of the week award at the Northern California basketball writers luncheon yesterday.

Harris hit 47 points as the Indians threw the Pacific Eight race wide open with wins over Southern California and UCLA last weekend. Harris meshed 24 when Stanford downed the Bruins, 74-69, Saturday to halt their 36-game win string in conference play.

Coach Howie Dallmar of the Indians called Harris "a very dedicated ball player. He was very keyed up for the weekend games and the pressure didn't bother him at all."

Dallmar lamented the fact that the Bruin shocker had outshone his team's "fine effort" against the Trojans. But he beamed that the Stanford win over UCLA was "a tremendous win for Stanford, and equally important, it gave the league some life."

Dallmar also said "the Bruins are still the team to beat for the title," and he praised their poise in coming back from two 14-point deficits to almost down the hot-shooting Cards.

Cal's Rene Herrerias, whose Bears lost to the two Southern California invaders, said his team played its best game in losing to UCLA Friday. But then turned ice cold while losing to USC Saturday. Herrerias was especially pleased with the work of center Bruce Steckel, who came out of the hospital Thursday and starred against UCLA Friday.

Herrerias also praised Stanford's win over the Bruins and said "the fact that UCLA can be beaten will make every one happy up and down the coast. But a lot depends on where you're playing them."

There were no real upsets in the West Coast Athletic Conference, where University of San Francisco and University of Pacific dominate things with 3-0 records.

USF coach Pete Peletta praised soph Dennis Black for hitting 33 points as the Dons dumped Loyola and Pepperdine last weekend. Rumors are rife at the Hilltop that Peletta will quit after this season to concentrate on his duties as athletic director of USF's expanding sports program. Peletta, who has taken the Dons to a 104-47 record as coage coach, had "no comment" to questions about his future plans.

UOP publicist John Marks 2 week while the players take said coach Dick Edwards of the Tigers was most pleased with the play of guard Dave Fox, who hit 28 points and quarterbacked the offense in the Tigers' two victories last weekend.

Most of the Bay Area teams are staying off the court this 2week while the players take mid-terms. Santa Clara is an exception, going to Hawaii for a series of games there.

Mystery Witness In Rams-Bears 'Tampering' Case

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears' breach of contract suit against assistant coach George Allen isn't exactly a "who done it?" but the case takes on a fictional aspect today with the rumor of a "mystery witness."

The "mystery witness" is expected to be none other than George Halas, the 70-year-old owner-coach of the Bears who is seeking to have Allen fulfill his Bear contract and keep him from accepting the head coaching job with the Los Angeles Rams.

Allen signed a three-year contract at $19,000 a year with the Bears June 22, 1965. Last week Allen verbally accepted the Ram head coaching job at a reported $40,000 a year.

Halas immediately charged the Rams with "tampering" and filed suit.

The case began last Wednesday in Circuit Court when Allen testified he assumed he had verbal permission from Halas to try to get the Ram job. Allen's attorney, Albert E. Jenner, told the court Halas "welched after giving Allen permission to negotiate for the Rams' job which he (Halas) did not think Allen could get."

After Allen told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington he thought the breach of contract suit against him should be turned over to National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle, the case was continued until today.

MORE INTRIGUE

Rozelle added some intrigue to the plot. Originally Rozelle said he would not enter the fracas and hoped it could be resolved between the two clubs adding "it has been traditional in the NFL and throughout sports that assistant coaches be permitted to take advantage of opportunity for advancement.

"On the basis of this historical precedence, in fact as it is now known, this office finds no cause at this time to interfere with the Los Angeles' Rams signing of George Allen as head coach."

Since then, however, Rozelle announced in New York that he would hold a hearing on the matter at the request of the Rams.

Rozelle, who has final jurisdiction on disputes between NFL clubs, said the hearing would be in New York at a time mutually agreed upon.

There has been no indication that Judge Harrington will hand down an immediate decision after hearing the Bears' side of the story today although Jenner is expected to press for an early ruling.

Allen contends a delay in handing down a ruling will handicap him in assembling a competent staff of assistants at Los Angeles and might even force the Rams to seek another head coach.

SAYERS NAMED PRO ATHLETE OF DECEMBER

NEW YORK (AP) — Halfback Gale Sayers, the Chicago Bears' rookie flash, was named today as winner of the December award in the Hickok pro athlete of the year competition.

National Football League stars ran 1-2-3 in the December voting among sports writers and broadcasters, with fullback Jim Taylor and halfback Paul Hornung of the champion Green Bay Packers second and third.

Black Hawks Dominate All-League

NEW YORK (AP) — Three members of the Chicago Black Hawks, including Bobby Hull, the goalscoring leader, have been named to The Associated Press' National Hockey League All-Star team for the opening half of the 1965-66 season.

Hull, who has 36 goals, was joined by teammates Glenn Hall, a goalie, and defenseman Pierre Pilote plus right winger Gordie Howe and center Norm Ullman of the Detroit Red Wings and defenseman Jacues Laperriere of the Montreal Canadiens.

Ullman, the circuit's leader with 42 goals last season, is the runner-up to Hull with 22 this year. The 37-year-old Howe is the NHL's career pace-setter with 611 goals, including 16 this season.

Goalie Roger Crozier, the shutout leader with six, and defenseman Doug Barkley of the Red Wings were among those selected for the second team. Others chosen were left winger Don Marshall and defenseman Harry Howell of the New York Rangers, center Stan Mikita of Chicago and right winger Bobby Rousseau of Montreal.

The circuit endorses a twice-a-season selection for its All-Star teams. An official vote by sports writers and broadcasters in each of the league's six cities is taken after the first half of the campaign and again after the end of the regular season. The first half ended Saturday.

Lotz Leading The Field In Crosby Qualifying

PEBBLE BEACH (AP) — Young John Lotz of Fremont, struggling to make his way on the professional golf circuit, topped a field of 90 trying for the last 11 openings on the entry list of the Big Crosby National Pro-Am tourney starting Thursday on three Monterey Peninsula courses.

The original list of 20 vacancies to be filled by qualifying was cut when other entrants, tied for last, were made available out of the San Diego Open.

Lotz shot 37-33—70 in the qualifying round yesterday. The 10 other qualifiers are: Wright Garrett, Albuquerque, N.M., 38-34—72; Manuel de la Torre, Milwaukee, Wis., 36-36—72; Jim Colbert, Kansas City, 38-34—72; Randy Petri, Austin, Tex., 37-36—73; John Cook, Jonesboro, Ark., 37-36—73; Pete Mazur, Smithtown, N.Y., 36-37—73; Jim Owen, Sterling, Ill., 36-39—75; Glenn Stuart, Grand Rapids, Mich., 37-38—75; Pat Schwab, West Orange, N.J., 35-40—75; Stan Thirsk, Overland Park, Kan., 37-38—75.

Clarke Smashes Aussie Record

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) —Ron Clarke broke the Australian 5,000-meter record today with a clocking of 13 minutes, 31.2 seconds. The Aussie's time was 8.4 seconds faster than the old record, set by Vladimir Kuts of Russia in the 1956 Olympics.

Gary Holdsworth equaled the Australian record of 10.3 for the 100-meter dash in the same meet.

88 Survive Monte Carlo Auto Rally

MONTE CARLO (AP) — The remaining cars in the 35th Monte Carlo rally rolled in today from a grueling mountain test and prepared for another attack on mountain roads tonight.

Officials said that about 88 cars had apparently survived the run to Chambery and back, over icy roads. Originally 192 cars had begun the rally last Friday, roaring off from Lisbon, London, Bad Homburg, Reims, Oslo, Athens, Warsaw, Minsk and Monte Carlo itself.

After all the cars are in later today, the top 60 will be permitted to take part in the final trial, a rugged night run, again through the mountains. The winner will be announced Wednesday.

The early arrivals today included defending champion Timo Makinen of Finland, driving a BMC Cooper. Makinen told newsmen "it was not very tough. There was some ice, but not much snow. I think we've got a good time."

Peter Procter of Britain, in another Ford Cortina, said he was running on only three of his four cylinders and feared that his time would not be competitive.

GIANT ROOKIE ROSTER

Ex-Pitcher Looms As Hot Hitting Prospect For S.F.

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — As recently as the spring of 1964, Ollie Lee Brown was tagged with a "no prospect" sign on him by San Francisco sleuths but today he is regarded as the hottest young hitting prospect in the Giant organization.

Brown was signed out of high school in Long Beach, Calif., in June, 1962, as a pitcher. After walking 132 in 123 innings and setting a Class D record with 24 wild pitches while posting a 9-8 record with Decatur, it was no wonder that the Giants gave up all thoughts that he'd ever make a big league pitcher.

But the big kid had shown ability to hit the long ball. As a matter of fact, he'd hit two home runs in his no-hit, no-run performance against Wisconsin Rapids. In that gem, he walked 11 and struck out 12. So Bill Werle, his manager at Fresno in 1964, reuested permission from Carl Hubbell, San Francisco farm director, to make the switch from the mound to the outfield.

SLOW START

After a slow start at the plate, Ollie began to make contact with the ball with increasing frequency. At the end of the California League season, he owned a .329 batting average with 40 home runs and 133 runs batted in.

But every time Ollie went after a fly ball, it turned out to be an adventure and the Giants didn't even bother to protect him in the draft in the winter of 1964. Luckily for the Giants, the other clubs shared their opinion of this Tuscaloosa, Ala., born youngster.

Promoted to Tacoma, Brown came into his own last season. He not only learned to catch fly balls more often than not, but he walloped 27 home runs and drove in 81 runs on a .293 batting average in the Pacific Coast League. He also displayed a tremendous throwing arm and good speed for a 6-foot-3 converted pitcher.

Brown will share the spring training spotlight with another young outfield prospect, 19-year-old Bobby Bonds, who already is drawing comparisons with Mays. Max Lanier, who managed the kid at Lexington in the Western Carolina League last year, predicts Bobby can't miss making the majors some day.

Bonds obviously is a couple of years away but he certainly bears watching. He batted .323 in 119 games, hammered 25 home runs and stole 33 bases.

"Bobby was the outstanding player in the league," said Lanier, the old National League southpaw star. "He can hit, possesses amazing speed and has a good arm. He is as good a prospect as I've ever seen."

Possibly the best bet to make the Giant varsity this year is Bob Barton, a 24-year-old catcher, who had his best season last year, batting .291 at Atlanta. A big fellow, Barton is an excellent receiver and hits with authority.

The rookie pitchers with the best chance appear to be Al Stanek and Dick Estelle, largely because they are left-handed and the Giants are in need of southpaw pitching.

Stanek, 22, had a so-so 8-10 season at Tacoma but he came on fast toward the end of the season. Estelle, 7-12 at Tacoma, throws a real good curve but must sharpen his control. Giant officials feel if he can throw a strike with that curve, he could win a starting berth.

LACK EXPERIENCE

Joe Overton, a 25-year-old right-hander, turned in a 14-10 record at Tacoma. Mike Davison and Tom Stewart, a pair of 20-year-old southpaws, can throw hard but lack experience. Davison was 9-13 with a 2.84 ERA at Springfield and Stewart was 8-8 and 3.10 at Decatur.

It is doubtful if any of the new infielders will make it. Bob Holbert, a 19-year-old shortstop, who received a reported $150,000 bonus in 1964, had a good year at Fresno, hitting .291, but he probably needs another year or two.

Bob Etheridge, a 23-year-old third baseman, also appears to be an exceptional prospect, but needs to play more in the minors. He displayed power at Fresno, hitting .329 with 10 home runs and 107 runs batted in.

Auerbach To Call It Quits

BOSTON (AP) — National Basketball Assn. coaches can rest easily now with the knowledge they'll only have to win about 1,050 games to reach the top in coaching proficiency.

That means that even if the Celtics win every game from here on out, Auerbach will retire without winning 1,050 games.

The balding red head reached the 1,000th victory milestone last week and now is looking for 1,002.

The game's most successful coach, now 48, will continue in his role as general manager of the team he directed to nine consecutive Eastern Division championships and eight NBA titles.

Player procurement will be among his most important duties in the struggle to keep the Celtics' basketball empire from crumbling. He said he was dissatisfied with the team's scouting operation and wants "to look over some of these top draft choices more closely himself."

Since Auerbach has contemplated getting out of the coaching ranks for some time, he obviously has been looking for a successor. He shed no light on the possible successor yesterday except that he was able to eliminate some of those that were previously mentioned.

He said he had been turned down by Frank Ramsey, the former Kentucky ace who went on to become "the best sixth man in basketball" with the Celtics.

Ramsey had been a protege of Auerbach's and often filled in when the busy coach was absent. But Ramsey declined to consider the job on a permant basis although volunteering his services for any job on a short-term stand.

Auerbach also eliminated former basketball great Bob Cousy, saying the current Boston College coach is "having troubles enough emotionally with a 24-game college schedule to even think about the rugged pro schedule."

Red made it clear he wants a man who knows the professional game well, either as a player or as a coach. It's also clear he would like a man who knows basketball Auerbach style.

"I need someone I can work with year after year," he said.

Auerbach talked about retiring for more than a year before finally making it official. Last week he said the goal of 1,000 victories had been an important factor in his coaching this season. Now that factor has been eliminated.

"But then the time comes when you must know this is it," he said. "This has to be my last year. I could probably keep doing it, but I won't."

AFL Investigates Tampering Charge

By MIKE RATHET

HOUSTON (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss has withheld approval of the disputed trade involving San Diego's Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison while he investigates tampering charges — and at the same time has pointedly squashed rumors of his removal as head of the American Football League.

Foss, in holding up the transaction that sent the two mammoth defensive linemen to Houston in a five-player trade, climaxed a day in which he reaffirmed his position verbally and then backed it without comment by employing his powers as commissioner.

Asked yesterday afternoon about the rumors that the owners were looking to buy up his contract, Foss said:

"I am still on duty and will be tomorrow and the next day and the next day."

Some eight hours later, at the conclusion of two lengthy sessions at the AFL meetings, Foss announced his decision to hold up the deal that sent Ladd and Faison to Houston for linebacker Johnny Baker, defensive end Gary Cutsinger and defensive back Pete Jaquess.

Foss refused to make any comments on his decision but did issue this statement:

"Pending a through investigation of the charges of tampering, I am withholding approval of the trade. I am also advising all parties concerned that I will not tolerate the trying of the case in the press by any of the representatives of the Houston Oilers or San Diego Chargers or the personnel of any other club in the AFL, players included."

POWER TO FINE

Although Foss refused to say anything further about the case, he did reveal that he had the power to fine an owner up to $2,000 — and up to $25,000 with the approval of the league's executive committee. The executive committee is made up of the AFL's nine club owners.

The five-player trade, announced Saturday by the Oilers, was immediately greeted by a verbal blast from Sid Gillman, the San Diego coach and general manager. Gillman criticized Houston owner Bud Adams for issuing inflammatory monetary statements and thus "weakening the Chargers' bargaining position."

"When an owner makes a statement to the press that he is interested in such-and-such a player and will give a certain amount of money, that's tampering," said Gillman.

Gillman's comment apparently referred to a statement by Adams that he would trade three players plus $100,000 for Ladd alone.

The uproar caused by Foss' announcement overshadowed other developments at the meetings. Little business was transacted by the owners, who were in session with Foss, but Oakland and Denver completed a trade and Miami completed the first round of its expansion draft.

The Raiders sent Arch Matsos, a three-time All-League linebacker, to the Broncos for Hewritt Dixon, a tight end who will be converted into a fullback.

MIAMI DRAFT

The new Dolphins, meanwhile, selected 16 of the 32 players they will receive under the AFL's stocking formula and wound up with 14p layers who had been starters at times last season for their respective clubs. Among the players the Dolphins picked were Buffalo flanker Bo Roberson, the Bills' leading receiver last season, and Boston guard Billy Neighbors, an All-AFL selection in 1964.

The Bills still owe Oakland a player for Roberson, who at 29 is the oldest player picked by the Miami club.

The draft went so well for the Dolphins that Joe Thomas, director of player personnel, said, "We have already been approached by a couple of teams about some of the players we picked."

The players selected by the Dolphins were:

Buffalo—Roberson, fullback Billy Joe.

Boston—Neighbors, uarterback Eddie Wilson.

Houston—Tackle Norman Evans, center Tom Goode.

San Diego—tight end Dave Kocourek, tackle Ernie Park.

Oakland—guard Rich Zecher, quarterback Dick Wood.

Kansas City—Defensive end Mel Branch, defensive tackle Alphonse Dotson.

Evans, Zecher, McGeever and Dotson had not been named officially but it was learned by The Associated Press that they would be selected today.

Hunter Safety Training Course A Must For All-Young Shooters

STEVENS

An acquaintance of mine, and a dedicated duck hunter, is the father of twin boys now 14 years of age. He bought each of the lads a shotgun for Christmas, and bewails the fact that he must wait until next duck season to take his boys hunting with him. "It's too darned bad the boys won't be able to use the guns for a long time yet," he said.

But they can if they are qualified.

The black sea brant, a small aquatic goose, is still fair prey for local nimrods and will be until Feb. 15. "What do you mean 'if they are qualified?' he asked.

"IF THEY have completed a course on gun safety, and have a certificate to prove it," I told him. He insisted that he would personally teach the boys the basic principles of safe shooting. I explained that it isn't done that way. Anyone under 19 years of age MUST have a certitficate before a license will be issued to them.

And that brings to mind a recent letter from Kevin Johnson who is a certified instructor for Hunter Safety Course in Hayward. I quote from the letter: "On January 12, 1966, the V-Ringers of Hayward Junior Rifle School held graduation exercises at Sunset High School for 20 members of its latest class. As you know, this school issues Hunter Safety Certificates and NRA basic rifle certitficates. This class brings the total number of graduates to nearly 2,400 over the past eight years. Mr. Ralph Paulk, chief instructor, has announced that a new class will begin with registration on Jan. 19."

I SUGGEST to all my readers who are interested in a Hunter Safety Course or an N.R.A. rifle certificate inquire at a local store where firearms are sold about whom to contact for information regarding the nearest certified instructor, and when and where the instructiton may be had. (It is not necessary for the young student to own a rifle to participate.)

The course lasts for eight weeks at the Sunset High, and the same length in Marin and Sonoma counties.

CHANGING THE subject from guns to rods and reels, a few steelhead have been landed in the north coast streams, but no real runs have been reported. Talking with Jack McCurley of Point Arena on Sunday, (Jack is a retired game warden for that district) I learned that the Garcia, usually one of the first coast streams to return to normal after a fall of rain, is still muddy, but should clear along with most other streams by Wednesday. If the weather remains dry until tomorrow, all streams both north and south of the Golden Gate should become prime.

AGE-GROUP SWIMMING

National Honors For Marin Kids

Ten Marin County youngsters have received national recognition for outstanding times recorded during the past age group swimming season.

The Marin boys and girls took 8 first places, 7 seconds, 6 thirds, 8 fourths and 4 fifth, including three national records. The Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) compiled and released the five best swimming times that were made nationwide on various courses, at various distances, in various strokes in both age group and Junior Olympic competition.

San Rafael Swim Club's 10 and under girls relay teams, composed of JoAnn Hislop, Kim Knudsen, Cookie Arrighi, Katie Parnow and Linda Nederman, gained national recognition no less than six times in age group competition and three times in Junior Olympic events.

They dominated in both freestyle and medley relays, with six firsts, two seconds, and a fourth best time. While splashing to their triumphs, they established national records in the 160-yard medley relay (1:51.4), and the 160-yard freestyle relay (1:37.6).

Individually, Robin Bachrach of the Marin Pirates set a new national Junior Olympic record in the 10 and under 50-yard butterfly (31.5) while scoring eight times in age group competition and twice in Junior Olympic events.

New Young First Sacker For Cards 'On The Spot'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — George Kernek himself put it best: "Man," he said, "I'm in a heck of a spot."

Kernek, who has just turned 26, is in one of the toughest spots in the major leagues as his St. Louis Cardinals prepare for spring training.

He is being counted upon to take over first base vacated when the Cardinals traded veteran Bill White to the Philadelphia Phillies.

George Kernek has a lot of things going for him — an Oklahoma drawl, a friendly manner and fresh coat of confidence.

But a few questions bring out the fact that he is about as green a rookie as the Cardinals have placed big money on in some time.

"How many major league games have you started, George?"

"Eight, if you count one that was rained out."

"When you led the league in RBI at Jacksonville last year, where were you playing?"

"In the outfield."

"The outfield? How did you get to first base?"

"I used to play first base, and we had too many first basemen. I cover the bag pretty well."

The truth is that the rangy youngster from Holdenville, Okla., covers first base territory like a spider. It was his hitting that Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst was worried about, and George says he made great strides in the Redbirds' winter instructional camp in Florida.

"I think one of my biggest problems will be replacing Bill White in the hearts of the St. Louis fans," Kernek said. "He's really a great guy. When I came up at the end of last season, he gave me some good pointers."

Kernek, a lefty all the way, says he's a little worried about the longer right field fence at the new St. Louis stadium .The Cardinals will move into the new park in May.

But Kernek has had problems before and has overcome them. He was on a basketball scholarship at Oklahoma University when the Cardinals signed him in his junior year. He played for Tulsa, then bounced down to Class C at Winnipeg, Canada, then to another Class C team at Billings, Mont., where he learned to hit and came up with a .330 average.

Then he went back to Tulsa, to Jacksonville, to Tulsa, back to Jacksonville, and finally up to the Cardinals at the end of last season. That's a lot of bouncing for a 25-year-old, but he was impressive in a few appearances when White was injured.

Now he has the inside track to the regular job after hitting .295 at Jacksonville last year, and he says he's equal to the task.

"I'm sure they'll give me a chance, if I come along, and I think I'll come along."

Golf Meeting

Regular monthly business meeting of Novato's Indian Valley Men's Golf Club will be held 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the club house.

State Champion Spencer In Kezar Bout Tomorrow

George Cooper, classy Oaklander, makes his pro debut on the same bill in a four rounder with Marco Spargo, also of Oakland. Cooper won last year's AAU middleweight championship at Toledo. He is managed by Allan Moore, who feels his young protege will soon become a main eventer.

Tomorrow's program starts at 8:30 p.m.

Ex-Cubs Aide To Coach Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Goldie Holt has been hired as pitching coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers, E. J. Bavasi, general manager, has announced.

Holt was scout and minor league manager for the Dodgers from 1951 through 1960. For the past five years, Holt has been a coach with the Chicago Cubs.

McCartan Okay To Work For Seals Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jack McCartan, the regular goal tender for the San Francisco Seals Western Hockey League team, missed practice yesterday because of an injury to his eye.

It required 17 stitches to close the wound.

Bud Poile, the Seals general manager, said McCartan was expected to take his regular turn against Portland when the teams meet Wednesday at the Cow Palace.

Rugged forward Ron Harris, who has been out of the lineup since Christmas day, probably will play against Portland on Wednesday. Harris suffered a hairline fracture in a game with the Buckaroos.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Video Coaching Gimmicks Probed

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP — The NCAA Football Rules Committee has set up a subcommittee to study the use of closed circuit television and other video devices as coaching aides while a game is in progress.

Ivy Williamson, chairman of the full committee, said yesterday the subcommittee had not been given any definite date to report recommendations.

Williamson, athletic director at Wisconsin, named John Waldorf, supervisor of Big Eight Conference officials, to head the study group as the Rules Committee wound up a quiet three-day annual session.

The official collegiate rules body had decided earlier in its session that nothing would be done about changing the present substitution rules which permit two-platoon football. Frank Popejoy, University of New Mexico President, had urged its elimination because he said it cost more money for coaches and athletic scholarships.

Williamson said the committee felt a period of stabilization was needed but "this doesn't mean that some rules changes won't be indicated each year or that constant vigilance should not be exercised to be certain the best interests of the game are preserved."

The economic factors which the present sub rules "may bring to bear on the college game will be closely watched," Williamson told a news conference.

The economic factor brought about the look into the use of video coaching aids, said Williamson. "We want a thorough study of the use of such euipment with the objective of determining whether or not such use during the playing of a game is in the best interest. . .of football."

The rules body made a jersey numbering system mandatory for players ordinarily occupying the offensive positions of center, guard or tackle — to be numbered from 50 to 79 — and adopted other minor rules changes.

Bank Pays First Cash Dividend

Redwood National Bank, San Rafael, has paid its first cash dividend, president Byron W. Leydecker announced.

The dividend of 10 cents per share has been paid to stockholders of record Dec. 28, 1965 and was the result of record levels in earnings, deposits and gains in assets during the past year, he said.

Earnings were recently reported up more than 11 per cent from 1964, an increase of 50 cents per share after taxes.

Commonwealth Bank Tallies First Year

SAN FRANCISCO—Net operating income of Commonwealth National Bank of San Francisco for 1965 was $191,122.61, it was announced in the bank's annual report to stockholders.

The earnings are equivalent to 63.7 cents per share outstanding. No comparable 1964 figures are available, since Commonwealth opened for business in June of that year.

Dividend Declared

SAN FRANCISCO — Directors of Di Giorgio Crop. have declared a cash dividend of 20 cents per share of Di Giorgio common stock payable Feb. 15 to stockholders of record Jan. 27.

Stock Split Shows Strength Of Firm

By ANDREW BALDWIN

U. S. corporations have varied ways to demonstrate strength, from capital expansion to dividend increases, but the stock split is becoming one of the most popular.

In essence, most corporations that split their stocks do so in the hope of achieving greater marketability and wider distribution of their shares.

The practicability of such a move is obvious, since the current share price of some companies' stocks — had they not been split periodically — would be astronomical. Wtih the stock cheaper and more plentiful after the split, most companies find themselves with more stockholders.

The resulting widely scattered ownership gives more stability to the stock price and allows it to reflect the company's earnings performance more accurately. To the sharp eyes of brokers and bankers, any company with steadily rising earnings and a stock price ranging upward of, say, $75 per share is ripe for a split.

There is a more subtle psychological factor: people who might shy from a $160 stock, might buy it after a five-for-one split, because the split share's $32 is more to their liking.

What is in it for the investor?

While splits in themselves do not give a stockholder any more than he already has—a share worth $100 in a company that splits its stock five-for-one ends up as five shares worth $20 each—brokers and investors love them because they usually represent a management declaration of confidence that very often edges the stock price upward.

The stockholder is ahead if the dividend is increased and if investor interest is stimulated by the new low price—and the bigger yield.

The only time anyone cries over split stock is when it is a reverse split—one share exchanged for several that the stockholder holds. Very often this is regarded as a management effort to raise the market value by cutting the number of outstanding shares. But it often has the opposite effect. The public sees it as an admission that the price cannot be brought up in any other way and usually shuns such stocks.

A good time to be skeptical is when a stock selling at $10 to $20 splits. This smells of promotion, because there is really no reason to bring a stock down in price from these levels.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Campbell-Castro Is Expanding; Beth Levan Principal In Office

There is a move in store Feb. 1 for Campbell-Castro Leasing from its joint occupancy of 5880 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera with Campbell-Bishop Chevrolet.

Quarters here are now too crowded for this 18-month old business, thought to be the largest leasing company this side of the Golden Gate Bridge. It has expanded from its original staff of two to seven, and last year it leased about 500 automobiles of various makes. Manager John Brusati predicts the company will make over 1,000 leases from the 1966 model run.

New location will be 645 Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera—next to the Oriental-styled Bank of America branch in Stanford Terrace.

BETH LEVIN is now the sole principal in Regal Realty, 1405 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael—opposite the new City Hall under construction. She has on her staff Yelva Giannini and Louis H. Baskin.

Former associate Sally Gray has retired to Santa Rosa. Phyllis Steckel, one of the "three queens of Regal" as they were known when the office originally opened three years ago, left early last year to establish her own office on the Miracle Mile, San Anselmo.

EDWARD J. McINERNEY of Corte Madera has been appointed a vice president and trust officer at Crocker-Citizens National Bank's San Francisco trust office, in charge of agencies and custodianships. He joined the bank in 1933 and was assigned to the trust department; he has been a trust officer since 1963.

Mathews

HARRY S. MATHEWS III of Tiburon has been made assistant manager of the Bank of California's Oakland office. He joined the bank in 1963 after five years with a Pittsburgh, Pa. bank, advancing to assistant cashier that same year.

INTERESTING "boy - makes-good" operation is that of young Sausalito resident David Baldwin, 29, recently moved from Lafayette. He is president of the Leisure Lease Corp. in the Sheraton-Palace Hotel, San Francisco.

Fresh out of college, Baldwin was looking for a new type of business that would move him up in the world quickly—and hit on the idea of "second homes." He talked a few investors into putting up a two-million dollar stake and started building homes in the Sierras, which he rents out to people who want a part time retreat without a full time headache. Homes are completely furnished down to the last detail, including bedding and drinking glasses, and are located near Tahoe sports and entertainment areas.

His newest project is called High Sierra Club, in which homes are sold outright and then rented out when not used. He plans on extending this into a world-wide private club, taking in first the Hawaiian Islands, the Bahamas and France.

OPENING TOMORROW at 6 p.m. is the San Francisco International Sailboat Show—a five day exhibit at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. Hundreds of boats, including many imports from all over the world, will be on display, fully rigged. There will also be showings of marine equipment and accessories, along with daily films, lectures and seminars—all free and open to the public. Show hours are from noon to 10:30 p.m. daily through Sunday, Jan. 23.

Quick Way To Solve Obscene Book Issue

(An open letter)

Walter J. Doll, president,
San Rafael Board of Education

Dear Mr. Doll:

The San Rafael Board of Education has been faced recently with many complaints from parents about books assigned for reading at the high school level. These complaints seem to have centered primarily on the book "On the Road," by Jack Kerouac, which was assigned by a Terra Linda High School teacher for reading by his class.

Complainants have referred to "On the Road" as trashy, obscene, etc.

Members of the board of education have publicly indicated that they do not feel competent to judge whether the book is suitable for high school assigned reading.

The matter has been referred for study by a committee. According to a set of rules established by the board of education after an earlier book complaint, this committee is to be set up by the San Rafael schools superintendent, county schools superintendent, and English department faculties.

This cumbersome process seems scarcely designed to produce an answer soon enough to resolve the dispute before it balloons into completely unnecessary proportions. Moreover, the finding by any such committee is unlikely to be accepted by the public, since the committee's makeup renders it subject to suspicion of being self-serving for the protection of a professional colleague.

We would, therefore, like to suggest a quick, simple and democratic method of resolving the problem.

We suggest that "On the Road" or major unexpurgated portions thereof be read publicly at a meeting of the San Rafael Board of Education, with advance announcement when this will be done. All interested parents could then attend, hear, and vote on whether they wished this book to be assigned for reading by their children in high school.

Further, we suggest the teacher who assigned the book do the public reading. This would eliminate embarrassment for anybody who might be assigned to read matter in public which he felt distasteful. The teacher who assigned the book for his young students to read would, of course, feel no such embarrassment.

Ordinarily, we think high school-age youngsters should be encouraged to attend meetings of school boards and other public bodies. However, in this case, because of the nature of the complaint, it would seem appropriate to bar from the meeting, during reading of the book, all those under 21 years of age. This would also serve to limit voting, on whether the book should be assigned reading, to those of legal voting age.

Surely there could be no objection by the board of education, the school administration or the teachers to following the wishes of parents and taxpayers, as shown by such a poll, on whether the book should be retained for high school reading. If it were rejected, those parents who wish their children to read "On the Road" could, of course, encourage them to read it at home.

Drizzle Or Downpour?

Do you like the softness of a drizzle falling gently, like Shakespeare's quality of mercy? Almost as feminine as tears, it is not without its appeal.

We prefer a real gully-washer, where the rain drums on the roof and pounds on the doors and windows, as if demanding entrance. Snug inside our homes, Marin's winter storms threaten, but do us no harm, and give us a feeling that we have truly mastered the elements.

Whether drizzle or downpour, Marin's winter precipitation is a vital and sometimes enjoyable part of life in this lush county.

Demo Strategy Against Reagan Will Not Work With Electorate

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It's real easy to see what the Democratic strategy against the candidacy of Republican Ronald Reagan for governor will be this year, following a series of releases from the office of Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The theme song so far is that Reagan knows nothing about state government or the problems confronting the administration of California's highly costly fiscal affairs, or matters involving the economic life of its citizens.

This is not an unusual strategy. It has been used before, and although its effectiveness is debatable, the theory is that if you can say your opponent doesn't know anything often enough, eventually people might start believing the statement.

HOWEVER, voters are becoming more knowledgeable all the time, and are acquiring an attitude that has little use for juvenile attempts to disparage the qualifications or knowledge of opposing candidates for public office.

The electorate is realizing more and more that it isn't what the candidate knows about public office, but that the important item is whether or not he can administer the office once elected. And also, on what basis administration will be conducted.

Thus, despite the efforts of the Democratic strategists in the governor's office to create an atmosphere of superciliousness as far as the GOP is concerned, it is more than an even bet that voters won't buy this attitude but will weigh the real issues of the campaign rather than stand on nit-picking criticisms.

THE PEOPLE, before the campaign is over, perhaps will come to realize there are only a few real issues in the matter of whether a Democratic or Republican administration will guide the destinies of the state for the next four years.

To boil the issues down to real simplicity, the question is whether the people of the state, and the taxpayers in particular, can continue to afford a luxurious government devoted to the principle of giving away the public monies above and beyond the public need.

Whether the Republicans can correct this policy or not would remain to be seen after the voters decide whether or not the time has come for a change in administration, and whether they should apply the brakes to a period of fast spending which is unparalleled in the history of California.

THE RELEASES from Governor Brown's office following Reagan's announcement of candidacy without exception called attention to alleged errors the GOP candidate made in referring to specific matters of public administration, among them being the percentage of welfare recipients.

Salaries Should Be Put To Vote

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to make mention of your very fine editorial of the supervisors granting whatever salaries they see fit.

It's high time the taxpayers wake up and see that someone or some board should vote on the salary raises. No wonder so many people who want to move to Marin County can't do so. The cost of living here is prohibitive!

Tennessee Valley Unfit For Park

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Attention should be given to the incipient consideration by both school boards of a joint building program for Mill Valley's and Sausalito's kindergarten through eighth grade children on a possible 75-acre site on the Tennessee Valley Road.

As this road is the boundary between the two school districts, a cooperative educational park might be set up here, with each district buying its own land.

Drive out this road to the ranch area. The country is beautiful; the weather horrible; the road unspeakable. With the development of Marincello, the road would have to be improved, but would also be loaded with heavy construction equipment and other traffic.

Parents, picture seventy busloads of children transported out this road through the fog each morning, and back each afternoon. That is what it would require to take 4400 children (Mill Valley's 3500, Sausalito's 900) to the educational park.

Picture also the salary costs for perhaps 40 bus drivers—around $200,000 a year—not to mention purchase and maintenance of the buses. Could not this money be better spent on educational programs?

And how do we house and educate our children between the time the present schools are sold to finance this land purchase, and the time the educational park is completed?

These are questions the communities should be looking at, as well as the two school boards.

Anti-Obscenity Motive Challenged

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I was one of the 200 people present at Tuesday's (Jan. 11) meeting of the San Rafael Board of Education . . . .

The obscenity issue would be laughable if it were the only issue. No child can escape exposure to verbal and written obscenity unless he or she is raised alone in a soundproof room and never taught to read. This may be deplorable, but it is a fact of American life today.

In San Rafael, Chico, and San Diego, citizens are raising cries of anguish and alarm. The English language contains some dirty words. Teachers sometimes have opinions. In each city an attack has been launched against obscenity and a teacher. Sex and the School System: it's a great double bill and will always pack the house.

What really is at stake here, I think, is a professional person's right to do his job to the best of his ability, in reasonable freedom from harrassment and intimidation. Our teachers are professionals trying to educate our young people. I have had three children in San Rafael High, so I know firsthand of the unease felt by many teachers when class discussion concerns a "controversial" subject. I am grateful and surprised there is one stimulating, effective teacher left in town. That's the type who have "opinions."

Obviously the anti-obscenity group at Tuesday's meeting were scared to death of something . . . I very much doubt they are all that afraid of Jack Kerouac's "On the Road." There is little if anything in the book that the high school seniors, to whom it was assigned, have not already heard or read. I also doubt that those scared parents really fear there is an academic plot afoot to undermine the morals of the young.

So what is their real problem?

Hospital Friends Give Thanks

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The parents and friends of the retarded children at Haven Cottage, Sonoma State Hospital, Eldridge, Calif., wish to thank the Corte Madera Merchants Assn. for its effort in making the Christmas season a very happy and satisfying one for the children at Haven Cottage and the other . . . groups at Sonoma State Hospital.

Members of the association contributed tricycles, wagons, records, and all types of toys, books, games, and dolls to the children's wards and were present during the holidays to pass out gifts and the "feeling" of Christmas.

Many thanks to the people who contributed their time in wrapping the presents, and to Hamilton Air Force Base for delivering them.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON does not always fare too well in his jousts with over-inquisitive Washington newshawks, but one of them wrote such a complimentary piece about him that it was read aloud to him by his secretary. The President obviously was gratified. He commented, "I wish my mother and father could read this. My father would enjoy it. My mother would believe it."

HISTORY OF a book called "The Cincinnati Kid": 1. Written by Richard Jessup, and submitted to a paperback publisher. 2. Rejected by same. 3. Submitted to a hardback publisher. 4. Accepted by same. 5. An overnight best-seller, reprinted by Reader's Digest, and sold for a whopping sum to MGM. 6. Sold to very same paperback reprint publisher who had originally rejected it for ten times what they had been asked at that time to put up for it. And this is what makes publishing such an unpredictable—and fascinating—business!

Johnson Using 'American Made' Appeal To End War In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's State of the Union message shows that the end-of-the-war proposals he has sent to Hanoi are more wide-ranging than first appeared.

Unquestionably there are grave risks in what the U.S. is offering, but there are bound to be great risks in any attempt to negotiate an end to a war which hasn't been won by either side.

The President is determined on one thing—to go the extra mile to show our will to obtain peace before being forced to the "hard decisions" — a stepped-up battle front on land, air, and sea—which would inevitably follow if North Viet Nam slams the door on every approach.

THE MOST publicized part of the U.S. offer, contained in the Rusk memorandum delivered to Hanoi, is our readiness to enter negotiations anywhere at any time without any conditions.

The less publicized part of our offer is a clearly stated willingness to join at once in cutting back the war to the point of a total cease-fire without any advance commitment to go to a peace conference.

This possibility — a reciprocal diminution of the fighting to the level of no shots being fired—has been touched upon by some U.S. officials, but only tangentially in public speeches.

SINCE THE HANOI government does not look upon public speeches as anything more than propaganda and certainly as never containing serious proposals, the United States has now gone further. It has directly communicated its views to the North Vietnamese authorities so there can be no doubt that we are extremely serious.

The President made a direct and significant reference in his message to Congress when he said in words not heretofore contained in official pronouncements on Viet Nam: "We will work for a cease-fire now or once discussions have begun. We will respond if others reduce their use of force."

The risks involved in such a de-escalation without agreement about the terms of the truce or how it would be supervised are evident. It would leave South Viet Nam in a precarious position. Would the Viet Cong, which controls 60 per cent of the countryside (though only 20 per cent of the population), be left holding these large areas of South Viet Nam hostage?

Would the government in Saigon be committed to allowing the Viet Cong to hold sway whereever they happened to be standing when the truce came into being? Would the North Vietnamese armed forces withdraw and permit slow pacification, if attainable, throughout the South?

THESE ARE SOME of the vast uncertainties.

But with these risks it is possible that the de-escalation offer is more meaningful at this stage than any naked offer to negotiate, since, from the viewpoint of either side, the issues at present are nearly unnegotiable.

Official thinking behind it is as follows:

The Johnson administration wants to give the North Vietnamese all the flexibility and latitude they may feel they need in time of crisis.

The peace-by-negotiation initiative is "American-made" and it might well be difficult for the Hanoi leaders, caught between a hostile and competing Peking and Moscow, to appear to be pushed by the U.S. into "unconditional talks."

Ending the fighting by de-escalation could be taken up by Hanoi as its own initiative perhaps first on the battlefield without public anouncement. It could take the first step—and then the U.S. would be responding.

Coal Industry Asks Subsidy To Japan

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The coal industry wants the government to provide an export subsidy to induce Japan to stop buying large quantities of coal from North Viet Nam and to use U.S. coal instead.

Industry leaders proposed this as a war measure to Vice President Humphrey following his recent visit to Japan.

JAPAN IMPORTS one-third of its coal from North Viet Nam, an estimated 50 million tons a year. American producers say all or most of this can be supplied by the U.S.

The producers contend North Viet Nam's loss of the Japanese market would be a double-barreled gain for the U.S.: It would deprive North Viet Nam of much-needed foreign currency and thus hamper its warring; and it would directly stimulate mining in depressed U.S. areas, particularly anthracite.

Warren, chairman of the seven-member group, has agreed to do that at the request of the four congressional members. They asked for the meeting to obtain a financial accounting of the year-long inquiry.

No report has ever been submitted, although the commission formally concluded its work in September 1964.

Several months ago the legislators, after discussing the matter for some time, decided that a detailed financial accounting should be presented and made part of the official records of the commission. It was their understanding this would be done before the commission disbanded. But for some unexplained reason, nothing came of that.

SO IN IDENTICAL letters to Warren and Lee Rankin, general counsel of the commission and now New York City Attorney in the new Lindsay administration, the lawmakers asked that the commission be reconvened for the express purpose of receiving and acting on a comprehensive financial statement.

Warren promptly agreed, and asked the legislators to set a date.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., former ambassador to India, who took the lead in this move, is conferring with the other lawmakers on this.

ON MAY 5 of last year, this column disclosed the commission's year-long investigation had cost $1.2 million.

Biggest single expenditure was $556,500 for printing. Next largest was $225,650 for "salaries and related benefits."

Recently Director J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrest of five men in Miami on charges of interstate transmission of betting information. These were not small fry.

Two of them—Frank (Lefty) Rosenthal and Stanley Green—were connected with Multiple Sports News Service, one of the largest suppliers of sport news essential to underworld bookies.

Also in Miami, the FBI cracked an alleged extortion racket. One man, Joseph Bisogno, was arrested on federal extortion charges resulting from the reputed use of "strong-arm" methods in organizing the Statewide Carting Assn. Two others were arrested on charges of extorting protection money from owners of bars and night clubs.

Novato Father Dies On Viet Air Mission

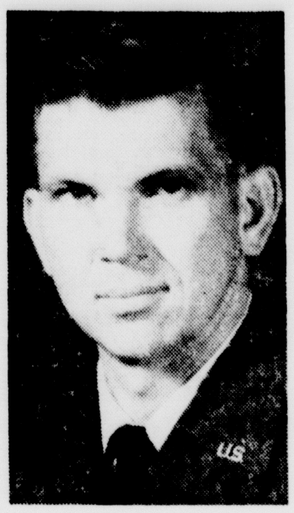
Capt. Herman R. Ritchie, who moved his family to Novato only a week before being sent to Viet Nam, has been killed in action.

The 30-year-old father of four was listed as missing after a mission last Thursday, the Defense Department disclosed today. On Saturday, his wife was notified that he had been killed.

The wife and children live at 1213 Lynwood Drive, Novato, where they moved in August. Ritchie earlier served at Hamilton Air Force Base in 1956-57.

He was pilot of a C-123 transport plane used to carry men and supplies of the 310th Commando Squadron in the Viet Nam jungle fighting. The plane was shot down Thursday.

The C-123 is a plane capable of carrying 60 men or 24,000 pounds of equipment. It is used to airlift and parachute supplies and men or as a transport, according to Col. Robert R. Fishel of the Hamilton Air Force Base information office.



HERMAN R. RITCHIE
Viet Nam casualty

A native of Okmulgee, Okla., Ritchie had been in the Air Force more than 10 years. He served with the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base in 1956-57, then with a military air transport squadron at Charleston Air Force Base, S.C., before his assignment to Viet Nam.

He left his wife, Betty Jo, and children, Deborah, James, Terry and Susan, for the war zone Aug. 15. Mrs. Ritchie and the three oldest children left today for Okmulgee, where a memorial service will be held.

In addition to his wife and children, Ritchie is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ritchie of Okmulgee; a brother, J. H. Ritchie of Ponca City, Okla., and a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Underwood of Springfield, Mo.

Prison Escaper's Campsite Found In Larkspur Thicket

By STEPHEN COOK

William J. Dellinger, 36-year-old murderer who fled over San Quentin Prison walls early Friday, lived two days in a dense, poison oak-infested thicket below the Tamalpais high-rise construction site in Larkspur, Police Chief Howard Clark of Larkspur said today.

Using the campsite as a base of operations, the convict foraged through apartments and a consruction office in the area, stealing clothing and almost $230 before moving on, Chief Clark declared.

Clark said workmen arriving at the construction site on Via Casitas yesterday morning may have frightened the once-model prisoner away. As they set up equipment they heard something crash through the thick underbrush down the hill, Clark said.

Larkspur police and a force of prison guards searched the area for almost four hours yesterday afternoon and evening, and Clark stationed an officer at the site all night, but no further trace of the convict was found.

BURGLARY PROBED

Saturday morning, two Larkspur policemen investigated a burglary at the construction office. The thief had broken in Friday night and taken $228 in cash, eight packages of cigarettes, and a rubber chair pad.

Police found no clue to the burglar's identity, but when job foreman Leon Steward of Richmond came to work yesterday, he poked through the nearby underbrush, hoping the thief had discarded some of the stolen goods.

CLUES FOUND

Beneath some leaves, Steward found a pair of boots stolen from the office—and a pair of prison denim pants. Police resumed the search and found Dellinger's campsite.

There they found a comb and a comb case, an identification tag with Dellinger's prison number stamped on it, the rubber chair pad he used to soften his earthen bed, two empty packs of cigarettes, typing paper and envelopes and an instant coffee jar he used as a container for coffee he brewed himself in the construction office.

The boots, Chief Clark said, have markings on the soles which match prints found outside the bathroom window at the Vern C. Stanford apartment

West Marin Master Plan Voted, 4-1

After Arguments, Quarter-Acre Lot Minimum Adopted

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Over protests of many property owners wanting more intensive use of their land, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday recommended approval of the West Marin master plan.

The vote was 4-1, with Commissioner Niels Schultz Jr. making a strong dissent and commissioners Eugene Trombley and Harry H. Heifetz absent.

DENSITY ISSUE

Main issue in the three-hour discussion was housing density.

The plan, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Summers and Daniel P. Coleman, originally called for lots ranging from one-half to five acres, depending on the slope of the land.

After several hearings, a three-member committee of the commission, headed by Commissioner Hugh Dougherty, recommended 10,000-square-foot lots for established communities, bayside areas and the Olema Valley, one-acre lots on slopes less than 25 per cent, and two-acre lots on slopes over 25 per cent.

MORE POPULATION

Under the original recommendation, the over-all density would be .66 of a dwelling unit per acre. Under the committee's recommendation, which was finally adopted yesterday, the density would be .86 of a dwelling unit per acre.

Instead of an ultimate population of 66,000 as seen by the consultants, the population could become 87,500. And if a 25 per cent bonus recommended by the committee and adopted by the commission for good design were applied throughout, the population could become 109,000.

Schultz, who also served on the committee and filed a minority report, declared that the density was not responsive to the wishes of West Marin and was putting different standards

Board Rejects Justice Hall Bids, 4-1

By 4-1 vote, Marin County Supervisors today rejected all bids on the Hall of Justice addition to the Civic Center, and called for new bids to be opened Feb. 8.

The supervisors also agreed to revise the specifications downward by an estimated $474,200, delay re-bidding on site development for a year, and make further cutbacks in other phases of the project in hope of saving another $682,550.

The board thereby accepted the recommendation of County Administrator Alan Bruce, which had the blessing of auditor-controller Michael Mitchell, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, and Public Works Director Donald R. Frost.

In rejecting the bids, supervisors specified they were doing so because the lowest bid was a half million dollars above the architect's estimate, and not on the basis of legal objections to the low bid submitted by Haas and Haynie of South San Francisco.

Kettenhofen urged that his colleagues consider the bid rejection and the proposed cost reductions as separate issues, and said he was prepared to negotiate with the low bidder to incorporate the reductions in his original bid.

If the bids were rejected, he contended, supervisors should be prepared to make even more drastic reductions in the specifications because of rising costs. He said he was concern-

Bombing Pause Extension Is Considered

COMBINED AP & UPI

The United States was reported today contemplating a possible extension of the bombing pause in North Viet Nam until after next month's Moscow visit by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Apparently no firm decision as to the duration of the bombing pause has been made, but informed reports in London cited "suggestions" today that it be tacitly extended through February.

Diplomats feel the chances of these talks, however slim, would be improved if the bombing pause were still in force at the time the little Moscow summit gets under way.

Hope has been abandoned in the Vatican for any replies from Peking or Hanoi to the Viet Nam peace appeals that Pope Paul VI sent New Year's Day, a high Vatican source said today.

The pontiff had sent individual appeals to Red Chinese leader Mao Tze-tung, North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh, Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and South Vietnamese Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu.

U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, Arthur J. Goldberg said last night that although North

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON — U.S. military strength in Viet Nam today soared to more than 190,000 men with the twin landings of thousands of fresh Marines and infantrymen from Hawaii and Okinawa. (See also story on additional ground forces and spending, on page 3.)

U.S. military commander Gen. William C. Westmoreland was on the beach at Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, when the first elements of the 4,000-man 2nd Brigade of the 2nd Infantry Division from Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, moved ashore.

By nightfall, all of the men were ashore in an operation which went off without a hitch, a U.S. military spokesman said. Among the arrivals were two battalions of the 27th Infantry "Wolfhounds," a unit which fought in Siberia in World War I, and later in World War II and Korea.

To the north at Chu Lai, 60 miles south of the Da Nang airbase, 3,000 men of the 1st Marine Regiment from Okinawa scrambled off LSTs which met their troop ships. This brought Marine strength in Viet Nam to about 42,000 men.

Hill said his only worry had been "that I might not make it to Viet Nam" since soldiers under 18 cannot serve here. Hill turned 18 to days ago.

The Kentucky soldier and his outfit were hustled onto trucks, driven to a nearby airfield and flown to the Bien Hoa base 13 miles north of Saigon.

The 1st Marine Regiment meanhile moved out into the Chu Lai region to beef up Marine forces guarding the Da Nang complex and clearing Viet Cong guerrillas from the countryside.

The landings came as the war tapered off in anticipation of a 3½-day cease fire in observance of the Chinese lunar New Year, Tet, beginning at noon Thursday (11 p.m., EST Wednesday).

Katzenbach Defends Voting Rights Act

Seated in a section reserved for special guests of the justices as court convened were Katzenbach's wife, Lydia; his mother, Mrs. Marie Katzenbach, 84, Trenton, N.J.; his mother-in-law; and Mrs. Robert S. McNamara, wife of the secretary of defense and a friend of the Katzenbach family.

Katzenbach — his voice and hands shaking slightly as he began — barely started speaking from a prepared manuscript before the court began peppering him with questions. Most of the 70-minute appearance before the court recessed was taken up by questions about the legislative history of the voting act and Katzenbach's enforcement of it.

"With all this talk about the need for an informed electorate," the attorney general said as he defended the suspension of literacy tests, "there are a great many white illiterates registered in most of the states under this act. And in South Carolina you can avoid the literacy requirement if you own a second-hand car, because of the alternate $300 property requirement there."

Replying to South Carolina's contention that its high illiteracy rate reduced its chances of meeting the act's minimum 50 per cent registration or voter turnout in November 1964, Katzenbach said, "I would raise the issue of whether the state's failure to give the Negro equal education opportunity can fairly be used today to disenfranchise him."

PROBE RECESSES
One-Time Klansman Describes Bombing

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — A former Ku Klux Klansman related today that he and others hurled dynamite bombs at the homes of some Negro civil rights workers in the McComb, Miss., area.

"I lobbed one," Billy Wilson told the House Committee on Un-American Activities as he told of the incidents in the summer of 1964. Wilson ended up under a heavy suspended sentence for his activities. He was charged in October 1964.

After hearing Wilson's story, chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., recessed the hearings until Feb. 1. He said press of other congressional business was the reason, but that field investigations by the staff would continue.

The sentence of 15 years and 6 months, plus $500 fine, was suspended, Wilson said, on the condition he never take part in any violence again.

Wilson, 23, told of joining "Ray Smith's group" at McComb, and later being a member of a second United Klan unit because the first one had grown too large. He said he is not now a member of the Klan.

He told of dynamite bombs being tossed into the yards of Charles Bryant and the Rev. James Baker, and of a Klan meeting where he said the names of persons "who needed a job being done them" were put into a hat, with Klansmen drawing their "jobs."

Wilson no longer lives in McComb. For the safety of him and his family, his present residence is being kept secret.

Wilson said he joined a McComb unit of the United Klans of America on July 7, 1964. On Oct. 23 of the same year he pleaded guilty to bombing the home of Charles the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in McComb.

The bombing of Bryant's home, as far as Wilson was concerned, was done on short notice and without any reason being given by the local Klan leader.

"I guess it was for reason that Mr. Bryant was real active in the work that was going on in the area by the NAACP and COFO (Council of Federated Organizations)," he told the committee.

High Density Zoning Is Asked Near Marincello

High density residential zoning has been asked for 119 acres south of Tennessee Valley Road near Marincello.

Application for the change from agricultural zone was made to the county planning commission by Bear Creek Development Co. The application was signed by Harry S. Korb of Palo Alto, one of the partners.

Requested is planned community zoning, such as granted Marincello, or planned residential zoning, usually applied to cluster housing projects.

Surfer's Board Found On Beach

Rick Cooper told police he rode his board in and thought Michael was behind him. When Michael didn't reach the beach, Rick searched and then notified sheriff's deputies.

Nuclear Test

NEVADA TEST SITE (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission today announced it conducted its second underground nuclear test of the year yesterday at the Yucca Flats test site. The blast was in the low intermediate yield range, the equivalent of from 20,000 to 2,000,000 tons of TNT impact.

San Rafael City Council Asks New Tunnel Deadline

The San Rafael City Council agreed last night to push for a new deadline on the reopening of the Puerto Suello tunnel by Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co.

A former deadline set by the California Public Utilities Commission was passed while the railroad challenged the PUC's jurisdiction in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Yesterday Boris H. Lakusta, attorney for San Rafael and Marin County in their fight to restore mainline railroad service to San Rafael, reported that the Supreme Court refused to consider the railroad's claim.

As a result, Lakusta said the PUC will have to set a new deadline.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said, "We can push it with the PUC to see that they set a new date and get this show on the road."

The council authorized Andersen to write a letter to the commission requesting action.

The tunnel has been closed since a fire July 22, 1961.

Americans Get Longer Life Span

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. population added a few months to its life expectancy in 1964, the Public Health Service reported today.

The figure, the average number of years a person may expect to live, rose to 70.2 years to equal the average reached in 1961. It was 69.9 years for 1963.

Based on mortality experience during 1964, the expectation of life at birth was 66.9 years for males and 73.7 years for females.

The data were given in a report by the National Center for Health Statistics on final mortality statistics for 1964.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Calaveras, chief architect of California's new reapportionment plan, said today he'll seek re-election in the new Third Senate District he helped design.

Teale has been in the Senate 13 years. The Third District includes 12 counties stretching along the eastern border of the state from Stanislaus and Tuolomne counties in the south to Modoc County in the northeastern corner.

Supervisors Have Tough Problem In Novato Fire Board Appointment

The resignation last Wednesday of Robert E. Campbell from the Novato Fire District Board left a vacancy that must be filled by an appointment by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, according to Fire Chief George Cavallero.

After the board accepted the resignation, it then recommended that the supervisors appoint Robert J. Busher of 1757 Indian Valley Road to fill the vacancy on the three-man board. Busher had been appointed to fill an unexpired term in 1961 and therefore had some experience on the board.

IN MAKING THE recommendation, Peter Ferrarese, board chairman, said that he felt that the board needed an experienced man on it. Ferrarese's term expires in April of this year. He has announced that he will seek re-election.

If he loses the election, then it would put almost all new men on the fire district board, Ferrarese said.

However, at the election last year, Henry V. Alvernaz of 1048 Eighth Street, Novato, tied with Joseph Silveira for the position. Silveira won by a toss of a coin. There are those who feel that Alvernaz should be appointed to fill the vacancy.

It will be a tough decision for the board of supervisors to make. They are expected to make the appointment within a month, or in time for the next monthly meeting, Cavallero said.

JOHN A. MACHADO of 1424 Dawes Street, Novato, who is employed in the meat department of the Purity Store in San Rafael, was the subject of a six-page picture story in a recent issue of a house publication for Purity Stores. In addition to many pictures of him at work, the article also had pictures of his home, wife Betty, and their two children, Laura and Jack.

The first of the year is always a good time to take stock of the progress made in the past year and see what could be done in the future.

We will not point out a bunch of things that need to be done in Novato. Such a list would be longer than several weeks of this column. The need to bring a rural community up to the standards of a city of its size is almost endless.

We would like to point out a couple of small projects which have been lost along the way.

ONE OF THESE is the city seal. One was adopted by the last council, but the present council did not like it and wanted further study and more suggestions. What has happened to those suggestions or studies, we do not know. We know that this project has been quietly dropped from the city council agenda.

The other is the sidewalks along the city hall and community house. Plans are now being made for the realignment of De Long Avenue, but these should be far enough along so that the city could install sidewalks around the civic center. If it does not take the lead, how can it expect the other citizens to start installing sidewalks, curbs and gutters where there are only dirt ditches and paths now?

We smile sometimes at Novato's motto of being a city of friendly progress. Progress sometimes is very slow. Those who attend planning commission and council meetings and witness the fighting wonder where the city gets that friendly bit.

Science Building Drawings Due Trustees Of College

Marin Junior College District trustees, meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in room G-3 of the College of Marin Physical Education Building, will be asked to authorize preparation of schematic drawings of the college's proposed two- and one-quarter million dollar science building.

Construction of the building will probably start a year from now and take two years, according to James W. Duke, college planning coordinator.

The board will also be asked to authorize expenditure of approximately $12,000 for topographical and soils investigation study for the district's north county campus.

Trustee Kent O. Seymour will ask for a 30-day extension of his 90-day leave of absence. Seymour was ill on a trip abroad and will not be able to attend a board meeting until Feb. 3, said college president Stephen E. Epler.

Nebraska has the nation's longest pheasant season, running 93 days, from Oct. 23 to Jan. 23.

Congressman Aid Asked In Flood

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Newell of Belvedere have turned to their congressman for help in a recurrent flooding problem.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell, of 35 Cove Road, claim their home was flooded with five inches of water four months after they bought it in 1960. Three years later it was flooded again. And on Jan. 4, it was flooded for the third time, forcing the Newells to move out for two days.

In a letter to Rep. Donald H. Clausen, R-First District, the Newells claim they have tried every remedy they could think of, and without success. The lagoon which floods their home, the letter says, is controlled by the Lagoon Property Owners Assn.

They ask the congressman's help for income tax relief and for "more responsible jurisdiction on control of the Belvedere Lagoon."

Orchid Society

Herbert Hager, commercial orchid grower of Santa Cruz, will speak on the phalaenopsis orchid at a meeting of the Marin Orchid Society at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Crocker-Citizens Bank in Fairfax. At conclusion of the program, outgoing president Roy Chapin will turn the meeting over to the new society president, David Lapidus.

Attorney Joins San Rafael Firm

William T. Bagley, senior partner in the San Rafael law firm of Bagley, Bernt, Biachi and Sheeks, today announced the association of a newly admitted attorney, James S. Reed.

A recent graduate of Hastings College of Law in San Francisco, Reed has just been admitted to the California State Bar. Reed will join the law firm in general practice of law and also will assist Bagley in his legislative duties as assemblyman representing Marin and Sonoma counties.

Reed lives with his wife, Maureen, at 215 Bayview Street, San Rafael.

Fur Coat, Jacket, Stole Are Stolen

Theft of $4,500 worth of furs from a car trunk was reported to sheriff's deputies by Barbara Ann Wilson, 617 Eucalyptus Way, Tamalpais Valley.

Officers said the furs, a $3,000 full-length coat, a mink stole, and a beaver jacket, had been placed in the rented auto's trunk at the residence Sunday for safe-keeping. They were missing when the car was to be returned to the San Francisco rental agency, deputies added.

HAL BOYLE

Author Of 'Collector' Muses Over Life, Writing, Freedom

NEW YORK (AP)—"Life is a kind of shaggy dog joke without a punchline," said the man with the brown beard.

"There is no final solution or conclusion. As the astronomers say, the universe is infinite. everything is simply endlessly repeated."

Although life may be inconclusive it is far from unrewarding to the man with the brown beard — British author John Fowles. At 39, Fowles, former teacher at a girls' school in London, has turned the corner of literary success.

His first published novel, "The Collector," the creepy story of a young man who captures a girl as if she were a butterfly and keeps her prisoner until she dies, was made into a successful film.

HIS LATEST NOVEL, which has an even eerier treatment of the man-playing-God theme, is the January selection of the Literary Guild. Fowles also has sold the paperback rights for $125,000 and is doing a movie script of it.

It is his qualities as a loner and a mystic that won Fowles the praise of critics. But he is a companionable man across a tea table, and his hazel eyes light up as he talks about his work.

"All writers are sick people. We have a compulsive need to have phantasy worlds around us—to create such worlds in which we can live," he says.

"I WRITE by instinct. If I don't feel like writing, I don't. If I do, I write as long as my body can stand it—15 or 16 hours a day. I revise and revise and revise, and occasionally throw whole chapters away."

To Fowles, the greatest problem in life is individual freedom.

"What I write about is whether people should be freer than they are, and the extent to which freedom can be a dangerous, two - edged weapon," he says.

"IT IS HARD to generalize about how much freedom one should have. I'd say you have plenty of freedom over here. France could do with a lot more. So could Russia.

"Until recently, I should have said the greatest threat to freedom was political creeds. Now I think it is the machine —including the modern city.

"The city destroys individuality, requires people to function predictably. People in the country are more human."

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

The Division of Bay Toll Crossings sought approval from the Army Corps of Engineers for a site for a Tiburon-Angel Island - San Francisco Bridge.

Mill Valley discontinued its emergency ambulance service after Fire Chief Leslie Armager said the vehicle was unsafe, and the city had no funds to purchase a new one.

Two inches of rain, accompained by a six-foot high tide which struck Point San Quentin, caused flooding in San Rafael, Tamalpais Valley and Corte Madera.

20 YEARS AGO

The Tamalpais High School District board filed condemnation proceedings to acquire land adjacent to Sir Francis Drake School for a proposed new high school in the Ross Valley.

One of the heaviest fogs in years blanketed the North Bay and the Richmond-San Rafael ferries, which were tied up in the afternoon, remained fogbound throughout the night.

Theater operator Abe Blumenfeld announced that bids would be opened for construction of a motion picture theater in Fairfax, the first theater in that city.

Aunt, Nephew On Trial For Murder

MIAMI (UPI)—A legal snarl over the availability of women jurors in Florida and the meticulous selection of a jury today slowed the trial of blonde Candace Mossler and her handsome nephew on charges of murdering her millionaire husband.

Candace

Circuit Court Judge George E. Schulz said he would try to find time after a resumption of the trial to hear a motion by the six-man team of defense lawyers renewing a plea for separate trials for ex-model Candace and Melvin Lane Powers.

He heard nearly 90 minutes of guments at the end of Monday's session on the motion challenging the constitutionality of a Florida law that allows only women who volunteer to serve on juries.

Melvin

Trial of the widow and the son of one of her sisters for first degree murder bogged down almost immediately in selecting a jury from over 250 prospects who jammed the sixth floor courtroom.

The two are charged with the murder "by premeditated design" of multi-millionaire Jacques Mossler, who was 69 when he was stabbed 39 times and smashin the head until his skull was crushed June 30, 1964.

Things Looking Up For Hero

NEW YORK (AP) — For Enrique Negron, 56, a Puerto Rican who says he was forced out of business because he helped a white policeman fight off a mob of Negroes, it has been up and down in the past eight months. Now it's up again.

Negron

A former grocer, Negron says his customers boycotted his business and called him "cop lover" and "nigger hater." He was on the verge of destitution with $300 left, he was unable to find a job to support his wife and teenage daughter.

Then offers of help poured in yesterday from a congressman, a union, two firms, the Small Business Administration and private citizens.

"Thank God and everybody," Negron said Monday night. "Now at least I have some hope."

Negron was stabbed in the back last May 22 as he went to the rescue of the policeman, who was attacked while attempting to arrest a suspected Negro burglar. The incident took place in a predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican section of the Bronx.

For his act, Negron was hailed as a hero but, afterwards, he said his closest friends, even Puerto Ricans, turned against him and he became a social outcast.

GOP Rips LBJ War, Home Views

By JACK BELL ....

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders say the State of the Union is less than good, the nation's world prestige is drooping and its domestic economy is threatened by inflationary Democratic spending.

This was the summation of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford as they ignited their "torch of dissent" to President Johnson's programs in a taped national broadcast Monday night.

Reviewing the world situation, Dirksen said that despite $120 billion spent on foreign aid, "our prestige on the world thermometer of good will has dropped fast and far."

He called for continuing war and peace efforts in Viet Nam. In each, he said, there can be "no substitute for victory" — no withdrawal and no negotiation from weakness which "would mean defeat before we ever reached the negotiation table."

Ford denounced the "inflationary policies of the President" which he said had increased the cost of government $26 billion in two years. He called for sharp budget pruning of domestic programs he said would eliminate the need for $1 billion in new taxes Johnson has asked.

Democratic reaction was speedy.

House Speaker John W. McCormack said the Republicans were "a little presumptuous" in billing their effort as a GOP "State of the Union" message. It was the President's job to make such a report, he added.

However, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he is glad the Republican leadership "had a chance to deliver its message to the people of the United States."

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., a Senate Foreign Relations committeeman, said Dirksen was "blowing both hot and cold" on Viet Nam while purporting to support the President.

The Republican leaders chose the old Supreme Court room of the Capitol for their televised addresses. They packed it with a partisan audience of about 200 — including about 60 of their House members and a dozen senators — coached in advance to give "vigorous applause" that could be recorded for the television-radio audience.

Dirksen's review of international affairs drew little sustained applause because he dealt largely in generalities. But Ford brought the Republicans to their feet with thunderous applause by his demands for "truth in budgeting by the White House" and his attack on what he called "the bad odor of political bossism" in the anti-poverty program.

The White House said Johnson is maintaining "flexibility of decision" and has set no deadlines for ending his current peace offensive.

Dirksen advocated an overhaul of the foreign aid program to limit assistance to projects which would provide "dividends in the form of good will and real devotion to peace and freedom."

Ford said education is the key to solving the problems of racial tensions, unskilled youths, school dropouts, and those needing vocational training.

CONTROLLER SAYS HE'LL RUN AGAIN

Cranston Issues Challenge For Job —He Likes Work Of Important Position

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Alan Cranston, first Democratic state controller in this century, announced formally today his candidacy for a third term.

The 51-year-old incumbent made known his plans in a news release, plus the usual swing by plane to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento news conferences.

He listed four reasons for seeking re-election:

The challenge of the next four years.

"I like the work."

"It's an important job."

"I think I've done a good job."

Cranston was first elected in 1958, and voted in again in 1962. He lost a close race in 1964 for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination.

ALAN CRANSTON
'Not at all cocky'

Although he as yet has no opponent from either party, Cranston said he is "not at all cocky about an easy ride to victory in 1966."

There are two reasons for this, he explained.

"First, I suspect that I have been tabbed as a target for extinction by political extremists in California," because of speeches denouncing extremists on all sides.

"Second, the problem of financing a campaign." This will be complicated, he said, because he no longer will accept financial contributions from the corps of state inheritance tax appraisers he appoints.

Cranston lashed out at Republican candidates for governor Ronald Reagan and George Christopher—"one a right-wing refugee from Death Valley and the other a two-time loser in statewide campaigns."

The big issue of 1966, the controller said, will be a choice between "the tested, sound, reliable and progressive leadership in Sacramento now, and the negative platitudes of inexperienced challengers ... Republican leaders face deep, ideological divisions which cannot be bridged no matter how many harmony statements they issue."

Democrats, he said, will unite for the campaign.

Apology For Jackie

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes has publicly apologized for a suggestion by the Ocean County Democratic Committee that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy run for the U.S. Senate. Hughes, a Democrat, said the move was "deplorable . . . a discourteous bandying of the name of this wonderful and distinguished lady."

Shriver To Wear One Hat, That Of Poverty War Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sargent Shriver today began full time duties as the war on poverty's director.

Within minutes of President Johnson's announcement yesterday that Shriver was leaving his dual role as Peace Corps director and poverty program chief, Shriver responded to GOP cutback demands.

He said Republicans had opposed the program from the start and "some of the things they are saying today are exactly the same things they said two years ago . . . ."

"I think the specific charges they are making today are greatly exaggerated and without much foundation in fact."

To succeed Shriver in the Peace Corps, Johnson returned Jack Hood Vaughn to the corps from his State Department position as assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Vaughn, 45, was formerly director of the Latin American program of the Peace Corps.

Shriver had directed the Peace Corps since its inception in 1961.

Blast Kills Three

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A major explosion ripped through the Caltex oil refinery near here today. Police reported three persons killed and 90 injured, about 30 seriously. An undetermined number were reported missing. The blast set off a fire and lifted the 100-foot-long roof off the refinery's main building.

Ex-King Injured

CANNES, France (AP)—Belgium's ex-King Leopold III, injured in an auto accident last week, will remain in a hospital a few days longer. He suffered chest injuries in a collision after a party he attended with his wife, Princess Liliane de Rethy.

Psychiatrist Again Tells Views On Teaching Drinking

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Harvard psychiatrist Dr. Morris E. Chafetz says many people have misconstrued his proposal that lessons in drinking alcohol be given in public schools.

"I'm not trying to sell drinking, and I'm not trying to encourage my own children — or any children — to drink. I'm just trying to help them develop a healthy, responsible attitude toward alchohol," he said last night.

"I believe in and respect the individuality of children. I don't believe in treating them as non-human beings until they're 21, then expecting them to suddenly assume adult responsibility they've never had to experience."

He said he has taught his own sons — Adam, 8, Marc, 12, and Gary, 13 — to drink liquor or leave it alone.

"It's always available to our children," he said and added that the two youngest strongly dislike it.

Chafetz said he prefers the teaching of social drinking in the home, rather than in school.

WELCOME TO VIET NAM — An American soldier of the 2nd Division smiles broadly today as a South Vietnamese lass places a floral wreath around his neck during landings south of Saigon. Mill Valley Gives Mid-Year Raises

City of Mill Valley employees in 18 categories last night received a mid-year one-step raise retroactive to Jan. 1.

City councilmen approved the cost of $4,400 for the remainder of the fiscal year, to come from the city's contingent fund.

Police Lt. William Walsh, president of the employees association, requested that salaries be brought up to the median of a control group of Bay Area cities, saying, "Come July, we will be back in the position we are right now." Walsh cited increase in cost of living and an increase in social security due to Medicare having taken "quite a cut" from each employee's salary.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer recalled that last year it was agreed that salaries would be reviewed at mid-year and, if they were found to be dropping behind, an increase would be requested.

"We have surveyed the control group of cities and discovered 18 positions have dropped substantially below the median," he said.

A fireman who has been receiving a top salary of $644 per month will be raised to $660. A police patrolman, formerly at $660, will receive $676.

John DeBecker asker the council if every city employee is supposed to live within the city limits. Balmer replied: "No, they can live any place they choose. One reason is that due to the higher cost of real estate in Mill Valley." He said all except two live in Marin.

The council heard a report by investment counselor James McNab, and asked Balmer to check with Occidental Life Insurance Co. to see about removing about $85,000 in employees funds still tied up with that company.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

1. Adopted an ordinance rezoning the area covered by the east Mill Valley general plan, a large portion of which has been unclassified, as open area and commercial-recreational.

2. Adopted an ordinance establishing 25-mile-per-hour speed limit on Camino Alto between East Blithedale and Miller avenues. Speed has been 35.

3. Heard commendation of the police department by Acting Mayor Albert E. White for "stamping out crime in the city."

4. Authorized publication of April 12 election notices. Candidates may file from Jan. 27 to noon Feb. 17. This year, for the first time, the candidate has a choice of writing 150 words of his qualifications which will be printed separately at his expense, Balmer said.

5. Authorized Balmer, City Engineer Stanley M. Bala and Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon to review development plans, including master plan, contract for soil engineering and bulkhead design, of small craft harbor improvements.

6. Heard from Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks that selection of an architect for the public safety building has been narrowed to two and they are to show sketches to a council subcommittee in two weeks.

7. Designated Councilman George E. Wickham to head a committee to propose policy changes regarding city and private property owners' requirements in developing streets.

8. Approved library board action rescinding the right of Mrs. John P. Farnham, board chairman, to approve change orders up to $250 on the new public library, thus eliminating any conflict of interest since Mrs. Farnham now works for the architectural firm which designed the building.

9. Authorized Balmer to call for bids for library furnishings, estimated at $50,000 (exclusive of carpeting estimated at $16,000).

10. Voted to retain Royston, Hanamoto, Mayes and Beck, landscape architects, to prepare a diagrammatic plan for Boyle Park improvement at a cost of $500.

11. Continued request of Corte Madera Sanitary District that the city provide sewer service for Madera Park subdivision, which is in Corte Madera but within Mill Valley watershed, pending further meetings of Balmer with Corte Madera town officials.

Mayor Michael Wornum was absent.

Dental Alumni Names Lawrence

Dr. Stanley Lawrence of San Rafael yesterday was chosen as 1966 president-elect of the University of California Dental Alumni Assn., which means he will automatically become president in 1967.

Dr. Lee R. Winters of Concord became this year's president, replacing Dr. Bernard H. Stark of San Francisco. Dr. Harry Tepper of Brentwood was elected vice president.

Ross Forgoes Poverty Cash For Schools

Under title one of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, Ross district would have been entitled to $1,010.68, said Supt. William W. Monahan.

"There was some debate as to whether Ross could be called an impoverished area exactly," he said, "but in any case the amount is so small the board members considered it not worth while applying for."

The board set for Jan. 28 a day-long institute of faculty and specialists in the teaching of reading and mathematics. Monahan said the staff will discuss different methods and types of teaching with experts in these two fields.

Members also approved changes and additions to board policy bringing it in line with new state laws. They included increasing the amount of sick leave available to staff.

New Charge In Marijuana Case

A felony charge of possession of marijuana was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against a 32-year-old Mill Valley man arrested Sunday with an alleged $30,000 cache of marijuana in his home.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Cary Thomas said Melkin Melkonian, 424 West Blithedale Avenue, will be arraigned in Marin County following arraignment in San Francisco County Municipal Court on a felony complaint charging sale of the weed.

Melkonian was booked in San Francisco County Jail in lieu of $1,100 bail after his Mill Valley arrest by state narcotics agents and Mill Valley police. Thomas said about 55 pounds of marijuana was seized in Melkonian's house.

City-Owned TV Cables Studied In Mill Valley

Should a city go into the community television antenna business?

Acting Mayor Albert E. White last night posed the question to Mill Valley city council in a discussion of a proposed community antenna television ordinance.

No action was taken, the subject being continued to Feb. 7 when City Atty. Leland H. Jordan will give councilmen a second draft of the ordinance and City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer is to have investigated propriety of the municipal function.

Noting there are five or six applications for franchises, White said "this is undoubtedly a desirable thing to have in the city.

"I would like to know how feasible it would be for the city to enter into this operation as a city function, and where the council feels this is an appropriate thing to even consider before we even grant a franchise," he said. "I'm amazed at the number of outfits willing to sell this service."

"I don't think it's a city function, but a private concern," responded Councilman George E. Wickham.

Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks noted it would be of interest to know what cities are engaged in the business. A television cable representative in the audience said only two or three cities in the nation provide the service.

Councilman William M. Secor asked the cost to install antenna service for the City of Mill Valley and was told an estimate is $5,000 per mile at 45 miles, or about $200,000, with all lines going overhead. Underground facilities are more expensive.

"The quicker we get it underground the better," said Secor.

The city now has no antenna service.

Jordan said the proposed ordinance, similar to that of Sausalito authorizes the city to issue one or more franchises either to cover the entire city or portions of it. It provides the franchise holder must pay the city a compensation equal to two per cent of gross annual receipts, and reserves the city the right to review rates charged by the franchise holder.

School Districts Unit Postpones Meeting

Meeting of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization scheduled at the Civic Center tomorrow has been cancelled, Robert Stannard, assistant county superintendent of schools, announced today.

Next meeting will be Feb. 15. By then the committee will have word of the state board of education's action on proposed unification of the Tomales High School District area and three unified districts in the Tamalpais High School District area.

Mill Valley Given Money By Citizens

The Mill Valley City Council looked two gifts in the eye last night and readily accepted them.

One was a check for $200 from the Highlands Assn., to be used to help pay for a bulkhead to be built on a pedestrian and bicycle pathway bordering the municipal golf course on Buena Vista Avenue. The check was presented to Acting Mayor Albert E. White by association president Robert G. Moore.

The second check was from Almonte Improvement Club. A letter from President Herbert Davis said the money is to be placed in other parts of Mill Valley," said Dean Meyer in the audience. "They are not a luxury but a necessity."

Strong State Birth Control Law Proposed

A stringent birth control program in California is one way the state could solve the problem of rising immigrant population, Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of Planned Parenthood - World Population, said here yesterday.

Speaking at a meeting of the Planned Parenthood Assn. of Marin at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael, he cited California as an example of a state with "certain responsibilities."

He said: "I do not think California would look unfavorably on some form of population control, particularly because of the large number of immigrants flocking here from all over the country.

"It would give you time to consolidate your housing and your schools and to increase facilities to deal with this new influx."

Conservationists, too, he said, are concerned with the inroads being made into wide open spaces by the growing population.

He considered that if the present one-an-one-half per cent increase a year could be reduced to three-quarters, it would help matters.

Turning to other aspects of population control in the United States, Dr. Guttmacher said militant Negroes who advocated an increase in the birth rate would not help the situation of their race.

"There are more intelligent ways to gain equality than by stuffing ballot boxes," he declared.

Some militants, he said, were calling for 60 million Negroes by 1980. There are now 21 million Negroes in this country.

"We whites owe a great duty to the Negro. Our misdeeds in the past have to be made good by equality of opportunity and jobs. Then the Negro will gain his ends," said Guttmacher.

"But just to increase the numbers . . . I cannot honestly believe this can improve the situation."

The argument is one Planned Parenthood is finding hard to counter, however, he said.

"These militants will have nothing to do with us. They believe we are a white organization selling them down the river," he said.

Army, Marines Slated For Most Of Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The vast bulk of the 113,000 additional fighting men sought by the Johnson administration will be used to strengthen Army and Marine ground forces, it was learned today.

American ground forces are shouldering an ever-greater combat load in the Viet Nam war.

The Navy and Air Force each will get only a few thousand more men in the new buildup, which will push total U.S. armed strength over the 3-million mark for the first time in a dozen years.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told newsmen at the White House yesterday that the administration will ask Congress to vote another $12.356 billion to underwrite the soaring costs of the U.S. involvement in Viet Nam. The White House said $415 million will also be asked for economic purposes, bringing the supplemental total to $12.761 billion.

McNamara provided few details, beyond disclosing the dollar figure and the new manpower increase. Officials at the Pentagon took their cue from the defense secretary and declined to elaborate.

The new administration money request—heralded as long ago as last summer—will be sent to Capitol Hill today and McNamara will give the specifics in testimony before senators on Thursday.

This is the second major supplementary money request and military manpower increase for this year stemming directly from the deeper U.S. commitment in Viet Nam.

Last August, when the basic decision was made to put large American ground forces into the battle, Congress granted the administration another $1.7 billion and authorized an increase of 340,000 men, mostly for the Army.

The second installment will boost the manpower ceilings to a point more than 450,000 above the level anticipated at the time the big Viet Nam buildup was ordered last summer.

McNamara said that only $4.6 billion of the new installment will be spent before this fiscal year ends next June 30, the rest later.

Together with the $1.7-billion Viet Nam supplement voted last summer, this will increase defense spending this year to $54.2 billion, about $6 billion more than had been anticipated.

The new supplemental money request for Viet Nam will be followed next Monday by the main defense budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1. This will total $58.3 billion, according to the White House, with a significant portion of that to be spent for supporting the war in Viet Nam.

Roof Construction To Begin At Library

Main floor subflooring of the new Mill Valley Public Library has been laid and laminated beams have been delivered in preparation for building the roof, Arthur Nagel, assistant building inspector, reported today.

Concrete precast walls are completed. The building is expected to be open for use about mid-May.

Women who drive it call it cute
Men who drive it call it gung-ho
We who build it call it Corvair

The happy fact is that Corvair's got a lot of unusual advantages for men and women.

The steering's as quick and agile for one sex as for the other (engine weight's on the rear wheels, so the front ones turn easier).

The car churns right through slush, sand and gravel as readily for one as for the other (engine weight on the rear wheels keeps them gripping on most any surface).

The ride feels stable and solid for everybody because Corvair has four-wheel independent suspension (and only Corvette among U.S. cars can match that).

There can't be any partiality in the economy either. For instance, everyone gets an air-cooled engine, so no one's got a radiator to fill with antifreeze.

And everyone gets the same standard safety features, including front and rear seat belts, windshield washer, dual-speed wipers with electric motor, padded instrument panel and sun visors, back-up lights, outside rearview mirror and shatter-resistant inside rearview mirror (use both as a double check before pulling out to pass).

So if you're a woman who'd welcome a car full of fresh driving sensations, all you have to do is see your Chevrolet dealer. And if you're a man, ditto.

The Stanfords said they found their bathroom window pried three-quarters of the way open when they returned home at 10:30 p.m. Saturday. A neighbor said she heard someone run away from the apartment as the Stanfords arrived. Nothing was missing.

Chief Clark said he could not discount the possibility that Dellinger might still be somewhere in the area, but that with the stolen money and civilian clothing, the convict could have easily gone away on a bus.

Prison officials place the time of Dellinger's escape over the 20-foot high wall at 4 a.m. Friday. From there, Chief Clark said, he could have walked to the construction site under the cover of thick fog which hung over the area all day.

Clarke theorized that Dellinger waded through marshlands along Corte Madera Creek to the wooded area just below the site. His prison pants, the chief said, were wet and muddy when found.

Dellinger, who was sentenced to life in prison for the 1958 slaying of his stepfather in Kern County, was considered a model prisoner by San Quentin authorities and was made night watchman at the prison textile factory, where the wall is unguarded after midnight.

He scaled the prison wall with a ladder, then lowered himself to the ground on the other side with a rope.

He has brown hair, blue eyes, is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 158 pounds. He has several tattoos on his arm, including the Marine Corps motto, "Death Before Dishonor."

Auto Crash Victim's Condition Still Poor

Larry Gene Bridges, 19, of 39 Manor View, Sleepy Hollow, one of three men injured in an auto accident in front of San Rafael Improvement Club Building yesterday, remained in poor condition today at Marin General Hospital. He suffered a skull fracture and multiple cuts and bruises.

Others involved in the crash, John Richard Store, 19, of 46 Mariele Drive, Sleepy Hollow, and Peter Henry Dingman, 21, of 1913 Center Road, Novato, were still in fair condition today.

Nuclear Engineer Runs Amok With Gun, Kills Self

UPTON, N.Y. (UPI) —A nuclear engineer, described as "a very quiet and friendly person," went berserk today at the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory, seriously wounding three colleagues with a shotgun before committing suicide.

FBI agents and Suffolk County police were called to the laboratories, situated 40 miles from New York City.

Officials identified the engineer as Michael Maresca, 34, of East Patchogue, N.Y., the father of three children. His victims were reported in fair to good condition at Brookhaven Memorial Hospital.

A spokesman for the laboratory said there appeared to be "no reason at all" for the shooting. Maresca was a veteran reactor evaluation engineer and had worked at Brookhaven since 1958. He recently returned from a vacation in Florida.

Authorities said Maresca brought a shotgun into a large laboratory of the complex shortly before noon EST, thereby violating a Brookhaven regulation. Without explanation, he blasted away at James R. Powell, a nuclear engineer, Martin S. Zucker, an associate physicist, and Leif Hjarne, a visiting assistant physicist from Sweden.

Maresca then dashed outside to his car, placed the shotgun barrel inside his mouth, and killed himself, officials said. His body was found by Brookhaven personnel and police.

on just one area of the county. He said it was not in line with constituted rights.

"That's fairness?" he asked. "I think not."

Schultz's position was supported by several in the audience, including attorney Bryan R. McCarthy, representing a group of owners, and Melvin Rupp of the Marin Property Owners Assn.

Peter D. Whitney, secretary of the Inverness Property Owners Assn., declared the committee's recommendation would not be appreciated in Inverness, for the 10,000-foot lots to be allowed in the area would tend to destroy "the historical core of the town."

In another matter, the commission also went against Whitney's request. Commissioners voted 5-0 to recommend resort and commercial recreation on 14 acres owned by Larry Marks Jr. along the bay shore north of the Golden Hind Boatel. The land is adjacent to Whitney's property. He wanted single family zoning there.

Included in the action yesterday was recommendation that Shoreline Highway follow the floor of the Olema Valley to Bolinas Junction rather than Bolinas Ridge.

Dougherty said to clear up confusion about earlier action, the route recommended for Shoreline Highway would follow around the southwest side of Marincello to connect through Tunnel Road with the Golden Gate bridge.

The commission recommended that the 700 acres owned by Waldo Giacomini at the southern end of Tomales Bay could be developed with residential lagoons and some commercial recreation if public purchase for open space failed to come about.

The commission's recommendation will go to supervisors a week from today, at which time they will set a public hearing.

U.S. planes did not attack targets in Communist North Viet Nam. The truce in the air war against the North began at 6 p.m., Dec. 24 at the start of the 30-hour Christmas cease fire.

Late today, a large force of Viet Cong ambushed to platoons of Vietnamese troops in Vinh Binh Province 60 miles south of Saigon. The Viet Cong opened up with automatic weapons, small arms fire, grenades and mortars, inflicting moderate casualties before withdrawing after about an hour.

The Communists launched three simultaneous attacks before dawn today at targets around Binh Hiep, 50 miles est of Saigon. A squad of government defenders was wiped out at a watchtower four miles South of the town. The Viet Cong also attacked a platoon four miles north of Binh Hiep, inflicting moderate casualties, and were turned back in a third raid against the Thanh Tri resettlement center six miles to the northeast.

The measure which became a law Aug. 6 resulted in the abolition of literacy and other voter qualification tests in seven Southern states. Nearly 250,000 Negroes have registered to vote in those states since the act took effect.

Attorneys for South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana argued that the act was an inappropriate device to enforce the Constitution's 15th Amendment, which prohibits denial of voting rights because of race or color.

They argued also that Congress was usurping judicial powers in applying the law to just a few states whose voter turnout or registration fell below 50 per cent in November 1964.

Board Votes Annex Of College Area

Marin County supervisors today approved annexation of the Marin County portion of Tomales High School District to the Marin Junior College District.

The action, which will require concurrence of the Sonoma County supervisors before it goes into effect, will put all but a small portion of the county—the Lincoln, Laguna and Burdell districts—in the college district. The portion of Tomales in Sonoma County would become part of the Santa Rosa Junior College District.

The Tomales district, not now in any junior college district, has supported Marin Junior College through a 10.5 cent per $100 assessed valuation "attendance" tax. With its annexation, the district tax, now at 77.5 cents, will be imposed.

Hovercraft Test Revenues Off, But Will Go On

The Oakland Board of Port Commissioners has acted to continue the jet skimmer "hovercraft" project through the summer months in spite of curtailed schedules.

Commissioners learned yesterday that passenger revenues for the project's first five months are lower than originally estimated, and according to Ben E. Nutter, port executive director, it will require approximately $120,000 to support the service through the high travel volume summer months to August.

The amphibious air cushion vehicles are being tested in passenger service here to determine their adaptability to mass transit.

Nutter explained that night operations have been ruled out by the U.S. Coast Guard and a 50 knot speed limit placed on the craft which is capable of speeds up to 80 knots.

Tam Trustees Approve Teachers Workshop

The Tamalpais High School District board last night unanimously approved summer workshop for art and industrial arts teachers, although two trustees voted some reservations.

Trustee J. M. Stubblebine said, "I'd like to see the industrial arts program related to other school programs. The students study the solar system in one class and I'd like to see them working with their hands and perhaps building a model of it in another class."

"I think you'll find that's what we are going to be trying to do in these workshops," said Joseph Rooney, Sir Francis Drake High School art teacher.

Trustee John C. Siemens said he was a little concerned about the $12,000 cost.

"Most of the cost is for teachers' and consultants' salaries," said Supt. Chester G. Carlisle. "I think you'll find the cost will be well worth it after you see the results."

The four-hour a day workshops for 17 teachers will be held at Redwood High School, Junee 22 to July 20, concurrent with the district's summer school.

The Tamalpais School District Board Also:

1. Approved a 1966-67 school calendar year of 176 days.

1. Hired Alice M. Nashashibi to teach Spanish at Tamalpais High School on a long-term substitute basis. She replaces Mrs. Iris Meyers, who has been granted a maternity leave.

3. Accepted the resignation of Reberta K. Koss, mathetics teacher at Redwood High School.

4. Awarded a $1,500 contract to E. D. Bullard Co. of Sausalito for 400 safety face shields and a $940 contract to American Optical Co. of San Francisco for 800 safety goggles, to be used in industrial arts classes. They were the only bidders.

5. Accepted as complete the swimming pool at Redwood High School. Contractor on the job was Herrero Brothers, Inc., of San Rafael.

Labor Boss Wants Wage Review Units

DETROIT (UPI) —United Autoworkers President Walter Reuther called yesterday for the creation of industrial review boards with members representing labor, management and the public to rule on price and wage increases in basic industries.

Reuther said the "tri-partisan boards" he envisioned now would be weighted in favor of the representative or representatives of the public. He said he would give the public members the decisive vote.

The UAW president said the boards should be set up in companies that produce more than 20 per cent of a basic commodity and for public employes.

He pointed to the New York City transit strike as an example of a breakdown in conventionaal negotiation machinery and said, "Society can no longer tolerate stoppages which endanger the very existence of that society."

Reuther, who several years ago advanced a plan for public review boards for such industries, said under his latest proposal both labor—when seeking wage increases—and price increases—would be answerable to the board.

Coin Cache Linked To Dope Raid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A coin collection valued at more than $10,000, was turned up by Federal narcotics agents last night in an apartment raid.

Today authorities were trying to establish ownership.

Dick said Mosher was carrying his sister's baby in his arms when the agents showed up; on seeing them, Mosher dropped the baby and ran but as overtaken.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Count Both Winners, Losers In Making Difficult Contract

If you have too many losers, concentrate on getting rid of one.

This is good advice, but with a difficult hand in which you must ruff in dummy as well as in your own hand, count your winners as well as the losers.

Opening lead — ◇ 2

South won the first trick with the queen of diamonds and cashed the top hearts to get rid of a spade.

This good play cost him his contract.

South ruffed a heart and led his other spade.

West took the ace of spades and led another trump.

SOUTH STILL LOSES

At this point South held one trump and five clubs. Dummy had two trumps, a good heart, and K-x-x of spades.

No matter how he played, South had to lose two more tricks.

If South led his trump to draw West's last trump, dummy could cash the heart but would have to give up the two low spades.

If South, instead, ruffed a club in dummy to ruff a low spade, he could not get back to dummy to draw the last trump.

In this case, dummy would not get a trick with the ten of hearts.

ONE TRICK SHORT

The best chance is to save a spade entry to dummy.

Then he leads a spade. West takes the ace of spades and leads another trump to dummy's jack.

South ruffs another heart, leads a spade to the king (the crucial trick) and ruffs a spade.

Now he can ruff a club with the seven of diamonds, draw the last trump with the ace of diamonds and cash the ten of hearts as the eleventh trick.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ A Q J
♥ Q 4 2
♦ 5 3 2
♣ A 9 8 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass or bid one club.

You would prefer to open if you had a good sprinkling of tens and nines or even if you had three small hearts and four clubs headed by the ace-queen.

A queen is more valuable when acompanied by the ace or king of the same suit.

Supervisors Split On Fire Appointee

Marin County supervisors voted 3-2 today to appoint Henry Alvernaz to a vacancy on the Novato Fire District commission, overruling the wishes of the commission, Novato Fire Chief George J. Cavallero, and Supervisor William A. Gnoss.

Gnoss, whose district includes Novato, and Supervisor Thomas T. Storer were in the minority.

Gnoss recommended appointment of Robert Busher to fill the vacancy left by Robert Campbell's resignation from the commission. Campbell resigned to become a fireman with the district.

Busher also was recommended by the remaining two members of the commission and the chief. He is executive officer of H. Pini Feed Co. in Novato. Alvernaz is a county employee: chief dispatcher in the communications department.

Alvernaz made a strong plea for his appointment before the board. He said he and Joseph F. Silveira tied in the election last April, each getting 460 votes. Silveira was named to the position by flip of coin.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said he has "great faith in the elective process" and thought Alvernaz deserved the appointment. Supervisors Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Byron W. Leydecker agreed.

San Anselmo Lions' Sign Plea Is Opposed

San Anselmo Park and Recreation Commission last night voted to recommend the city council deny a request by the San Anselmo Lions Club for a service club sign in a landscaped area at Tunstead Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The sign was at that location before a bench and some landscaping were installed by the park and recreation department. Commissioners felt a sign would detract from the area, department director Andrew J. Snyder said.

Commissioners promised to consider installing hiking trails and picnic areas on the 60-acre, city-owned Sorich Ranch at the end of San Francisco Boulevard. Mrs. Anne West of the San Anselmo Homes Assn. requested the hiking trails. The ranch is earmarked as a future city park.

Commissioners heard a request by Mrs. Charles R. Lietzell, wife of the city engineer, for a gymnastics program for school children. They promised such an activity would be included in the summer program if an instructor can be found.

Once Ousted, Professor Will Return To Berkeley

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Dr. Eli Katz, dismissed from the faculty of the University of California at Berekley in 1964 in a civil liberties struggle, announced today he would return to the Berkeley campus at the invitation of its new chancellor.

Katz, now a professor of German at Western Reserve University here, was dismissed by former Chancellor Edward W. Strong when he refused to answer questions of the House Un-American Activities Committee. He had signed a university loyalty oath.

Katz said Roger Heyns, the new chancellor, had contacted him and urged him to return to the California faculty. A group of graduate students had urged his return in a petition.

"I am leaving Western Reserve with a great deal of regret," Katz said. "This university has been good to me. It has been a pleasant place to teach. But in many respects, California has been my home for a long time and I am looking forward to returning."

Prison Term Ordered In Girl Assault Case

Guy H. Cooper, 43, was given one to 20 years in state prison today in Marin Superior Court for assault with intent to rape a 19-year-old San Francisco girl on Jan. 10.

Cooper assaulted the girl at his apartment, 206 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo after holding her at knifepoint and forcing her to disrobe, San Anselmo police said. He pleaded guilty last Friday.

This Bandit Knew Where Money Was

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A lone gunman escaped with $3,000 last night after holding up the Evergreen Pharmacy at closing time. Clerk Samuel S. Totah, 27, said the bandit apparently knew what he wanted. He ordered Totah to hand over two canvas bags on the counter.

One contained $1,000 in store receipts. The other held $2,000 in Pacific Gas & Electric Co. collections.

Coach To Face Reduced Charge

Michael Joseph Diaz, 30, head basketball coach at San Rafael High School, was scheduled to plead in Marin Municipal Court today to an amended charge of battery.

The coach, of 416 Alameda de La Loma, Novato, originally was charged with assault with a deadly weapon on Sally Jane Hubbard, 90 Porteous Avenue, Fairfax, last Christmas at her home.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas said today the amended complaint was filed because of Diaz's "clean" record and circumstances of the alleged assault, which he said appeared to be a "lovers' quarrel."

Hub Planners Urge Action On New Mall

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night voted to recommend that the city council begin implementation of the town center plan by construction of a major thoroughfare to replace San Anselmo Avenue.

They recommended the street, 40 feet wide on a 60-foot right of way, be constructed closer to San Anselmo Avenue than shown on the Wilsey, Hamm and Blair report, guide for the town center plan.

The new street route was plotted by Commissioner Warren Perry. City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell said it would cut through 26 parcels of property. Most of which have old buildings on them, though one has "a fairly new apartment house."

Commissioners urged that land between San Anselmo Avenue and the new street be zoned commercial. Land from the new street to Cedar Street should be zoned for high and medium density apartments, they said.

Commissioners last night also elected Perry to serve as chairman during 1966. Perry, who was vice chairman last year, replaces chairman Jerry W. Lloyd.

Soviets Honor Space Designer

MOSCOW (AP) — The genius whose designs put Soviet Cosmonauts in space first but whose identity was hidden until death by Kremlin secrecy was honored today by Soviet leaders with a big funeral in Red Square.

The ceremony contained a strong hint that the late Sergei Pavlovich Korolev may been the anonymous "chief designer" who headed the Soviet space program and gave the instructions from the ground control center during space flights.

The announcement Saturday of Korolev's death revealed that he had designed early Russian space ships.

Korolev died Friday at the age of 59. He had been operated on for removal of a cancer but death was officially attributed to heart failure.

Suspects Deny Slaying In San Rafael Bistro

Murder suspects Jack R. Gorman, 36, and Marc Charles Osuna, 30, both pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court today to the Labor Day slaying of San Rafael bartender Mario Ferrari.

An estimated five-week jury trial was scheduled by Judge Thomas F. Keating to start May 9 before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Judge Keating also granted a motion for a separate trial for Gorman on a second charge of armed robbery. He scheduled that jury trial for April 4, before Judge Harold J. Haley.

A second defendant in the robbery case, Harold Frank Percell, 24, pleaded guilty last Nov. 23 and was sentenced to six months in county jail. The robbery was that of Rudy's Liquor Store, 1835 Fourth Street, San Rafael, on Aug. 30.

Dist Atty. Bruce B. Bales objected to a separate trial on grounds that many of the same witnesses will appear in both murder and robbery cases.

Osuna and Gorman, both in San Quentin Prison as parole violators, are accused of shooting Ferrari to death during a robbery of Mission Inn in San Rafael.

Novato Little League Park Site, Cost Study Sought

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission last night asked for a study on possible location and construction cost of a Little League baseball park.

The Novato Little League, state champion last year, has been given the sectional playoffs for next summer, so the city must have a suitable ball park by July 1, said Recreation Director Edward W. Adams.

The commission voted to sponsor a farm league of the Little League. Adams was asked to determine costs and recommend a fee for the farm league. The Little League now charges $12, Adams said.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also added a section to its policy on teen-age dances that only those sponsored by the parks and recreation department, Novato Unified School District or a public youth group would be allowed at the Novato Community House. The motion will go before the city council for approval.

Brown Requests Flood Assistance

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown today asked President Johnson to declare Humboldt County a major disaster area, eligible for federal aid to repair storm damage.

Brown said storm damage in the county amounted to almost $7 million. Public facilities, such as streets, roads, bridges and buildings, suffered more than $4 million, he said in a telegram to the president.

Brown estimated the county would be eligible for some $1.6 million in federal assistance funds.

Tiburon Tourists Lose Camera, Wallet

John R. McDonough of Alameda told sheriff's deputies in Tiburon yesterday that his $100 Leica camera was stolen from on top of a cigarette vending machine in the Prince Charlie Inn in Tiburon, where he had placed it Sunday afternoon.

McDonough's companion, William T. Tierney of San Francisco, reported his wallet, containing credit cards but no money, vanished about the same time.

Instructor Training

Airman 3c Donald A. Droesch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Droesch of 8 Jefferson Avenue, Santa Venetia, has been graduated at Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex., from the course for electrical power specialists and is remaining at Sheppard for instructor training.

Woman Indicted In Mate's Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The grand jury last night voted to indict Mary Ada Schooley, 40, on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of her ex-convict husband.

Also named in the indictment was George Lyons Jr. Both were also accused of robbery.

Mrs. Schooley's husband, William, was found dead on a rock ledge at Devils Slide on the San Mateo County coast the day after Christmas. He had a .38-caliber slug in his head.

Mrs. Schooley and Lyons turned themselves in after police issued an all-points bulletin for their arrest.

Patrick Decries Campus Activity

Public facilities such as University of California should not be used to demoralize U. S. troops in Viet Nam, a gubernatorial hopeful from Tiburon told Berkeley Republican Women today.

"I strongly urge prosecution to the fullest extent of the law, against the VDC or any others who initiate and engage in such apparently seditious activities, both on and off campus," said Patrick.

Tonight, Patrick is scheduled to speak to the Contra Costa County Republican Central Committee in Martinez.

Silverthorne Defense Cites Usury Concern

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Don C. Silverthorne's attorney said today the former head of the defunct San Francisco National Bank was advised by a bank examiner to put bank money into his own account to avoid state usury charges against the bank.

Attorney George Martinez outlined this key defense claim in his opening statement to a federal court jury trying Silverthorne and William S. Bennett, a money broker, on charges of misapplying bank funds.

Martinez said Silverthorne was told by the examiner that loan fees collected by the bank ran the overall interest cost "to a usury limit not countenanced by California state law."

Martinez quoted the examiner as telling Silverthorne:

"Why don't you do like the other bankers — put the money in your own account first and pay bank expenses from that account?"

Silverthorne's attorney said the examiner probably would contradict the accused banker's report. He said the defense would produce witnesses to corroborate the statement.

Under California law the nominal interest maximum is 7 per cent. It allows a top of 10 per cent in loans covered by written contracts. The law also includes, however, a host of exemptions.

Martinez said Silverthorne chose to play safe on the usury question and followed the advice to deposit "money taken in points"—loan fees — in his own account.

The government completed its case Friday.

Silverthorne is charged on 14 counts of bank fraud. Bennett is charged with count of conspiracy to defraud the bank and aiding in misapplication of funds.

Federal District Court Judge Charles L. Powell said there was not enough evidence against Bennett to require him to put up a defense on the three suspended counts.

The three counts accused Bennett of paying fees to Silverthorne for the privilege of borrowing from San Francisco National Bank.

More Planes Hunt For Reservists

Search for three missing Navy reservists, one of whom is a Mill Valley resident, was expanded in the Lake Tahoe area today, without success.

The three vanished on a training flight over the Pacific Ocean from Alameda Naval Air Station Their flight was to have taken them to Monterey, but Navy sources believed they might have headed for Lake Tahoe.

No trace was found by 25 search planes yesterday.

Youth Imprisoned For Auto Theft

Timothy Vincent Ferranti, 20-year-old Redwood City youth shot last May 3 while stealing a car, was sentenced in Marin Superior Court today to one to five years in state prison.

Judge Thomas F. Keating made the sentence run concurrently with an auto theft sentence from San Mateo County.

Ferranti was shot by San Rafael Police Sgt. James W. Carlton while taking a vehicle owned by Gene D. Bluder, 275 Canal Street, San Rafael. He has been at California Medical Facility in Vacaville for 90 days observation.

Dog Death Laid To Neighbor

A misdemeanor charge in the shotgun killing of a neighbor's dog has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against John William Shirley of 15 Knoll Way, Los Ranchitos.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas said Shirley allegedly shot the terrier, Frisky, owned by Earl Van Note, 12 Farm Road, Los Ranchitos, last Sunday.

Shirley is scheduled for arraignment at 1:30 p.m. Jan 26. Thomas said he told sheriff's officers the dog was bothering his sheep and ducks.

Probation Report Ordered In Killing

Sentencing of Virgilio Restauro, San Francisco dishwasher who pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter of a 16-year-old girl, was postponed yesterday to Thursday for action on a motion requesting probation.

Restauro, 25, killed Nonita Vicera of Daly City in San Francisco. The girl's body was dumped near Muir Woods.

Cancer Dinner Raises $3,000

More than $3,000 was raised for the American Cancer Society last night at a no-expense Project Victory dinner at Sabella's of Marin in Alto.

"It was a resounding success," said Nina Brandt, executive director of the Marin chapter, today. "We still haven't finished counting the proceeds."

Among performing guests were movie star Dennis Morgan, entertainer Allan Sherman, and football players Kermit Alexander and Clark Miller.

All proceeds go to the cancer fund. Restaurant owner Angelo Sabella donated the expense of the dinner. His employees again gave their services and time to the society.

Woman Smiles, Then Jumps Off Gate Span

A 21-year-old woman from Fair Oaks, Sacramento County leaped to her death from the Golden Gate Bridge at 2:20 p.m. yesterday after exchanging pleasantries with a bridge worker.

Adrienne L. Haxton parked her car at Vista Point and walked to the North tower of the bridge on the east side. On the way she passed bridge painter William Gavre of 54 Ross Avenue, San Anselmo, who said she smiled and said "hello," the California Highway Patrol reported.

Moments later, Gavre said, he saw her poised on the railing just before she leaped. Her body was recovered on the rocks at the base of the tower.

A note found in her car read: "I just couldn't stand it any longer. I just don't want to live like this."

Her death was the 293rd known suicide from the bridge.

Youth Still Critical

Mark Harris, 20, of 71 San Gabriel Drive, Fairfax, remained on the critical list today at Marin General Hospital, where he was admitted yesterday after apparently taking an overdose of tablets.

Sit-In Leader Faces Warrant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A municipal judge issued a bench warrant Monday for Miss Tracy Sims, convicted of disturbing the peace during 1964 sit-in demonstrations seeking more jobs for Negroes.

Miss Sims, 20, the leader of the demonstrations, cannot be extradited from New York, where she now lives, for a misdemeanor offense.

Judge Lawrence S. Manna forfeited her $56 bail after she failed for the third time to appear for sentencing. She could be sentenced to 45 days in jail and fined $220.

She wrote her attorney she had undergone minor surgery and was not well enough to travel or serve a jail term.

Judge Manna, however, declared: "This is surgery of a minor nature and the court feels it has no alternative but to issue a bench warrant and forfeiture of bail."

Ecumenism To Be Rule For War On Poverty

It was a significant extension of the technique of interfaith cooperation developed during the 1964 battle for enactment of the Civil Rights act.

Established at a top-level, closed meeting here was a new body to be known as "The Inter-religious Committee Against Poverty."

Its mission is to mobilize the full weight of the nation's principal religious organizations for an effective and continuing fight against poverty.

The founders said the three major faiths are "united in the conviction that toleration of persistent poverty amid our national affluence is morally indefensible."

Joining in creation of the new committee were the National Council of Churches, which embodies 30 major Protestant and orthodox denominations; the National Catholic Welfare Conference (NCWC), the official secretariat of the U.S. Catholic hierarchy; and the Synagogue Council of America, which is a coordinating body for all three major branches of Judaism.

States Rebuffed On Taxing G.I.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today states may require servicemen to license and register their motor vehicles, but rejected attempts to collect personal property taxes on the vehicles.

Justice William J. Brennan wrote to separate opinions for a unanimous court in disposing of cases from Mississippi and California.

The decisions interpreted a section of the 1940 Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act. The section says a serviceman's exemption from taxation by a state where he is temporarily stationed, including automobile fees, if fees required by the serviceman's home state have been paid.

Seven Counted Dead In Crash

MADRID (UPI) —Investigators today combed the wreckage of a U.S. Strategic Air Command B-52 bomber and a KC-135 jet tanker in southeastern Spain in an effort to determine what caused them to collide during in-flight refueling yesterday. Seven airmen reportedly died in the cash.

Four survivors—all from the bomber—were being treated for minor injuries at a Strategic Air Command (SAC) base hospital near Madrid.

Rescue workers said they counted seven bodies in the wreckage. The Air Force said there were four survivors, four dead and three missing.

Rafferty Offers College Tactics

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Max Rafferty has offered junior college officials suggestions for handling campus disturbance.

In a letter to the officials yesterday, the Superintendent of Public Instruction noted that each college was empowered to set its own rules for student political activities.

Rafferty made seven recommendations, which included reviewing college regulations, establishing "rapport" with local law enforcement agencies, permitting administrators to act immediately on all campus problems with the local board becoming an appeal agency, advising students of regulations and keeping the faculty informed.

Drake High Officers Elected

Dick Edelstein defeated Max Martin, 532 to 470, in a runoff election for vice president of the Sir Francis Drake High School student body yesterday.

For treasurer, in the other runoff vote, Kristen Young, with 519 votes, downed Karen Mickelson, who had 479.

Players Producer Revives Theater

By BETTY FROST

"Little theater activities should be a community effort for self-development and enjoyment," said Lucille Shreve, producer of the Cove Players.

The founding of the Cove Players in the Belvedere-Tiburon area almost 15 years ago was the inspiration of Mrs. Shreve. Now, after several years of inactivity because no theater was available, she is spearheading a revival of the Players. The principles of fun and personal growth have proved sound, for a number of the original Players are eager to start in again.

AMONG THE founding members are Bill Carter, technical director; Laverne Cash, make-up artist; Reggie Petersen, prop man; Mrs. Robert Boat, a member of the board of directors, and Mrs. Bruce Keppel, who, says Mrs. Shreve, "will help out in any capacity needed." Bill Roberson is stage manager.

After having performed at schools, in a loft, a tent, the Officers' Club of the former Tiburon Naval Net Depot and a Tiburon movie theater, the rejuvenated company is now rehearsing at the theater-in-a-corner on Main Street in Tiburon.

"The Cove Players are looking forward to this new challenge," says their producer. "The new locations, suggested by Tommy Cox, a long-time Cove Players fan, is a banquet room above Cox's Restaurant on the Tiburon waterfront. We have chosen for our opening vehicle a light-hearted play with a small cast, 'Under The Yum Yum Tree'." The play will open Jan. 27.

Lucille, who is the wife of Nelson Shreve, an advertising man with a San Francisco firm, keeps house in what she calls a "miniature mansion" in Sausalito. Although no longer a resident of the Tiburon Peninsula, she is still very much interested in the Cove Players and still dreams of a permanent little theater for the area.

AS PRODUCER, she works closely with Dan Totheroh, whom she persuaded to work with the Cove Players over a decade ago. The two also work together on the Mountain Play, with Dan as director and Lucille as assistant director and producer.

Once the producer and the director have selected the play, the producer issues try-out notices, assists with casting, rehearsal schedules, obtains the wardrobe mistress, prop men, make-up artist, works with the publicists and photographers, and makes sure that the show goes on.

During the six weeks from try-outs to opening night, Mrs. Shreve takes care of all these responsibilities. Although smitten with the theater, she has no desire to act. She says she has "A lot of fun" in her avocations despite an occasional headache.

Her good-natured enthusiasm seems to be contagious. She insists that little theater is a family affair, and encourages husbands, wives, youngsters and sometimes even pets, to take part. If, for example, the husband has an active role, the wife may become the ticket-taker, and the children ushers. Lucille's husband, Nelson, helps out in many ways and always does the photography for the productions in which she is involved.

International Dinner Date Planned By Tamalpais P-TA

The Tamalpais High School Parent-Teacher Assn. is planning its first social event in many years to include all parents of students as well as the students themselves.

It is to be an international potluck dinner, with exchange students as honored guests, at Ruby Scott auditorium on Jan. 29.

Those attending the dinner will bring a dish prepared from a foreign recipe. After dinner there will be entertainment directed by Donald Michaelian assisted by Mrs. Hubert James. Included will be a comedy skit by the Joe Allens and folk songs by Marianna Adler.

There will be other comedy skits, folk dancing, singing by local artists, students and faculty members with Bill Gavin, Mill Valley radio personality, as master of ceremonies. The show will be followed by dancing to records.

Ted Mitchell, head counselor, will introduce the exchange students. Mrs. William Pemberton will be in charge of an information table.

With the Crosby tournamet opening in two days, several golf enthusiasts from Marin are planning to make the trek to Pebble Beach for the four-day series and entertainment. The Meadow Club set will have quite a representation, as usual, including the William Carewes and Huntley Bennetts of Ross, G. Edward Frenches, Gene Vayssies, Rudy Langs of San Rafael, Henry Martins of Corte Madera and William Scott Andersons of Kentfield. Joining the group will be the Charles Wintons of Modesto and the Sam Arnolds of the Peninsula. Mrs. John Allen Jr. of Ross will be with the Don Earlys of the Peninsula, who formerly lived in Marin . . .

SEVEN MARIN women will be among the hostesses for the annual fashion gala of the Junior League of San Francisco at the Hilton. Wearing the red, white and navy ensembles for the Feb. 9 Americana event will be Mesdames Richard F. Cahill and Christopher Rivers Jr. of Belvedere, Donald F. Wilcox and Miss Katherine Kirk of Ross, Mesdames Walter Coulson of Kentfield and Kirk Frederick and Robert W. Dawson Jr. of San Rafael.

VISITING IN BELVEDERE before embarking on a round the world cruise Thursday are Mr. and Mrs. Alex V. Fortey of Vancouver, B. C. The Forteys are the house guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Kennedy. Belvedere neighbors of the Kennedys, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Selby, honored the travelers Sunday at a cocktail party. On their return from the 90 day voyage aboard the President Roosevelt the couple from Canada will stay with the Belvedere family, then go on to see other relatives in Las Vegas.

LEAVING NEXT WEEK for a raft voyage along the coast of Mexico will be Mill Valley's remarkable 74-year-old traveler, Miss Roberta Winans. The trip is sponsored by the American River Tour Assn., the group with which she took a raft trip down the Grand Canyon several years ago. The party this time will be composed of as many rafts as are necessary to accommodate from 18 to 40 people who will be going. The rafts, Miss Winans said, are of the rubber-like neoprene with wood floors and canopies that were made for the U.S. Navy.

Leaving from Oakland on Monday, the intrepid Miss Winans will drive to Texacatita, Mexico, where the party will board the rafts. Her friends have been trying to persuade her not to go, she said, fearing exposure to the weather would be hazardous, but they will be in a tropical climate and will actually wear tropical clothing like muu muus and shifts. The water is warm enough day and night for swimming, she said. All meals will be cooked and served by the crew, and the travelers will sleep on air mattresses in sleeping bags so that the whole adventure promises not to be too strenuous, she says.

The party will sail north along the coast and will stop a day in Puerta Vallarta, but the rest of the time they will camp on uninhabited beaches and hike inland at points where there are no roads to villages in which the natives have never seen white people. Their only contact with the world is by sea. The voyage will end at Guadalajara, where Miss Winans will spend a day before starting the drive home.

THE BELVEDERE SAILING SOCIETY will have its annual membership meeting and dinner at the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere on Monday, with a cocktail hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 o'clock. Mrs. James K. Levorsen of Belvedere is reservations chairman.

THE WALTER J. TAITS of Loch Lomond are rejoicing over news of the birth of their first grandchild, a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bobrick (Janet Tait) of Woodland Hills. The little girl has been named Cheryl Lynne.

HOME AFTER a visit to Santa Barbara, where they entertained their granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kreutzkampf who live in the Channel city, are the Bruce Johnstones of Inverness. The Johnstones spent the holidays at the Santa Barbara Biltmore Hotel.

Mary Spaulding To Marry In February

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Polhemus Spalding of Ross have announced the engagement of their daughter Mary Elizabeth to Maynard Garrison Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Garrison of San Francisco.

MARY SPALDING

Mary is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, attended the University of Oregon and was graduated from Dominican College. She has been living in San Francisco, where she is on the faculty of the Town School for Boys. Her affiliations include the Junior League of San Francisco. Maynard is a graduate of Princeton University. He attended Stanford and University of San Francisco law schools and is practicing law in San Francisco, where he is a member of the San Francisco Golf Club. He has three daughters by a previous marriage.

The couple will make their home in San Francisco.

ner and the open air production of Peer Gynt at the Mountain Theater this spring will be fascinating, she says. "At the Mountain Play, with such a large cast, we always have the air of a family picnic during rehearsals."

ONE TREND in little theater in Marin County that the lady producer finds "very healthy and good" is the exchange of directors and actore throughout the county. The try-outs for "Under the Yum Yum Tree" brought people from all over Marin, as well as other parts of the Bay Area.

AN ALL-Marin cast was chosen as it turned out. Maudee Wilcutt of Kentfield, Lionel Stott of Ross, Carolyn Purse of Novato and John Peebles of Sausalito have the major roles.

The Cove Playere, now back in action, have a full program scheduled.

With such a demanding hobby, does Mrs. Shreve have time for any other activities? Yes, indeed. She plays golf, has accepted an invitation to join the Sausalito Woman's Club, maintains a household which includes two dogs and three Siamese cats, has a part-time job with a Tiburon Music Co., and travels to Mexico frequently. . . . What she'd like to do now is learn to pilot a helicopter. . . .

WITTY, KNITTY

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

FLORENCE, Italy — You are going to notice women this spring. Italian boutique designers have decided that.

Dark-eyed, dark-haired manikins demonstrated this on a runway in Pitti Palace here where crystal chandeliers hang low over the audience of buyers and fashion press attending a three-day session of spring collection openings.

AMONG the fashion-approved methods of demanding attention this spring will be: Make the clothes bright, make them black and white, make them tight, make them witty, and make them knitty.

Possibly safety was the reason for creative brilliant-hued raincoats that could be seen on white checks, bold orange linings, bright borders all were eye-opening design methods for coats with matching hoods and boots.

FOR SUNNY days were bikinis that were attention-getting enough without their vivid colors. Apron skirts that wrapped around some bikini-clad models did nothing to make homebodies out of them. One little after-swim coatdress was tied around a yellow bikini costume in such a way as to keep the perky yellow bra exposed.

As grandmother made patchwork quilts, Italian knitwear designers Inesmarina, Lida, Nardini, Romnaita and Golf Tricots stitched together wild sections of color. Sometimes the color of each pants leg was different. Often a doublet flipping over these was still another color.

Dr. Spock— Parents Have To Be Firm

Dr. Benjamin Spock has warned parents to keep their children in line — even those as young as a year and a half—lest they turn into tyrants.

The famous pediatrician complained about "how far we have gone in America in emphasizing the rights of children and limiting the rights of adults. Whatever happened?" asked Dr. Spock in a current magazine article.

"I believe that if a child as young as one and a half is allowed to assume that his wishes come first, he can develop into quite a tyrant in a short time." The result is bad for both parents and children, he said. Parents may develop a "resentful, revengeful attitude," and the child's "guilt is apt to make him be more provocative in his behavior.

"Many parents feel that that when in doubt they'd better let the child have his way, rather than run the risk of distorting his personality with the wrong management," Dr. Spock said. However, if common sense prevails and parental love is apparent, "it is better for good parents to be confident of themselves—even if they are technically somewhat mistaken—than for them to be hesitant and submissive."

Parents have to be firm but reasonable, Dr. Spock wrote in Redbook. "I don't think it's wise," he said, "for parents to let their child control their conversation.

Gloves Language Dates Back To Chivalry Days

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gloves have a romantic language, dating back to the days of chivalry, reports the current issue of Jerome L. Rodale's "Quinto Lingo" magazine.

When a lady dropped both gloves, it meant—"I love you." Biting the tips of gloves meant —"Get lost." Holding the tips of the gloves downward was a way of saying—"I wish to get acquainted." When the lady struck a glove on her hand, it meant—"I am shocked." And when she turned a glove inside out, it meant—"I hate you."

How To Do Heavy Duty Wash Of Drapes, Spreads And Rugs

Rugs, draperies, slip covers, bedspreads—all have to be laundered every once in a while to keep the house crisp and clean.

Slip covers—Place slip cover in dryer immediately after washing, and regulate time and temperature settings according to the fabric. While still damp-dry, remove them from the dryer and press any pleats or ruffles. Then replace on furniture where the slip cover will finish drying to snug, smooth fit.

Do not dry more than one couch cover, or two chair covers, or five pillow covers per load.

DRAPERIES—BEFORE laundering, remove all trimmings, detachable hooks and weights. Drying time and temperature will vary, depending on weight of fabric, size and remaining moisture. Allow the drapes plenty of room for tumbling. Remove when damp-dry, run drapes lengthwise on the ironer and rehang.

Note: Do not dry-dry lined drapes. Watch drying time carefully the first few times you dry drapes and slip covers. You'll be able to calculate exact time for future reference.

CURTAINS: Weight and size of curtains will determine the number of pairs that make up one load. Allow to remain in dryer until damp-dry, then remove and run through ironer. Rehang immediately.

After being washed, nylon, orlon and dacron curtains will dry in just a few minutes in your automatic dryer. Since sheer curtains need plenty of room to fluff up, take care not to overcrowd dryer. Check periodically as they are drying to see that all items, like tie backs, are tumbling freely with the load. Remove curtains while some trace of moisture remains, touch up with ironer if desired and rehang.

To keep curtains crisp in hot weather, you may wish to starch them. Starched curtains should be dryer-dried along with several bath towels to absorb excess starch. Remove from dryer when damp-dry or completely dry, according to starch manuafteurer's instructions. Iron immediately, if possible. Place damp curtains in plastic bag or other protective cover if ironing is delayed.

When curtains are not soiled, but require airing and dusting, use your automatic dryer to "revive" them. Allow several pairs of curtains at a time to tumble freely. Remove from dryer and rehang . . . curtains will be fresh and sunshine-fragrant again.

'Mod' Clothes Need Architectural Hair

NEW YORK (AP) — Vidal Sassoon, the London hair sylist who makes Janes look like Joes, claims every woman in America ought to get rid of her hair "so she'll have time to do some real living."

Nightly pinups, teasing, bouffant hairdos and bobby pins are ridiculous, he says, "especially when this country is otherwise such a modern, spectacular place."

Short hair, he says, would give women time to be more feminine.

SASSOON expressed his views for 200 fashion writers attending New York Couture Group style previews. The ladies gasped when shown one German model with platinum blonde hair shorter than Sassoon's.

"Every woman would cut her hair this way if she saw how easy it is," says Anna Lens of Munich. To contrast her close-cropped hair, she wears make-up that takes an hour to put on.

"Men love my hair short," says Sassoon model Judy Mursch, 23, of Copenhagen, Denmark. "They rub their hands in it. They can't believe it's so straight thick. I think it's very sexy."

Kelly McKeown, 28, of New York, wears her blonde hair in what looks like a blown cut. "It's so interesting I get twice as many job bookings now," she says.

Sassoon charges $25 when he cuts a girl's hair, and she must have it recut every two to three weeks.

"EACH GIRL'S hair is done individually," he says, "it's styled to her bone structure and contour of her face. She can brush it any direction and it will look perfect."

Sassoon, 38 this month and handsome, has been cutting women's hair for 20 years. Most important is the over-all image.

"The clothes image is destroyed without a good haircut," he says. "Modern clothes need short, architectural hair." He has a new style, also short, ready for the Paris and Rome fashion openings, but he won't talk about it. He just laughs.

So far, ladies in this country aren't rushing to their hairdressers to cut their tresses.

In the words of beauty expert Virginia Graham: "Imagine showing your wedding pictures and have people ask, 'Which one's the groom?' "

Sassoon shrugs off criticism.

School Board Man Questions Secrecy

Secrecy in the matter of names of candidates for school boards, especially the Marin County Board of Education, will be re-examined by the county board Feb. 7.

The question arose recently in the selection of a person to fill a vacancy on the Bolinas-Stinson School District Board. The local board was stymied by continuous 2-2 votes, and asked the county board to make the appointment. The county board voted for a policy holding secret names of all candidates except the one selected for appointment. The county board has followed similar policy in filling vacancies in its own ranks.

Chairman James A. Carroll said the secrecy would prevent "hard feelings" by persons not chosen.

Last night at a special meeting of the board, Carroll asked to reopen the question, saying he had had a change of heart.

He said in his own case, he doubted if he could have ever been selected for the county board by a committee meeting in private. He won the position by popular election.

County School Board Delays Pay Increases

Without changing a single line item, the Marin County Board of Education last night adopted a $352,911 budget for the county school service fund for next year, on first public perusal. The total is up from $331,929 for the 1966 fiscal year.

The board held up action, however, on proposed salary increase, after learning that an employee salary proposal listed comparisons with only the highest paying school districts in the Bay Area.

The budget adopted is one of several which the county schools office uses. It covers certain services to small school districts and others, such as research and film library, provided all districts. Most of the money for it comes from the state, although some features depend on federal foundation grants or contracts with school districts.

Not included in the budget are administrative services (paid for by the county), and special classes, such as those for mentally retarded, orthopedically handicapped or those at San Quentin and Juvenile Hall.

The salary request, however, was for everyone. It called for a two per cent hike plus $250-a-year across-the-board increase for teachers, two per cent plus $500 for administrators, and a straight five per cent hike for all other employees.

Questions by board member Patrick W. Pollock revealed that only high-paying districts had been used in the salary request presentation. Pollock began asking questions after chairman James A. Carroll sought justification for the $250 and $500 flat increase requests.

George H. Renworth, principal of Bayview Schools at San Quentin Prison, who made the request, promised more information.

From the first, Carroll wanted to hold off on salary approval, but the pay increases were in fact passed, thanks to a confusion over parliamentary procedure. Then they were rescinded.

Board members Adele J. Alpers and Lee C. Richardson Jr., on the motion to rescind, voted to let the raise stand, saying they had enough information to approve a pay hike. It was then that Carroll and Pollock started asking specific questions.

The county service fund budget, which must be sent to Sacramento for state approval by Feb. 1, includes the proposed pay hikes, on the ground they could not be inserted later.

But Carroll contended that if the raises are not approved, that part of the state money simply would not be spent.

Services to small districts were cut from $41,225 to $38,700, because less state money is expected to be granted.

The main cut was for supervision of instruction, from $17,028 to $9,544, on the grounds that all but the very smallest districts now have competent administrators of their own, and do not need the county's.

However, health services to small districts, and time from a psychologist, were both increased.

The biggest increase in the budget, about $13,000, is for audio-visual services, mostly for purchase of films and filmstrips.

Asst. County Supt. Robert Stannard said this increase would be financed by raising the charge to school districts from $1.50 to $1.75 per child.

"Coordination," a function which includes the salaries of several top administrators, was raised from $118,735 to $124,684.

No specific money was included for a coordinator of vocational education, subject of dispute with the county board of supervisors recently. However, a lump sum for consultants, $9,700, may partly cover that expense.

The new proposed salary schedule for teachers would raise the bottom pay from $6,716 to $7,100 a year, and top pay (for a teacher with a doctorate and eight years with the department) from $12,089 to $12,581.

Carroll said the top and bottom ranges of the schedule were no longer significant, since the county virtually never hires at the bottom step, and almost no one stays in teaching once he has a doctorate.

Renworth, arguing for higher pay, said teachers in the county department have special problems. For one thing, they do not receive law-protected tenure as do teachers in the districts.

Linthicum May Get San Rafael Planner Post

The San Rafael City Council, impatient with the delay in finding a new city planner, may wind up appointing Acting Planner Charles Linthicum and hiring an assistant to help him.

Several councilmen praised Linthicum's work last night, and City Atty. David J. Menary Jr. suggested, "Why not hire Chuck (Linthicum) and a good assistant to take the pressure off, him?"

Linthicum suggested the city "exhaust all its resources" in recruiting a planner, but said he would be willing to go along with the council's decision.

The job has been open since George H. Rodgers left last Aug. 15.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini asked last night for a progress report on recruitment. City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said two men have been interviewed, but neither filled the bill.

"I just can't believe that we can't find a good planner," Bettini said.

Councilman Fred Jensen said, "I think we're doing damn good right now." He said Linthicum has "turned out more work" than any city planner in years, and "should have the job now."

"I'm happy with him," said Councilman Harry A. Barbier.

Andersen said that the job has been widely advertised, but that there are many planning positions open on the West Coast.

Mayor Bettini said, "It's obvious that something's wrong, and usually it's the salary."

The city is offering a starting salary of $900 per month.

Sausalito Council Hearings Slated

Sausalito City Council will hold a hearing at its 8 p.m. meeting today on an application from Martino and Moscini for planned unit development of the Marina Vista subdivision.

The development, to contain 190 single family and duplex units, is bounded by Rodeo Avenue and Nevada Street, Bayside School and Highway 101.

Councilmen will discuss a proposed new employees' group health insurance, plan to introduce a community antenna television ordinance, and will hear a request from the Sausalito Community TV System for an ordinance amendment to permit the system an increased area of franchise coverage.

African Leader Calls For Order

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Maj. Gen. Aguiyi Ironsi, Nigeria's new military ruler, says he will end disorders in this West African nation and will impose martial law if necessary.

Ironsi told a news conference at his heavily guarded headquarters that he will have a committee draw up a new constitution and will hold national elections when the constitution is completed.

"I am a soldier and it has never been my ambition to meddle in politics," said the 41-year-old military chief who took over power Sunday after announcing that an attempted coup had been smashed.

Candidate Waters Sees One-Party State

Recent sharp boosts in basic food prices are but one aspect of the Democratic "spend and lend theory of government," Laughlin E. Waters told Marin Federated Republican Women at a luncheon today.

Waters, who seeks the GOP nomination for governor, spoke at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

"Hang on to your pocketbooks," he warned the audience. "The Democrats are out to make this a one-party state, if it takes your last dollar."

The former United States attorney for Southern California and four-term assemblyman said he hates labels.

"Too often they conceal more than they reveal. That is one reason why I have been insisting upon a wide-open primary as a method of rejuvenating the Republican Party," he said. "Full, complete and totally honest discussion of differing views makes the affixing of labels more difficult."

"But I am happy to accept one designation that some might call a label, because I have hung it upon myself. I am a fiscal conservative."

Waters said the Democratic administration in California had caused dislocations in agriculture, economy and employment.

"They assert they have led California to unparalleled economic health—and the areospace and electronics industry hangs by a thread on developments in Viet Nam.

"They say they have furthered employment—yet California cannot keep up with the national average of employment and hasn't yet licked the problem of a hard core of continued unemployment."

Divorcee Shoots Former Husband

SAN JOSE (AP)—Mrs. Helen Bacigalupi, who lost a child custody dispute, fired six shots through a screen door yesterday, killing her former husband and wounding his second wife, police said.

Killed was Gerald A. Bacigalupi, 40, and wounded in a hand and a foot was his second wife, Jean, 37.

The first wife, 35, lives in Palo Alto and was booked for a homicide investigation.

Police said a divorce settlement had given her former husband most of the couple's property, including the Willow Glen house where the shooting occurred, and their three children.

Bacigalupi was a liquor store clerk.

Chinese Awaiting New Year Fete

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chinese New Year comes this Friday but an Occidental in Chinatown will scarcely know it.

Chinatown celebrates the arrival of the Oriental lunar calendar New Year at home and quietly. The parade and hoopla come later.

The parade will be Saturday night, Jan. 29.

Miss Chinatown will be crowned Saturday night.

This will be "The Year of the Horse" and it is No. 4664.

And, in case you have forgotten, you say Happy New Year's: "Gung Hay Fat Choy!"

St. Vincent's School Area Power Line Plan Debated

Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s proposal to extend a 115,000-volt transmission line south along the east side of St. Vincent's School to a substation proposed east of the Marinwood interchange yesterday prompted county planning commission discussion of the whole question of locating power lines.

The county has little say in the location of lines except that it can initiate a hearing before the California Public Utilities Commission.

Commissioner Hugh Dougherty suggested the PUC be asked to delay approval of the current proposal until the county has a chance to study it.

Gordon Tandy of PG&E declared that this was not necessary, that the utility had always cooperated with the county planning staff and would continue to do so.

After much talk, commissioners decided they would like to see all the proposals as well, and if they were found wanting, a PUC hearing would be requested.

On the plan for lines near St. Vincent's, the procedure will be tried for the first time. Acting Planning Director David Van Pelt was asked to report Jan. 31.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

1. Approved a tentative map for the subdivision of one acre between La Verne and Hawthorne avenues in Homestead Valley into six lots, as requested by John Ribiero.

2. Continued until Jan. 31 the request of Charles Tijerina for medical and dental offices on the second floor of the Alto branch of the Tiburon National Bank.

3. Granted Joan Taylor permission to convert a one-family dwelling into a duplex at 106 Central Avenue, Woodacre, overruling the denial recommended by the zoning administrator.

4. Continued until Jan. 31 consideration of Alice Garrison's request for lot frontage on a 20-foot easement, rather than the required 40-foot easement at 11 Greenwood Way, Kentfield.

5. Approved a tentative map for subdivision of 2.5 acres between Miller Creek and Idylberry roads in Lucas Valley into 11 lots, as asked by Eichler Homes, Inc.

6. Agreed to allow existing power poles in the 17-lot Hidden Harbor tract at Black Point, though the tentative map was approved after the county's underground utilities ordinance took effect. The existing poles and lines cross the property to serve developments on either side.

7. Scheduled discussion Jan. 31 on putting a requirement in the subdivision ordinance for subdividers to dedicate land for parks. A new state law makes the requirement permissable for both school sites and parks.

8. Set March 7 for discussion of general revisions in the subdivision code which would do away with ambiquities and bring it in line with new state codes.

9. Set discussion on March 7 of a letter from Carroll A. Snyker of the Marin Development Foundation complaining about involved procedures required of developers in manufacturing zones.

10. Adjourned at 8:50 p.m.

Commissioner Harry H. Heifetz was absent.

Brown Expects Announcement By Anderson

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Glenn Anderson will announce he'll run for a third term as lieutenant governor, probably within 48 hours, Gov. Edmund Brown said last night.

"I'm absolutely confident he'll run again," Brown told county editors and publishers, "and I expect he'll announce his candidacy within 48 hours.

Brown said, however, he won't endorse a running mate for the June 7 primary because: "I have my own troubles."

He said he expects Anderson to win the Democratic nomination. There could be "a couple of other good candidates," he said, mentioning Thomas Braden of Oceanside, president of the State Board of Education.

Turning to a controversial topic, the governor again indicated that he will boycott next month's California Democratic Council convention as long as Simon Casady is its president.

He said he "expects to be up in the snow" Feb. 18 when the convention begins in Bakersfield.

Piano Lessons

Group courses in piano for children and adults, sponsored by the City of Mill Valley, will start next month at the community and youth center. Further information may be obtained at the city hall, according to Don Dimitratos, park and recreation director.

Eight United States presidents and six wives of presidents were born in the state of Virginia.

Millions Sought In Divorce Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mrs. Francis Taylor filed a separate maintenance suit against her husband yesterday asking $5.5 million in damages, $7,500 a month alimony and $1,000 a month for each of their two daughters.

Mrs. Taylor, who now lives in Barrington, R.I., accuses her husband of adultery and says he spent thousands of dollars on a woman identified in the suit as a Jean Peters.

Bennett Claims Vindication In Gas Line Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Public Utilities Commissioner William M. Bennett of Kentfield yesterday predicted ultimate victory in his long-standing battle against El Paso Natural Gas Co. after the U.S. Supreme Court granted his petition for a hearing in the case.

Bennett called the Supreme Court action, announced yesterday, "a vindication and a victory."

"This will be a victory for all California gas users, because every time El Paso faces competition, the prices of natural gas come down," he said.

By its action, the Supreme Court re-entered a lengthy complex case in which it ordered El Paso to divest itself of Pacific Northwest Pipeline Co. in 1962. A plan for the divesture is being drawn up in a federal court in Salt Lake City.

However, Bennett objected to the plan on the ground that it would injure California consumers. He said the present plan would set up Pacific Northwest with officers picked by El Paso and insufficient funds and reserves.

Both companies supply natural gas to California utilities.

Bennett's action in entering this case caused a dispute between him and Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Bennett, now a candidate for attorney general, said he entered the case as special counsel for then-Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk. However, Brown said Bennett was exceeding his authority.

France Disputes Market Proposal

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — France clashed with her five partners in the European Common Market today over veto rights of each member in the economic group.

France wants the veto preserved while the other nations propose making a majority vote binding at least in some cases.

The foreign ministers temporarily dropped the question. They resumed discussion of a French memorandum to limit the power of the Executive Commission that manages the Common Market.

The French insisted that the commission consult the member governments individually before making its proposals.

The commission's term has expired but it is expected to remain in office until the plan goes through for merging it with the executives of two other organizations—the European Coal and Steel Community and Euratom, the atomic pool.

The six member nations have already agreed to merge each pool's executive body with the market's Executive Commission, but the move has not yet been fully ratified.

The French were expected to ask that this be done as soon as possible. They were expected to press for a limit to the powers of the new joint body and to use considerable political leverage on the composition of its 14 members. The Executive Commission now has nine members.

One French target is the ouster of Walter Hallstein of West Germany, the Executive Commission's chairman, whom French President Charles de Gaulle dislikes because he has, in De Gaulle's view, assumed too much power as head of the market's management body.

"De Gaulle just doesn't like seeing Hallstein standing there on a red carpet, wearing a cutaway and striped pants, receiving new ambassadors. He thinks Hallstein is pretending to be the emperor of Europe," said one French official.

The French sought to curb the Executive Commission's powers in a 10-point memorandum yesterday after ending a six-month boycott of the community's meetings.

Absentees Cancel Council Meeting

The Corte Madera Town Council meeting scheduled last night was canceled for lack of a quorum after two councilmen and an audience of 15 waited 35 minutes for appearance of an additional councilman.

Present were councilmen Charles F. Pendleton and William W. Collier. They asked Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher to reschedule the meeting for Jan. 31 at 7:30 p.m.

Usher said Mayor Edward W. Colthurst and Councilman Norman R. Barnett both called yesterday afternoon to report they would be out of town for another meeting. Councilman Albert E. Kogler indicated he would attend the council meeting, but then was delayed by a business meeting, Usher said.

Closed Session

Kentfield School District trustees will hold a special meeting in closed session at 7:30 p.m. today in the multi-use room of Wolfe Grade School on replacement of an employee.

Savings Bonds Interest Rate Hike Ordered

Fowler said at a savings bond luncheon here he would implement the President's order soon. He did not specify a date.

Fowler gave no indication of how large an increase was being considered.

The present interest rate on series E and H savings bonds is 3¾ per cent.

The Treasury secretary told the luncheon of top corporate executives involved in the savings bond deduction program that the President felt it necessary to improve the rate of return in order to keep its interest yields on the securities at a par with interest rates elsewhere in the economy.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

The irritable colon syndrome (gas, abdominal pain or diarrhea) is common in high-strung, tense, or overworked individuals. Resting the victim and his bowel usually brings relief. We know that some of these people have a biochemical problem that involves lactose, a sugar found in milk and milk products.

Between 25 and 50 per cent of supposedly normal individuals do not absorb the carbohydrate. We know this occurs because the amount in the blood does not increase after the individual drinks a lactose solution or milk. In addition biopsy studies of the intestinal wall show a marked low lactase activity.

SOME OF these normal individuals do not have symptoms after ingesting lactose or milk. A proportion shy away from milk because they do not like it or have found that it does not agree with them.

In contrast, others in the group suffer from cramps, gas, abdominal distension, or diarrhea. This takes place because the lactose remains in the intestine where it draws fluid into the bowel and encourages fermentation. A few recognized milk as the offender and were comfortable so long as they omitted the food.

Dr. Elliot Weser and his colleague, from Cornell University medical college decided to study the effect of lactose on 27 individuals who suffered from the irritable colon syndrome from 2 to 30 years. Tests showed that 13 had faulty lactose absorption. All in this group experienced diarrhea after lactose ingestion. There was marked improvement in eight after milk products were eliminated from the diet.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request).

THREE TIMES AND OUT

D. R. writes: I have been told that after three attacks of strep throat the poison can kill a person. Is this true?

REPLY

Most of us have suffered several attacks of this common infection and have lived to tell the tale. But I don't mean to belittle streptococcus, a dangerous organism. It is responsible for many maladies such as scarlet fever, rheumatic fever, Bright's disease, subacute bacterial endocarditis, and erysipelas.

PAIN AND STIFFNESS

W. O. writes: What is the shoulder-arm-hand syndrome?

REPLY

A condition in which pain and stiffness of the shoulder and hand occur. The skin of the hand on the involved side becomes taunt and shiny. The cause is not known, but the syndrome may develop as a complication of stroke or coronary thrombosis. Physical therapy is the best treatment.

ALLERGIC REACTION

B. N. W. writes: Can a person be allergic to smallpox vaccine?

REPLY

Now and then a generalized rash develops seven to eight days after the child is vaccinated. This reaction is thought to be due to allergy to the smallpox virus. The complication is rare, however; it is said to occur once in every 4,000 to 5,000 vaccinations.

UNDEVELOPED

D. P. writes: Can a woman with an infantile womb become pregnant?

REPLY

Yes, if ovarian function is normal. The pregnancy may not go to term in these circumstances.

LIGHT

REPLY

I doubt that it makes much difference if both are adequate.

INFLAMATION

A. W. writes: Years ago my doctor told me I had chronic conjunctivitis. My glasses were changed several times. After two years I saw my doctor for a periodic eye exam and was dumbfounded when he said I was getting cataracts in both eyes. Is surgery for this condition serious?

REPLY

All eye operations are serious. The chance of dying from the operation is practically nil but best results are obtained when the ophthalmologist is skilled in doing this procedure.

San Rafael Bans Shooting In City

The San Rafael City Council last night unanimously passed to print an ordinance to prohibit the firing of guns, bows and arrows and slingshots, except in special circumstances.

Under the proposed ordinance firing will be permitted in defense of persons and property or "in a regularly and properly constructed shooting range or gallery."

Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, who requested the ordinance, said there have been problems, "people shooting at deer with a bow and arrow," and others shooting pellet guns and slingshots.

Councilman Louis H. Baar said he left that people should be entitled to shoot in their own yard.

Councilman Harry A. Barbier said, "I hope you can't shoot a .22 in your yard."

Councilman Fred Jensen asked, "Suppose someone with a bow and arrow wants to practice in his back yard with a bale of hay?"

Menary said this could be allowed under the provision for "a regularly and properly constructed shooting gallery."

When councilmen learned that the ordinance covered possession of sling shots, Baar quipped, "How about pea shooters?"

Discussion of a proposed ordinance to require undergrounding of utilities in new subdivisions was postponed after Baar reported the California Public Utilities Commission is considering state regulations in the field. However, the council authorized City Mgr. Dan E. Anderson to get cost figures in undergrounding in cities that have municipal electricity, and report Feb. 7.

Passed to print was an ordinance amending the building code to permit certain alterations in Fire Zone 1.

Two ordinances received final passage, both by unanimous vote:

An ordinance rezoning four parcels in Northgate Shopping Center Unit One, on the north side of Las Gallinas Avenue, from general commercial to planned community, as requested by D.M. Christensen.

An ordinance rezoning 38 acres of Kerner-Bellam properties on the east side of Kerner Boulevard from planned commercial and light industrial to multiple residential and special residential, requiring 2,000 square feet of land area per dwelling unit.

Peacock Gap Real Estate Office Wins

The San Rafael City Council last night upheld Fox and Carskadon's permit to operate a temporary real estate sales office at Peacock Gap, but ruled out re-sales.

Thus, the firm retained its permit which expires March 28, after a one-hour public hearing which attracted about 25 persons including real estate salesmen and Peacock Gap residents.

Norman P. Higby of 58 San Marino Drive appealed the city planning commission's Dec. 28 decision to extend the firm's permit for 90 days. He said that by engaging in re-sales, Fox and Carskadon was "becoming a general real estate business" and as such should not be operating in a residential area.

The council denied Higby's appeal, but limited the firm's permit to lot sales and new homes sales, and banned resales. Higby said he favored these conditions.

Fox and Carskadon was backed by the Peacock Gap Home Owners Assn. and several Peacock Gap residents.

Council Not Satisfied With Firehouse Plans

The San Rafael City Council may shift the location of the proposed Glenwood Fire Station slightly in an effort to bring the cost within the $76,000 budgeted.

When the bids were opened Dec. 3, the lowest was $83,838, and the council later asked architect Roger F. Hooper to redesign the firehouse to trim the cost to $76,000.

Hooper presented his proposal for "re-design" last night, with a list of deletions and substitutions to trim $6,000 from the cost. The council labeled it unsatisfactory. Councilman Fred Jensen called it "a complete joke."

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said all the architect did was "take out things we'll have to buy anyway."

Hooper contended he was limited in making changes because he was "given the basic design to follow" — the same design he used for Firehouse No. 3 in Terra Linda and No. 4 (Bellam Boulevard). "We were given a building to fit to the site including structure, size and material," he said. "The only thing you can reduce is either the scope or the quality."

The Glenwood station is causing a problem because mud at the site which requires pilings.

Andersen said possibly the station could be re-located on the site, but soil tests would be needed to determine if this could be done.

The council asked that this be explored.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Authorized Andersen to negotiate with Walter Freitas for the purchase of a five-acre Montecillo Road park site, which would be developed into a neighborhood park.

2. Referred to the Planning commission, for report Feb. 7, a complaint by Mrs. Frances Larsen, a property owner on Jordan Street, that two auto wrecking yards on that street are not complying with the conditions of their use permits.

3. Referred to the public works department a petition from 14 residents of Vistawood Way claiming their cul-de-sac street in San Rafael Highlands is hazardous.

4. Referred a claim from Gerard A. Hendriks of 326 Forbes Avenue for $1,161 for damages resulting from a sewer back-up at Forbes Avenue and Elizabeth Way, last Dec. 14, to the city insurance carrier.

5. Granted Tele-Vue Systems of Marin an encroachment permit to provide antenna service in the Sun Valley area.

6. Set for Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. opening of bids on pedestrian-operated traffic signals at the Miracle Mile and Greenfield Avenue.

7. Tentatively scheduled a joint meeting with the park and recreation commission for Feb. 2, but did not designate time and place.

8. Authorized Andersen to attend the city managers' spring meeting in Coronado Feb. 23-25, and city finance officer Orrin Wendling to attend a conference in El Segundo Feb. 2-4.

9. Hired Robert L. Hodges as a maintenance man at $442 a month.

San Rafael To Ask For Freeway Aid

San Rafael city officials are to appear before the State Highway Commission in Sacramento at 11 a.m. tomorrow to request action on Highway 101 projects.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen and Mayor C. Paul Bettini will ask that the construction schedule on highway improvements in San Rafael be advanced.

Andersen said the city will ask for construction of extra lanes over Puerto Suello Hill to provide six lanes instead of four.

The city also wants a newly constructed road alongside the railroad tracks extended from Third Street to Mission Avenue. At present the road runs from Second to Third streets, as part of the new southbound on-ramp pattern.

Andersen, City Councilman Louis H. Baar and representatives of the San Rafael public works department met with State Sen. John F. McCarthy yesterday to explain the city's requests. Baar said last night he would make the trip to Sacramento if he possibly could.

Another Model U.N. Delegation Picked At Drake

Sir Francis Drake High School will represent a second government at the Model United Nations, to convene in mid-February in Berkeley.

The school's forensic society had been selected to speak for Yugoslavia, but senior Peter Stone suggested that Viet Nam should be represented by delegations of observers, since Southeast Asia would be discussed.

The organization running the session agreed, and named delegations for North and South Viet Nam and the National Liberation Front. Drake was allowed to represent South Viet Nam.

Army Man Is Given Achievement Award

Army Sgt. Maj. Clarence Bluhm of 731 Las Colindas Road, San Rafael, has received a certificate of achievement while serving with the U. S. Forces in Korea.

Sergeant Bluhm received the award for performance during his previous assignment as operations sergeant of the plans and training division at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, from June, 1962 to November, 1965.

Air Force Tries Out New Reentry Vehicle

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—The Air Force said a Minuteman II missile was launched today and boosted a Mark II reentry vehicle about 4,500 miles to a target area at Eniwetok Atoll.

An Air Force spokesman said this as a research and development launching.

Johnson Asks Cash For Asia Bank Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to pledge $200 million toward a billion-dollar Asian Development Bank which he said "can mean the difference between opportunity and chaos" in that part of the world.

The funds he proposed for the bank would be in addition to the $1 billion the White House has promised to speed the economic development of Southeast Asia.

Training Completed

Airman Johnie K. George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. George of Fort Baker, has been assigned to Kelly Air Force Base, Tex., after completing basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

BUTTERFLY HAVEN IN BOLINAS

Hundreds of migrating Monarch butterflies fill the trees near an unnamed lane on Bolinas Mesa. The present flock is only a fraction of the thousands which mob the area beginning in December, coming from across the United States, heading south, some as far as South America and the West Indies. The Monarchs will hibernate for the winter before laying eggs in the spring. The Monarch was native to the Americas but has been carried, or perhaps has flown oceans, to Europe, Japan, the Philippines. (Independent-Journal photos)

Budget Guide Asks County Pay Increases

Marin County budget guidelines for fiscal 1967, adopted by supervisors today, call for salary increases for county employees to "restore or retain" the county's competitive position for hiring in all classes.

The guidelines also call for "harsh" judgment of new proposals and programs, reduction of service and supply budgets, and study of a comprehensive bonding program to be proposed for capital projects.

The guidelines were prepared by county administrator Alan Bruce. He will begin meeting with department heads on the coming budget Friday.

Two Found In Home Vault Off Balcony

Two Mill Valley men jumped 25 feet off a balcony last night in Sausalito after an apparent burglary attempt at 532 Sausalito Boulevard.

Police said they managed to get themselves to Marin General Hospital, where they were apprehended by officers and booked on burglary charges.

John Lem, 19, of 12 Eagle Rock Road, remained in the hospital today with a back injury. Brian Baeszler, 18, of 2 Lehman Lane, was in county jail.

David Hunter, 57, a teacher, told police he returned home at 8:25 p.m. and, while still outside, heard voices in his home. He opened the door and found Lem and Baeszler inside. They ran to the kitchen, threw open the door to the balcony, and jumped over the railing, a drop to the ground of 20 to 25 feet.

Overseas Students Position Clarified

Mrs. C. Fosberg Hughes is Northern California chairman of Youth for Understanding, and is not associated with the American Field Service, as reported yesterday in the Independent-Journal.

The story dealt with Sir Francis Drake High School student Geja Barens, who returned to Holland because of homesickness.

Hearing Set For Suspect In Stabbing

A San Quentin stabbing suspect was tentatively scheduled today to appear before the prison's disciplinary committee for a hearing next Tuesday, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The man, accused of the stabbing Saturday of Harry S. Luckett, 39, convicted forger, was found yesterday during an investigation by prison authorities. Park today still would not reveal the suspect's name.

He said the man had been locked up in the prison's maximum security adjustment center, awaiting the hearing.

Group Teaching Idea Explained

Fifty persons attended a meeting of the Mill Valley School District Board last night at which Mrs. Miriam Swett described "flexible grouping" of pupils and use of team teaching techniques at the Fairmont School in San Mateo County's Laguna Solada District, of which she is principal.

Mrs. Swett showed pictures of classroom wings which accommodate five class groups in an area the size of seven regular classrooms. The wings are carpeted, acoustically treated, and virtually free of walls.

Trustees considered letters from Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baumgarten and Naphtali Knox regarding the proposed building program in Mill Valley, both stressing the need for clear statements of educational objectives and employment of a consultant to help the board devise a bond proposal. Other letters were read which also urged the need for a consultant.

Further discussion on the subject will be held after study groups meet Saturday at Park School. The meeting will be a joint study session of various groups involved in the building program, and will run from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Dr. Earl C. Kelley will speak to the Mill Valley Teachers Assn. at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow and again at 8 p.m., both times at Edna Maquire School, on questions facing the Mill Valley district. Kelley is an author, lecturer and professor of education. These two appearances were announced in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly, saying Kelley was to appear at Edna Maguire School yesterday.

SAVE MY BABY!

Woman Saves Boy Choking On Candy

Athens Getas, a teacher's aide for a class for the mentally retarded, was eating lunch at home yesterday when she heard a woman scream, "My baby! Save my baby!"

She hurried from her apartment at 420 Canal Street, San Rafael, to find 18-month-old Robert Jones lying unconscious in a car outside. Two men were standing nearby, but did not seem to know what to do. Mrs. Getas started to give mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Then someone mentioned the child had choked on a piece of candy.

"All I did is take the baby and turn him upside down," Mrs. Getas recalled today. "I said, 'God forbid' and slapped him on his back. That was all there was to it."

She walked away after being thanked by the child's mother, Mrs. Wanda Jones of 9 Walter Place, Los Ranchitos. Moments later Mrs. Jones realized she had not learned the name of the good Samaritan.

Neighbors today revealed who the woman was, but Mrs. Getas was unimpressed with what she had done. She had not even mentioned it at work.

"I work with these quiet children," she said, "and sometimes you have to keep calm and level headed. It was just a matter of being level headed without getting excited." She works at a kindergarten class operated by the county at 71 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia.

Mrs. Jones said she had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dalton of 400 Canal Street.

When the child started to choke on a lemon drop Mrs. Dalton ran to her apartment to phone for help, but forgot her keys and could not get into the apartment. She ran to find a telephone.

Mrs. Getas said the boy was unconscious when she arrived.

A telephone was finally found, and firemen arrived within a few minutes, but by then the boy had recovered and Mrs. Getas had disappeared.

Police Set North State Pistol Shoot

More than 300 law enforcement officers from throughout Northern California will shoot it out—at targets—in San Rafael on Feb. 5 and 6.

The competition will be in pistol shooting. It is called the H.O. Peters Memorial Winter Championship in memory of the man who for many years trained Marin law officers in handling firearms, and who established the San Rafael police pistol range.

In the past, the competition has been only for Marin officers, said Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa; but this year it has been opened up for all of Northern California. There will also be civilian competition, separate from that for the lawmen, he said.

Because of the many shooters, the two firing ranges near Francisco Boulevard which are used regularly by Marin officers will not be sufficient, Chiesa and Sgt. Raymond Bleasdale told the San Rafael City Council last night. They asked the council to authorize the city public works department to ready two more ranges. The council agreed.

Tiburon Thief Hits Restaurant

Atterbury told sheriff's deputies the restaurant at 2000 Paradise Drive was entered between 12:15 and 9 a.m. by breaking open the kitchen door. The establishment is closed during those hours.

He said two cash registers were opened, but the thief got less than $20 in loot.

Marin Inmate Escapes From Napa Hospital

A Marin County jail inmate, transferred to Napa State Hospital last Friday for psychiatric observation, has escaped the hospital, sheriff's officers were notified today.

Deputies said Blaine J. Walters, 19, of 345 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was missing from the institution about midnight. Other details were not learned.

Walters was sent to the hospital because he had cut his left forearm with half a razor last Wednesday, requiring treatment at San Rafael General Hospital, and refused to eat following his return to jail, officers said.

He has also been charged with destruction of jail property in an earlier apparent escape try, and with battery last Jan. 4 of a cellmate, James John McElhinney, 43. Four other inmates are also charged in that assault.

Valley Gas Line Given Reprieve

San Geronimo Valley Assn. has been given an extra six months by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to come up with the 640 signatures necessary before natural gas lines are brought into the area.

Jean A. Bevans, president of the association, said today he had heard from PG&E that the company was willing to extend the deadline from last Dec. 15 to June 1, subject to the approval of the California Public Utilities Commission.

Bevans said so far 461 residents have signed the petition for service and 298 of them have paid the $50 deposit to PG&E.

Silberberg Assessment Is Reduced

Marin County supervisors, sitting as the Marin County Board of Equalization, today granted a reduction in assessed valuation of $2,570 on 47 acres near Mill Valley, but the owners' representative was still not happy.

The equalization hearing was opened on court order to consider valuation of land owned by Sara Hilarita Boyle Silberberg, Carmelita Boyle Silberberg and Ida Boyle Gross.

In their suit for a rehearing, they claimed the county assessor did not know the City of Mill Valley's master plan on the area would restrict density.

After four hearings and an inspection of the site by Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, the board agreed to cut assessed value from $32,430 to $29,860. Mervyn Silberberg, speaking for the owners, argued the value was still not realistic.

San Rafael Police Cite Boy In Theft

A 15-year-old Redwood High School student from Corte Madera was cited by San Rafael police yesterday for the Nov. 26 burglary of the Patio Fountain, 711 D Street, San Rafael.

Police said the youth admitted the theft of four cartons of cigarettes, $2.50 from the cigarette machine, candy, two pounds of ham, five pounds of cheese, and two loaves of bread.

Plea Scheduled For Burglary Suspect

Samuel Wesley James, 43, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of burglary of Lafargue Laundry and Dry Cleaners, San Rafael, and his case was continued to this afternoon for plea entry.

James, an ex-convict residing at 1333 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was arrested inside the laundry at 1110 Third Street by San Rafael police Sunday. Officers said a rear door had been forced.

Dias Ranch Master Plan Is Approved

Master plan for the Dias Ranch, 170 acres west of Mill Valley, was approved by the Marin County Planning Commission allowing developer Alfred J. Stern's requested density of 3.41 dwelling units per acre.

This housing density will permit a total of 581 units, many of which will be clustered duplexes and townhouses near the top of the ridge that dominates the property.

David Van Pelt of the county planning staff recommended application of the slope policy set in the Tamalpais Valley Master Plan which covers a portion of the property. This would have allowed 1.52 units per acre, or a total of 259 units. Van Pelt suggested a 15 per cent bonus for the quality of the plan, which would increase the number of dwellings to 298.

Philip Buskirk of the Warren Callister architectural firm, designers of the plan, argued at length against the lower density, saying the number of bedrooms per unit is a factor in figuring population, and population determines the demands for service in an area—not number of units. The units in the Dias ranch would generally be small with one or two bedrooms.

The commission voted 6-0 in favor of the plan as presented. Commissioner Harry H. Heifetz was absent.

Supervisors are to receive the commission's recommendation a week from today, at which time they will schedule a public hearing.

Apartments Proposal Approved

The Marin County Planning Commission, after much discussion and an inspection of site during the noon recess, yesterday approved eight apartment units asked by Loyal Davis at 548 Miller Avenue near Mill Valley.

The vote was 3-2, with commissioners Hugh Dougherty and Felix M. Warburg dissenting. Commissioner Margaret Azevedo abstained because she missed the discussion earlier in the day, and Commissioner Harry H. Heifetz was absent.

The action brought to a close a debate that has flared off and on before the commission for almost a year. It followed denial by both the planning commission and board of supervisors of 12 units on the property.

Davis and his attorney, Julius Selinger, said $30,000 had already been invested in retaining walls and foundations for the eight-unit building. This was prior to a stop-work order issued last spring.

Senator To Talk On Conservation

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Monterey, will be guest speaker at the 1966 Conservation Dinner Feb. 26 at the Marin Rod and Gun Club, Point San Quentin, sponsored by the Marin Conservation Council.

At the dinner, awards will be made to persons and organizations found to have done the most to protect and develop natural and recreational resources in Marin.

Those to receive awards will be chosen by a panel consisting of Judge Leonard A. Thomas of the Marin Municipal Court, chairman Felix M. Warburg of the County Planning Commission, and chairman Gibbs Lawson of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Outstanding

Helen K. Koller of Woodacre has been awarded an outstanding performance certificate by the Department of the Army for her work as secretary in the office of the Sixth Army Staff Judge Advocate at the Presidio of San Francisco in 1964-65.

WEDDING BELLS SPELL BLISS

Comedian George Burns kisses his new daughter-in-law, the former Peggy Lyons, after the wedding uniting her and son Ronnie Burns Saturday in the Bel Air Hotel near Los Angeles. It was a quiet family ceremony. The younger Burns is acting and also producing movies and television shows. The elder burns was star of the "Wendy and Me" show. (UPI Telephoto)

Mark Moore was elected vice president, defeating Diane Paul.

Elected without opposition were: Vivian Morse, secretary; Diane Castaldi, treasurer; Barbara Jones, commissioner of student activities; John Musser, commissioner of athletics; John Dolinsek, commissioner of justice; Sherri Dunphy, commissioner of public relations, and Sue Spencer, commissioner of spirit, and Sue Yates, re-elected commissioner of inter-school affairs.

INDIANAPOLIS Ind. (AP)—With the scenery full of Hermits, Beatles, Rolling Stones and the like, it isn't easy for a new musical group to find a distinctive name.

A North Central High School six-piece band, with a girl vocalist, did it, though.

They call it, "Six and the Single Girl."

TELEVISION REVIEW

Batman's Publicity Better Than Scripts

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Publicity men and woman are a much put upon lot. Frequently they are better educated, more honest and finer social companions than the stars and producers they must work for. If anything happens, they must take the blame but little credit. So it seems only fair to give some credit where it is due. I am talking today about ABC-TV's new "Batman" series.

There is no question that, for all its shortcomings, "Batman" is the most talked about new series of the television season. And there is no question that this was accomplished primarily because of the imaginative promotion and publicity campaign behind it. At the moment, the status of the series is like that of a balloon sitting atop a pinhead. Precariously inflated, full of nothing—prominent only because somebody managed to blow it up.

While the producers of "Batman" have taken a fence-sitting, half-hip, half-straight adventure approach to satisfy both adults and children in the audience, only the publicity campaign has struck precisely the right note in its approach—and one wonders whether the show might not be better if the writer of the press releases had written the scripts as well. The full contents of one release, for instance, read as follows: "Jill St. John acts like a brazen hussy Jan. 12. Batman knows how to deal with her kind."

Another press release, for last week's episodes, read like this: "Quiz: In the event Batman can't get past 'The Riddler' this Wednesday and Thursday, what will ABC-TV broadcast next week? (A) An interlude of recorded music . . (B) Potemkin . . . (C) An armed forces training film . . . (D) Highlights from memorable weathercasts of 1957."

The irony of the whole "Batman" campaign, however, is that its success only emphasized the reason why it is really extraordinarily difficult for the series to be "hip." The idea of the show, we are told incessantly, is that it is a put-on. Yet for a put-on to be successful, it is essential for the target of the put-on to be innocent (at first) of the fact that he is being put on. Otherwise, it is like listening to the fellow who precedes a joke by saying, "This is the funniest story you've ever heard. It'll kill you." End of joke. Likewise, end of put-on.

It should also be understood why, in part, ABC-TV is trying with "Batman" to cash in hard on the pop art-high camp-hipster fad:

The network, unlike CBS-TV (which has Lucille Ball, Andy Griffith, Dick Van Dyke and many top names), has few major stars, the staples who carry shows and broadcasting organizations year after year. It must therefore try to take new directions and hit a hot fad. A year ago it had "Shindig," a prominent rock 'n' roll series, and now that show isn't even on the air any more. "Peyton Place" and its notion of night time soap opera also gave ABC-TV a hot streak for while, but no more. Stars stay, but trends and fads pass, sometimes very quickly, and this is the situation "Batman" faces unless it goes for straight kiddie stuff after taking pseudo-intellectuals for a ride.

The Channel Swim: "Golf with Sam Snead," a series of 13 half-hour lessons by the famous professional, begins on NBC-TV March 26 . . . "Sixteen in Webster Groves," a one-hour documentary examining the knowledge, aspirations and ideals of 16-year-olds in Webster Groves, Mo., airs on CBS-TV Feb. 8, using a survey by University of Chicago social scientists as a base, and described by the network as trying to give a representative look at youngsters in "well-to-do" suburbs mushrooming all over the country."

ABC-TV's fourth fiction special based on the work of the United Nations, "The Poppy is Also a Flower," drawn from a story by the late Ian Fleming about an international narcotics ring, will be presented April 22, with those taking part including Princess Grace of Monaco, Marcello Mastroianni, Yul Brynner, Rita Hayworth and Omar Sharif .

Crippled Mantle May Switch To First

Mantle arrived here yesterday for three days of examination, tests and possible treatment of his shoulder and legs, which hampered his outfield play greatly in 1965.

The shoulder is Mantle's biggest worry. He has played on painful legs much of his 15-year American League career.

"It doesn't pain me," he said of the shoulder, "but I can hardly lift it. I can't put anything on a throw."

The Mayo examination apparently will determine whether surgery can alleviate the shoulder trouble, or if it is just a symptom of age. Mantle was 34 last Oct. 20.

Because of the shoulder, the Yankees may try to convert the great outfielder into a first baseman, a position Mantle has been reluctant to assume in the past. Now, however, he admits he's giving it some serious thought

"I've never tried first base," he said, "but if I can't throw and they want me to try it, I'll give it a try."

Such a move would send Joe Pepitone to the outfield, a position he has played for the Yankees.

Mantle had been doubtful about playing at all next season after the woes he experienced last year. But he said Yankee Geenral Manager Ralph Houk has persuaded him not to quit baseball, and that he will play in 1966 if he is physically able.

"I guess my chat with Houk eased my mind," Mantle said. "They want me, and I'd like to play if I can."

Mantle said that running and playing golf have kept his legs in good condition, but that he has done no throwing in his conditioning program because of the soreness in the shoulder.

Mantle blamed injuries for the Yankees' tumble from pennant winner in 1964 to sixth place in the American League in 1965 and warned:

"Don't count out the Yankees. A lot of people think we're through because we finished sixth last year. We had injury problems last year. Believe me, the Yankees won't finish sixth again. They'll be back in contention."

Looking to the '66 American League race, Mantle added:

"Four or five clubs could win the pennant this year, but the Minnesota Twins are the defending champions. It looks like they're the club to beat. They won it last year, and I don't see them getting any weaker."

EX-HAMILTON BOXER TO TURN PRO FEB. 10

McCoy, 24, won 160 of 163 fights in an amateur career that included many bouts while he served four years in the Air Force.

Promoter Jimmy Conseza, in making the announcement yesterday, said McCoy has received special Permission from the California Athletic Commission to go 10 rounds in his pro debut.

Jackson's pro record is 9-4-4.

JIM MURRAY

The Last Of The Great Coin-Biters

Whenever you get out-slickered in a business deal, the first thing to say is, "I'll take this to the highest court in the land! I'll fight this all the way to Washington, I don't car who get hurt!"

It is usually uttered by some guy in high-button shoes standing there with the deed to the Brooklyn Bridge or a nice shiny gold brick in his hands or a handkerchief that used to hold his life savings and now holds a lot of old newspaper clippings. Once in a while, it's just a guy who found out he bought four acres of Florida alligators and he's not going to need a car to come home at night, he's going to need an oar and an anchor.

HE HAD it there just a minute ago; so George didn't panic. He looked under the bed, pulled out all the dresser drawers, finally got a lantern, notified the Missing Persons Bureau and started to drag the lake. He instructed his staff to be on the lookout for ransom notes, roared "Get me J. Edgar Hoover! Get me the FBI!"

As time went on, it became increasingly clear that young George Allen had indeed been whisked out of his baby carriage or at his home bedroom and had not gotten lost in the Merchandise Mart or run away with the circus or joined the Navy.

IT WAS then that Halas remembered the soft-spoken, well-dressed young stranger who had requested his permission to speak to Asst. Coach George Allen only a few days before. "What was that young fella's name—the owner of the Rams?" roared George. "I think you'll find his card in my upper right-hand pocket. What was it? Reeves? Yes, that was it, Daniel F. Reeves."

George, of course, thought Dan Reeves wanted to talk to young George Allen to see if he had read any good books lately, or what he thought of the situatiton in Southeast Asia, or where he stood on capital punishment.

TURNED OUT the blackleg scoundrel wanted to discuss wages, hours and working conditions. That vagrant suspicion never crossed George's mind. He was apoplectic. I mean, dammit! Was nothing sacred?

George flew to the last refuge of the wronged American, the courts of the land. They put him on the calendar right between the widow who had deeded over her house to the handsome stranger who turned out to be already married and the guy who just bought a half-interest—and a half a map—in a sunken treasure ship from a man who had just left town with no forwarding address.

TO UNDERSTAND why he would seek redress in law, you have to understand George A. Halas, a man I once described, accurately enough as I come to think of it, as "the last of the great coin-biters."

Reconstructing the Great Coach Robbery, it seems clear enough what happened. George gave Dan Reeves permission to "talk" to his indispensible coach, Allen, because he did not want to be put in the position of the father whose kid said, "Why can't I go out in the sun and play like the other kids?" And the father answered, "Shut up and deal."

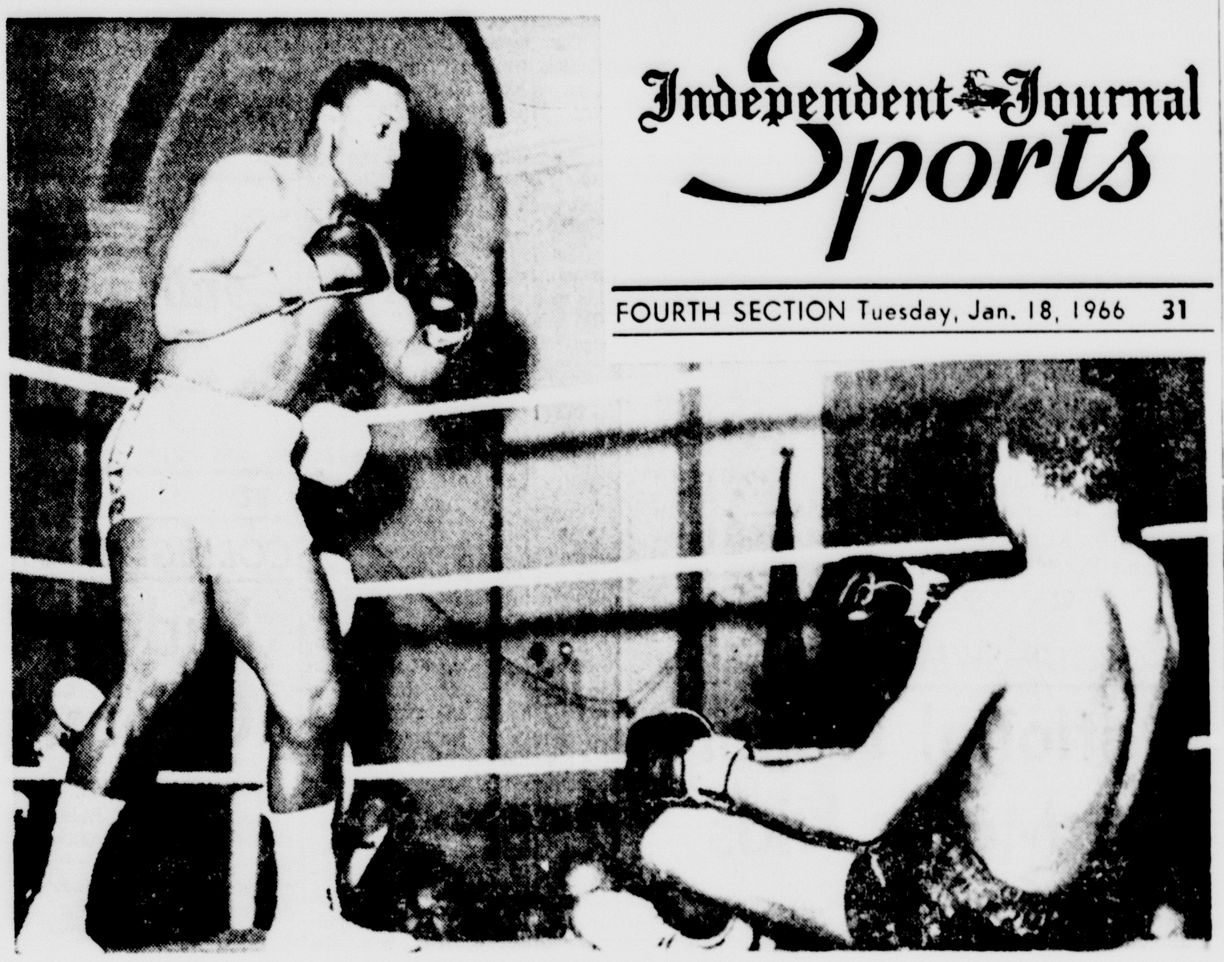
ASSISTANT COACHES, you see, are the great anonymities of our day. Waiters are celebrities by comparison. But George had no intention of letting George Allen go. He just didn't want George Allen to know that. For one thing, he pays George Allen $19,000 a year. Now, I don't know about you, but I wouldn't have to take too much of a tuck in my belt to live on that. As assistant coaches' salaries go, I make it in the top ten.

George was sure Dan Reeves wanted Paul Brown—or Gov. Brown. Anyway, not George Allen. Just to be sure, however, he leaked the word he wanted George Allen right back in his comfortable rut as soon as he had his holiday on the Coast.

HALAS, YOU see, with some justification, considers pro football his personal invention. Also property. He doesn't like to lose games, money—or coaches. He doesn't even like to lose footballs. And when Paul Hornung threw one in the stands one day, he made him pay for it.

But George may get tackled in his own end zone this time. For one thing, he may open up a lot of nasty little law for his invention—the game of pro football—which is as illegal as polygamy in many cases, as far outside the Constitution as public whipping—or Baseball whose reserve clause is sometimes just that.

IT IS inconceivable that George thinks he can get two more years of first-rate coaching out of Allen with a gun at his head. It is also inconceivable that any judge can find any kernel of discernible law in the morass of professional athletic contracts. It is one time George should have punted. When you holler copper, you better hide your own dice, too.



ONE-PUNCH KNOCKOUT FOR FRAZIER

New Life For Coast Cage

Harris hit 47 points as the Indians threw the Pacific Eight race wide open with wins over Southern California and UCLA last weekend. Harris meshed 24 when Stanford downed the Bruins, 74-69, Saturday to halt their 36-game win string in conference play.

Coach Howie Dallmar of the Indians called Harris "a very dedicated ball player. He was very keyed up for the weekend games and the pressure didn't bother him at all."

Dallmar lamented the fact that the Bruin shocker had outshone his team's "fine effort" against the Trojans. But he beamed that the Stanford win over UCLA was "a tremendous win for Stanford, and equally important, it gave the league some life."

Dallmar also said "the Bruins are still the team to beat for the title," and he praised their poise in coming back from two 14-point deficits to almost down the hot-shooting Cards.

Cal's Rene Herrerias, whose Bears lost to the two Southern California invaders, said his team played its best game in losing to UCLA Friday. But then turned ice cold while losing to USC Saturday. Herrerias was especially pleased with the work of center Bruce Steckel, who came out of the hospital Thursday and starred against UCLA Friday.

Herrerias also praised Stanford's win over the Bruins and said "the fact that UCLA can be beaten will make every one happy up and down the coast. But a lot depends on where you're playing them."

There were no real upsets in the West Coast Athletic Conference, where University of San Francisco and University of Pacific dominate things with 3-0 records.

USF coach Pete Peletta praised soph Dennis Black for hitting 33 points as the Dons dumped Loyola and Pepperdine last weekend. Rumors are rife at the Hilltop that Peletta will quit after this season to concentrate on his duties as athletic director of USF's expanding sports program. Peletta, who has taken the Dons to a 104-47 record as coage coach, had "no comment" to questions about his future plans.

UOP publicist John Marks 2 week while the players take said coach Dick Edwards of the Tigers was most pleased with the play of guard Dave Fox, who hit 28 points and quarterbacked the offense in the Tigers' two victories last weekend.

Most of the Bay Area teams are staying off the court this 2week while the players take mid-terms. Santa Clara is an exception, going to Hawaii for a series of games there.

88 Survive Monte Carlo Auto Rally

MONTE CARLO (AP) — The remaining cars in the 35th Monte Carlo rally rolled in today from a grueling mountain test and prepared for another attack on mountain roads tonight.

Officials said that about 88 cars had apparently survived the run to Chambery and back, over icy roads. Originally 192 cars had begun the rally last Friday, roaring off from Lisbon, London, Bad Homburg, Reims, Oslo, Athens, Warsaw, Minsk and Monte Carlo itself.

After all the cars are in later today, the top 60 will be permitted to take part in the final trial, a rugged night run, again through the mountains. The winner will be announced Wednesday.

The early arrivals today included defending champion Timo Makinen of Finland, driving a BMC Cooper. Makinen told newsmen "it was not very tough. There was some ice, but not much snow. I think we've got a good time."

Peter Procter of Britain, in another Ford Cortina, said he was running on only three of his four cylinders and feared that his time would not be competitive.

Lotz Leading The Field In Crosby Qualifying

PEBBLE BEACH (AP) — Young John Lotz of Fremont, struggling to make his way on the professional golf circuit, topped a field of 90 trying for the last 11 openings on the entry list of the Big Crosby National Pro-Am tourney starting Thursday on three Monterey Peninsula courses.

The original list of 20 vacancies to be filled by qualifying was cut when other entrants, tied for last, were made available out of the San Diego Open.

Lotz shot 37-33—70 in the qualifying round yesterday. The 10 other qualifiers are: Wright Garrett, Albuquerque, N.M., 38-34—72; Manuel de la Torre, Milwaukee, Wis., 36-36—72; Jim Colbert, Kansas City, 38-34—72; Randy Petri, Austin, Tex., 37-36—73; John Cook, Jonesboro, Ark., 37-36—73; Pete Mazur, Smithtown, N.Y., 36-37—73; Jim Owen, Sterling, Ill., 36-39—75; Glenn Stuart, Grand Rapids, Mich., 37-38—75; Pat Schwab, West Orange, N.J., 35-40—75; Stan Thirsk, Overland Park, Kan., 37-38—75.

Clarke Smashes Aussie Record

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) —Ron Clarke broke the Australian 5,000-meter record today with a clocking of 13 minutes, 31.2 seconds. The Aussie's time was 8.4 seconds faster than the old record, set by Vladimir Kuts of Russia in the 1956 Olympics.

Gary Holdsworth equaled the Australian record of 10.3 for the 100-meter dash in the same meet.

GIANT ROOKIE ROSTER

Ex-Pitcher Looms As Hot Hitting Prospect For S.F.

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — As recently as the spring of 1964, Ollie Lee Brown was tagged with a "no prospect" sign on him by San Francisco sleuths but today he is regarded as the hottest young hitting prospect in the Giant organization.

Brown was signed out of high school in Long Beach, Calif., in June, 1962, as a pitcher. After walking 132 in 123 innings and setting a Class D record with 24 wild pitches while posting a 9-8 record with Decatur, it was no wonder that the Giants gave up all thoughts that he'd ever make a big league pitcher.

But the big kid had shown ability to hit the long ball. As a matter of fact, he'd hit two home runs in his no-hit, no-run performance against Wisconsin Rapids. In that gem, he walked 11 and struck out 12. So Bill Werle, his manager at Fresno in 1964, reuested permission from Carl Hubbell, San Francisco farm director, to make the switch from the mound to the outfield.

SLOW START

After a slow start at the plate, Ollie began to make contact with the ball with increasing frequency. At the end of the California League season, he owned a .329 batting average with 40 home runs and 133 runs batted in.

But every time Ollie went after a fly ball, it turned out to be an adventure and the Giants didn't even bother to protect him in the draft in the winter of 1964. Luckily for the Giants, the other clubs shared their opinion of this Tuscaloosa, Ala., born youngster.

Promoted to Tacoma, Brown came into his own last season. He not only learned to catch fly balls more often than not, but he walloped 27 home runs and drove in 81 runs on a .293 batting average in the Pacific Coast League. He also displayed a tremendous throwing arm and good speed for a 6-foot-3 converted pitcher.

Brown will share the spring training spotlight with another young outfield prospect, 19-year-old Bobby Bonds, who already is drawing comparisons with Mays. Max Lanier, who managed the kid at Lexington in the Western Carolina League last year, predicts Bobby can't miss making the majors some day.

Bonds obviously is a couple of years away but he certainly bears watching. He batted .323 in 119 games, hammered 25 home runs and stole 33 bases.

"Bobby was the outstanding player in the league," said Lanier, the old National League southpaw star. "He can hit, possesses amazing speed and has a good arm. He is as good a prospect as I've ever seen."

Possibly the best bet to make the Giant varsity this year is Bob Barton, a 24-year-old catcher, who had his best season last year, batting .291 at Atlanta. A big fellow, Barton is an excellent receiver and hits with authority.

The rookie pitchers with the best chance appear to be Al Stanek and Dick Estelle, largely because they are left-handed and the Giants are in need of southpaw pitching.

Stanek, 22, had a so-so 8-10 season at Tacoma but he came on fast toward the end of the season. Estelle, 7-12 at Tacoma, throws a real good curve but must sharpen his control. Giant officials feel if he can throw a strike with that curve, he could win a starting berth.

LACK EXPERIENCE

Joe Overton, a 25-year-old right-hander, turned in a 14-10 record at Tacoma. Mike Davison and Tom Stewart, a pair of 20-year-old southpaws, can throw hard but lack experience. Davison was 9-13 with a 2.84 ERA at Springfield and Stewart was 8-8 and 3.10 at Decatur.

It is doubtful if any of the new infielders will make it. Bob Holbert, a 19-year-old shortstop, who received a reported $150,000 bonus in 1964, had a good year at Fresno, hitting .291, but he probably needs another year or two.

Bob Etheridge, a 23-year-old third baseman, also appears to be an exceptional prospect, but needs to play more in the minors. He displayed power at Fresno, hitting .329 with 10 home runs and 107 runs batted in.

Mystery Witness In Rams-Bears 'Tampering' Case

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears' breach of contract suit against assistant coach George Allen isn't exactly a "who done it?" but the case takes on a fictional aspect today with the rumor of a "mystery witness."

The "mystery witness" is expected to be none other than George Halas, the 70-year-old owner-coach of the Bears who is seeking to have Allen fulfill his Bear contract and keep him from accepting the head coaching job with the Los Angeles Rams.

Allen signed a three-year contract at $19,000 a year with the Bears June 22, 1965. Last week Allen verbally accepted the Ram head coaching job at a reported $40,000 a year.

Halas immediately charged the Rams with "tampering" and filed suit.

The case began last Wednesday in Circuit Court when Allen testified he assumed he had verbal permission from Halas to try to get the Ram job. Allen's attorney, Albert E. Jenner, told the court Halas "welched after giving Allen permission to negotiate for the Rams' job which he (Halas) did not think Allen could get."

After Allen told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington he thought the breach of contract suit against him should be turned over to National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle, the case was continued until today.

MORE INTRIGUE

Rozelle added some intrigue to the plot. Originally Rozelle said he would not enter the fracas and hoped it could be resolved between the two clubs adding "it has been traditional in the NFL and throughout sports that assistant coaches be permitted to take advantage of opportunity for advancement.

"On the basis of this historical precedence, in fact as it is now known, this office finds no cause at this time to interfere with the Los Angeles' Rams signing of George Allen as head coach."

Since then, however, Rozelle announced in New York that he would hold a hearing on the matter at the request of the Rams.

Rozelle, who has final jurisdiction on disputes between NFL clubs, said the hearing would be in New York at a time mutually agreed upon.

There has been no indication that Judge Harrington will hand down an immediate decision after hearing the Bears' side of the story today although Jenner is expected to press for an early ruling.

Allen contends a delay in handing down a ruling will handicap him in assembling a competent staff of assistants at Los Angeles and might even force the Rams to seek another head coach.

SAYERS NAMED PRO ATHLETE OF DECEMBER

NEW YORK (AP) — Halfback Gale Sayers, the Chicago Bears' rookie flash, was named today as winner of the December award in the Hickok pro athlete of the year competition.

National Football League stars ran 1-2-3 in the December voting among sports writers and broadcasters, with fullback Jim Taylor and halfback Paul Hornung of the champion Green Bay Packers second and third.

Black Hawks Dominate All-League

NEW YORK (AP) — Three members of the Chicago Black Hawks, including Bobby Hull, the goalscoring leader, have been named to The Associated Press' National Hockey League All-Star team for the opening half of the 1965-66 season.

Hull, who has 36 goals, was joined by teammates Glenn Hall, a goalie, and defenseman Pierre Pilote plus right winger Gordie Howe and center Norm Ullman of the Detroit Red Wings and defenseman Jacues Laperriere of the Montreal Canadiens.

Ullman, the circuit's leader with 42 goals last season, is the runner-up to Hull with 22 this year. The 37-year-old Howe is the NHL's career pace-setter with 611 goals, including 16 this season.

Goalie Roger Crozier, the shutout leader with six, and defenseman Doug Barkley of the Red Wings were among those selected for the second team. Others chosen were left winger Don Marshall and defenseman Harry Howell of the New York Rangers, center Stan Mikita of Chicago and right winger Bobby Rousseau of Montreal.

The circuit endorses a twice-a-season selection for its All-Star teams. An official vote by sports writers and broadcasters in each of the league's six cities is taken after the first half of the campaign and again after the end of the regular season. The first half ended Saturday.

The Toronto Maple Leafs placed three players on the third team. They were center Bob Pulford, defenseman Allan Stanley and left winger Frank Mahovlich. The others named were goalie Gump Worsley of Montreal, defenseman Matt Ravlich of Chicago and right winger Bob Nevin of the Rangers.

Auerbach To Call It Quits

BOSTON (AP) — National Basketball Assn. coaches can rest easily now with the knowledge they'll only have to win about 1,050 games to reach the top in coaching proficiency.

That means that even if the Celtics win every game from here on out, Auerbach will retire without winning 1,050 games.

The balding red head reached the 1,000th victory milestone last week and now is looking for 1,002.

The game's most successful coach, now 48, will continue in his role as general manager of the team he directed to nine consecutive Eastern Division championships and eight NBA titles.

Player procurement will be among his most important duties in the struggle to keep the Celtics' basketball empire from crumbling. He said he was dissatisfied with the team's scouting operation and wants "to look over some of these top draft choices more closely himself."

Since Auerbach has contemplated getting out of the coaching ranks for some time, he obviously has been looking for a successor. He shed no light on the possible successor yesterday except that he was able to eliminate some of those that were previously mentioned.

He said he had been turned down by Frank Ramsey, the former Kentucky ace who went on to become "the best sixth man in basketball" with the Celtics.

Ramsey had been a protege of Auerbach's and often filled in when the busy coach was absent. But Ramsey declined to consider the job on a permant basis although volunteering his services for any job on a short-term stand.

Auerbach also eliminated former basketball great Bob Cousy, saying the current Boston College coach is "having troubles enough emotionally with a 24-game college schedule to even think about the rugged pro schedule."

Red made it clear he wants a man who knows the professional game well, either as a player or as a coach. It's also clear he would like a man who knows basketball Auerbach style.

"I need someone I can work with year after year," he said.

Auerbach talked about retiring for more than a year before finally making it official. Last week he said the goal of 1,000 victories had been an important factor in his coaching this season. Now that factor has been eliminated.

"But then the time comes when you must know this is it," he said. "This has to be my last year. I could probably keep doing it, but I won't."

AFL Investigates Tampering Charge

By MIKE RATHET

HOUSTON (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss has withheld approval of the disputed trade involving San Diego's Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison while he investigates tampering charges — and at the same time has pointedly squashed rumors of his removal as head of the American Football League.

Foss, in holding up the transaction that sent the two mammoth defensive linemen to Houston in a five-player trade, climaxed a day in which he reaffirmed his position verbally and then backed it without comment by employing his powers as commissioner.

Asked yesterday afternoon about the rumors that the owners were looking to buy up his contract, Foss said:

"I am still on duty and will be tomorrow and the next day and the next day."

Some eight hours later, at the conclusion of two lengthy sessions at the AFL meetings, Foss announced his decision to hold up the deal that sent Ladd and Faison to Houston for linebacker Johnny Baker, defensive end Gary Cutsinger and defensive back Pete Jaquess.

Foss refused to make any comments on his decision but did issue this statement:

"Pending a through investigation of the charges of tampering, I am withholding approval of the trade. I am also advising all parties concerned that I will not tolerate the trying of the case in the press by any of the representatives of the Houston Oilers or San Diego Chargers or the personnel of any other club in the AFL, players included."

POWER TO FINE

Although Foss refused to say anything further about the case, he did reveal that he had the power to fine an owner up to $2,000 — and up to $25,000 with the approval of the league's executive committee. The executive committee is made up of the AFL's nine club owners.

The five-player trade, announced Saturday by the Oilers, was immediately greeted by a verbal blast from Sid Gillman, the San Diego coach and general manager. Gillman criticized Houston owner Bud Adams for issuing inflammatory monetary statements and thus "weakening the Chargers' bargaining position."

"When an owner makes a statement to the press that he is interested in such-and-such a player and will give a certain amount of money, that's tampering," said Gillman.

Gillman's comment apparently referred to a statement by Adams that he would trade three players plus $100,000 for Ladd alone.

The uproar caused by Foss' announcement overshadowed other developments at the meetings. Little business was transacted by the owners, who were in session with Foss, but Oakland and Denver completed a trade and Miami completed the first round of its expansion draft.

The Raiders sent Arch Matsos, a three-time All-League linebacker, to the Broncos for Hewritt Dixon, a tight end who will be converted into a fullback.

MIAMI DRAFT

The new Dolphins, meanwhile, selected 16 of the 32 players they will receive under the AFL's stocking formula and wound up with 14p layers who had been starters at times last season for their respective clubs. Among the players the Dolphins picked were Buffalo flanker Bo Roberson, the Bills' leading receiver last season, and Boston guard Billy Neighbors, an All-AFL selection in 1964.

The Bills still owe Oakland a player for Roberson, who at 29 is the oldest player picked by the Miami club.

The draft went so well for the Dolphins that Joe Thomas, director of player personnel, said, "We have already been approached by a couple of teams about some of the players we picked."

The players selected by the Dolphins were:

Buffalo—Roberson, fullback Billy Joe.

Boston—Neighbors, quarterback Eddie Wilson.

Houston—Tackle Norman Evans, center Tom Goode.

San Diego—tight end Dave Kocourek, tackle Ernie Park.

Oakland—guard Rich Zecher, quarterback Dick Wood.

Evans, Zecher, McGeever and Dotson had not been named officially but it was learned by The Associated Press that they would be selected today.

STEVENS

An acquaintance of mine, and a dedicated duck hunter, is the father of twin boys now 14 years of age. He bought each of the lads a shotgun for Christmas, and bewails the fact that he must wait until next duck season to take his boys hunting with him. "It's too darned bad the boys won't be able to use the guns for a long time yet," he said.

But they can if they are qualified. The black sea brant, a small aquatic goose, is still fair prey for local nimrods and will be until Feb. 15. "What do you mean 'if they are qualified?' he asked.

"IF THEY have completed a course on gun safety, and have a certificate to prove it," I told him. He insisted that he would personally teach the boys the basic principles of safe shooting. I explained that it isn't done that way. Anyone under 19 years of age MUST have a certitficate before a license will be issued to them.

And that brings to mind a recent letter from Kevin Johnson who is a certified instructor for Hunter Safety Course in Hayward. I quote from the letter: "On January 12, 1966, the V-Ringers of Hayward Junior Rifle School held graduation exercises at Sunset High School for 20 members of its latest class. As you know, this school issues Hunter Safety Certificates and NRA basic rifle certitficates. This class brings the total number of graduates to nearly 2,400 over the past eight years. Mr. Ralph Paulk, chief instructor, has announced that a new class will begin with registration on Jan. 19."

I SUGGEST to all my readers who are interested in a Hunter Safety Course or an N.R.A. rifle certificate inquire at a local store where firearms are sold about whom to contact for information regarding the nearest certified instructor, and when and where the instructiton may be had. (It is not necessary for the young student to own a rifle to participate.)

The course lasts for eight weeks at the Sunset High, and the same length in Marin and Sonoma counties.

CHANGING THE subject from guns to rods and reels, a few steelhead have been landed in the north coast streams, but no real runs have been reported. Talking with Jack McCurley of Point Arena on Sunday, (Jack is a retired game warden for that district) I learned that the Garcia, usually one of the first coast streams to return to normal after a fall of rain, is still muddy, but should clear along with most other streams by Wednesday. If the weather remains dry until tomorrow, all streams both north and south of the Golden Gate should become prime.

AGE-GROUP SWIMMING

National Honors For Marin Kids

Ten Marin County youngsters have received national recognition for outstanding times recorded during the past age group swimming season.

The Marin boys and girls took 8 first places, 7 seconds, 6 thirds, 8 fourths and 4 fifth, including three national records. The Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) compiled and released the five best swimming times that were made nationwide on various courses, at various distances, in various strokes in both age group and Junior Olympic competition.

San Rafael Swim Club's 10 and under girls relay teams, composed of JoAnn Hislop, Kim Knudsen, Cookie Arrighi, Katie Parnow and Linda Nederman, gained national recognition no less than six times in age group competition and three times in Junior Olympic events.

They dominated in both freestyle and medley relays, with six firsts, two seconds, and a fourth best time. While splashing to their triumphs, they established national records in the 160-yard medley relay (1:51.4), and the 160-yard freestyle relay (1:37.6).

Individually, Robin Bachrach of the Marin Pirates set a new national Junior Olympic record in the 10 and under 50-yard butterfly (31.5) while scoring eight times in age group competition and twice in Junior Olympic events.

Individual performances:

New Young First Sacker For Cards 'On The Spot'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — George Kernek himself put it best: "Man," he said, "I'm in a heck of a spot."

Kernek, who has just turned 26, is in one of the toughest spots in the major leagues as his St. Louis Cardinals prepare for spring training.

He is being counted upon to take over first base vacated when the Cardinals traded veteran Bill White to the Philadelphia Phillies.

George Kernek has a lot of things going for him — an Oklahoma drawl, a friendly manner and fresh coat of confidence.

But a few questions bring out the fact that he is about as green a rookie as the Cardinals have placed big money on in some time.

"How many major league games have you started, George?"

"Eight, if you count one that was rained out."

"When you led the league in RBI at Jacksonville last year, where were you playing?"

"In the outfield."

"The outfield? How did you get to first base?"

"I used to play first base, and we had too many first basemen. I cover the bag pretty well."

The truth is that the rangy youngster from Holdenville, Okla., covers first base territory like a spider. It was his hitting that Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst was worried about, and George says he made great strides in the Redbirds' winter instructional camp in Florida.

"I think one of my biggest problems will be replacing Bill White in the hearts of the St. Louis fans," Kernek said. "He's really a great guy. When I came up at the end of last season, he gave me some good pointers."

Kernek, a lefty all the way, says he's a little worried about the longer right field fence at the new St. Louis stadium .The Cardinals will move into the new park in May.

But Kernek has had problems before and has overcome them. He was on a basketball scholarship at Oklahoma University when the Cardinals signed him in his junior year. He played for Tulsa, then bounced down to Class C at Winnipeg, Canada, then to another Class C team at Billings, Mont., where he learned to hit and came up with a .330 average.

Then he went back to Tulsa, to Jacksonville, to Tulsa, back to Jacksonville, and finally up to the Cardinals at the end of last season. That's a lot of bouncing for a 25-year-old, but he was impressive in a few appearances when White was injured.

Now he has the inside track to the regular job after hitting .295 at Jacksonville last year, and he says he's equal to the task.

"I'm sure they'll give me a chance, if I come along, and I think I'll come along."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Video Coaching Gimmicks Probed

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP — The NCAA Football Rules Committee has set up a subcommittee to study the use of closed circuit television and other video devices as coaching aides while a game is in progress.

Ivy Williamson, chairman of the full committee, said yesterday the subcommittee had not been given any definite date to report recommendations.

Williamson, athletic director at Wisconsin, named John Waldorf, supervisor of Big Eight Conference officials, to head the study group as the Rules Committee wound up a quiet three-day annual session.

The official collegiate rules body had decided earlier in its session that nothing would be done about changing the present substitution rules which permit two-platoon football. Frank Popejoy, University of New Mexico President, had urged its elimination because he said it cost more money for coaches and athletic scholarships.

Williamson said the committee felt a period of stabilization was needed but "this doesn't mean that some rules changes won't be indicated each year or that constant vigilance should not be exercised to be certain the best interests of the game are preserved."

The economic factors which the present sub rules "may bring to bear on the college game will be closely watched," Williamson told a news conference.

The economic factor brought about the look into the use of video coaching aids, said Williamson. "We want a thorough study of the use of such euipment with the objective of determining whether or not such use during the playing of a game is in the best interest. . .of football."

The rules body made a jersey numbering system mandatory for players ordinarily occupying the offensive positions of center, guard or tackle — to be numbered from 50 to 79 — and adopted other minor rules changes.

McCartan Okay To Work For Seals Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jack McCartan, the regular goal tender for the San Francisco Seals Western Hockey League team, missed practice yesterday because of an injury to his eye.

It required 17 stitches to close the wound.

Bud Poile, the Seals general manager, said McCartan was expected to take his regular turn against Portland when the teams meet Wednesday at the Cow Palace.

Rugged forward Ron Harris, who has been out of the lineup since Christmas day, probably will play against Portland on Wednesday. Harris suffered a hairline fracture in a game with the Buckaroos.

State Champion Spencer In Kezar Bout Tomorrow

At Las Vegas recently, Louis told newsmen he thought Spencer, within due time, would be challenging for the world's title.

Bay area fans will get their first glance at Thad in a Kezar fight when he clashes with clever Chuck Leslie, tomorrow night.

George Cooper, classy Oaklander, makes his pro debut on the same bill in a four rounder with Marco Spargo, also of Oakland. Cooper won last year's AAU middleweight championship at Toledo. He is managed by Allan Moore, who feels his young protege will soon become a main eventer.

Tomorrow's program starts at 8:30 p.m.

Bank Pays First Cash Dividend

Redwood National Bank, San Rafael, has paid its first cash dividend, president Byron W. Leydecker announced.

The dividend of 10 cents per share has been paid to stockholders of record Dec. 28, 1965 and was the result of record levels in earnings, deposits and gains in assets during the past year, he said.

Earnings were recently reported up more than 11 per cent from 1964, an increase of 50 cents per share after taxes.

Commonwealth Bank Tallies First Year

Stock Split Shows Strength Of Firm

By ANDREW BALDWIN

U. S. corporations have varied ways to demonstrate strength, from capital expansion to dividend increases, but the stock split is becoming one of the most popular.

In essence, most corporations that split their stocks do so in the hope of achieving greater marketability and wider distribution of their shares.

The practicability of such a move is obvious, since the current share price of some companies' stocks — had they not been split periodically — would be astronomical. Wtih the stock cheaper and more plentiful after the split, most companies find themselves with more stockholders.

The resulting widely scattered ownership gives more stability to the stock price and allows it to reflect the company's earnings performance more accurately. To the sharp eyes of brokers and bankers, any company with steadily rising earnings and a stock price ranging upward of, say, $75 per share is ripe for a split.

There is a more subtle psychological factor: people who might shy from a $160 stock, might buy it after a five-for-one split, because the split share's $32 is more to their liking.

What is in it for the investor?

While splits in themselves do not give a stockholder any more than he already has—a share worth $100 in a company that splits its stock five-for-one ends up as five shares worth $20 each—brokers and investors love them because they usually represent a management declaration of confidence that very often edges the stock price upward.

The stockholder is ahead if the dividend is increased and if investor interest is stimulated by the new low price—and the bigger yield.

The only time anyone cries over split stock is when it is a reverse split—one share exchanged for several that the stockholder holds. Very often this is regarded as a management effort to raise the market value by cutting the number of outstanding shares. But it often has the opposite effect. The public sees it as an admission that the price cannot be brought up in any other way and usually shuns such stocks.

A good time to be skeptical is when a stock selling at $10 to $20 splits. This smells of promotion, because there is really no reason to bring a stock down in price from these levels.

Earnings per share were $3.52, based on the average shares outstanding in 1965, compared with $3.18 in 1964. Total deposits at year-end were $2,813,385,434, compared with $2,734,792,520 at the end of 1964. Total loans rose to $2,059,278,890 from $1,784,524,696.

Nine new officers were established throughout the state in 1965 and two additional offices were acquired through a merger with two northern California banks, bringing the bank's total number of branches to 180.

In addition, the bank acquired Insurance Funds Mortgage Co. of Los Angeles, Marble Mortgage Co. of San Francisco, La Jolla and Pasadena, and Atlas Factors Co. of Los Angeles.

Campbell-Castro Is Expanding; Beth Levan Principal In Office

There is a move in store Feb. 1 for Campbell-Castro Leasing from its joint occupancy of 5880 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera with Campbell-Bishop Chevrolet.

Quarters here are now too crowded for this 18-month old business, thought to be the largest leasing company this side of the Golden Gate Bridge. It has expanded from its original staff of two to seven, and last year it leased about 500 automobiles of various makes. Manager John Brusati predicts the company will make over 1,000 leases from the 1966 model run.

New location will be 645 Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera—next to the Oriental-styled Bank of America branch in Stanford Terrace.

BETH LEVIN is now the sole principal in Regal Realty, 1405 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael—opposite the new City Hall under construction. She has on her staff Yelva Giannini and Louis H. Baskin.

Former associate Sally Gray has retired to Santa Rosa. Phyllis Steckel, one of the "three queens of Regal" as they were known when the office originally opened three years ago, left early last year to establish her own office on the Miracle Mile, San Anselmo.

EDWARD J. McINERNEY of Corte Madera has been appointed a vice president and trust officer at Crocker-Citizens National Bank's San Francisco trust office, in charge of agencies and custodianships. He joined the bank in 1933 and was assigned to the trust department; he has been a trust officer since 1963.

Mathews

HARRY S. MATHEWS III of Tiburon has been made assistant manager of the Bank of California's Oakland office. He joined the bank in 1963 after five years with a Pittsburgh, Pa. bank, advancing to assistant cashier that same year.

INTERESTING "boy-makes-good" operation is that of young Sausalito resident David Baldwin, 29, recently moved from Lafayette. He is president of the Leisure Lease Corp. in the Sheraton-Palace Hotel, San Francisco.

Fresh out of college, Baldwin was looking for a new type of business that would move him up in the world quickly—and hit on the idea of "second homes." He talked a few investors into putting up a two-million dollar stake and started building homes in the Sierras, which he rents out to people who want a part time retreat without a full time headache. Homes are completely furnished down to the last detail, including bedding and drinking glasses, and are located near Tahoe sports and entertainment areas.

His newest project is called High Sierra Club, in which homes are sold outright and then rented out when not used. He plans on extending this into a world-wide private club, taking in first the Hawaiian Islands, the Bahamas and France.

OPENING TOMORROW at 6 p.m. is the San Francisco International Sailboat Show—a five day exhibit at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. Hundreds of boats, including many imports from all over the world, will be on display, fully rigged. There will also be showings of marine equipment and accessories, along with daily films, lectures and seminars—all free and open to the public. Show hours are from noon to 10:30 p.m. daily through Sunday, Jan. 23.

Quick Way To Solve Obscene Book Issue

(An open letter)

Walter J. Doll, president,
San Rafael Board of Education

Dear Mr. Doll:

The San Rafael Board of Education has been faced recently with many complaints from parents about books assigned for reading at the high school level. These complaints seem to have centered primarily on the book "On the Road," by Jack Kerouac, which was assigned by a Terra Linda High School teacher for reading by his class.

Complainants have referred to "On the Road" as trashy, obscene, etc.

Members of the board of education have publicly indicated that they do not feel competent to judge whether the book is suitable for high school assigned reading.

The matter has been referred for study by a committee. According to a set of rules established by the board of education after an earlier book complaint, this committee is to be set up by the San Rafael schools superintendent, county schools superintendent, and English department faculties.

This cumbersome process seems scarcely designed to produce an answer soon enough to resolve the dispute before it balloons into completely unnecessary proportions. Moreover, the finding by any such committee is unlikely to be accepted by the public, since the committee's makeup renders it subject to suspicion of being self-serving for the protection of a professional colleague.

We would, therefore, like to suggest a quick, simple and democratic method of resolving the problem.

We suggest that "On the Road" or major unexpurgated portions thereof be read publicly at a meeting of the San Rafael Board of Education, with advance announcement when this will be done. All interested parents could then attend, hear, and vote on whether they wished this book to be assigned for reading by their children in high school.

Further, we suggest the teacher who assigned the book do the public reading. This would eliminate embarrassment for anybody who might be assigned to read matter in public which he felt distasteful. The teacher who assigned the book for his young students to read would, of course, feel no such embarrassment.

Ordinarily, we think high school-age youngsters should be encouraged to attend meetings of school boards and other public bodies. However, in this case, because of the nature of the complaint, it would seem appropriate to bar from the meeting, during reading of the book, all those under 21 years of age. This would also serve to limit voting, on whether the book should be assigned reading, to those of legal voting age.

Surely there could be no objection by the board of education, the school administration or the teachers to following the wishes of parents and taxpayers, as shown by such a poll, on whether the book should be retained for high school reading. If it were rejected, those parents who wish their children to read "On the Road" could, of course, encourage them to read it at home.

Drizzle Or Downpour?

Do you like the softness of a drizzle falling gently, like Shakespeare's quality of mercy? Almost as feminine as tears, it is not without its appeal.

We prefer a real gully-washer, where the rain drums on the roof and pounds on the doors and windows, as if demanding entrance. Snug inside our homes, Marin's winter storms threaten, but do us no harm, and give us a feeling that we have truly mastered the elements.

Whether drizzle or downpour, Marin's winter precipitation is a vital and sometimes enjoyable part of life in this lush county.

Demo Strategy Against Reagan Will Not Work With Electorate

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It's real easy to see what the Democratic strategy against the candidacy of Republican Ronald Reagan for governor will be this year, following a series of releases from the office of Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The theme song so far is that Reagan knows nothing about state government or the problems confronting the administration of California's highly costly fiscal affairs, or matters involving the economic life of its citizens.

This is not an unusual strategy. It has been used before, and although its effectiveness is debatable, the theory is that if you can say your opponent doesn't know anything often enough, eventually people might start believing the statement.

HOWEVER, voters are becoming more knowledgeable all the time, and are acquiring an attitude that has little use for juvenile attempts to disparage the qualifications or knowledge of opposing candidates for public office.

The electorate is realizing more and more that it isn't what the candidate knows about public office, but that the important item is whether or not he can administer the office once elected. And also, on what basis administration will be conducted.

Thus, despite the efforts of the Democratic strategists in the governor's office to create an atmosphere of superciliousness as far as the GOP is concerned, it is more than an even bet that voters won't buy this attitude but will weigh the real issues of the campaign rather than stand on nit-picking criticisms.

THE PEOPLE, before the campaign is over, perhaps will come to realize there are only a few real issues in the matter of whether a Democratic or Republican administration will guide the destinies of the state for the next four years.

To boil the issues down to real simplicity, the question is whether the people of the state, and the taxpayers in particular, can continue to afford a luxurious government devoted to the principle of giving away the public monies above and beyond the public need.

Whether the Republicans can correct this policy or not would remain to be seen after the voters decide whether or not the time has come for a change in administration, and whether they should apply the brakes to a period of fast spending which is unparalleled in the history of California.

THE RELEASES from Governor Brown's office following Reagan's announcement of candidacy without exception called attention to alleged errors the GOP candidate made in referring to specific matters of public administration, among them being the percentage of welfare recipients.

Salaries Should Be Put To Vote

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to make mention of your very fine editorial of the supervisors granting whatever salaries they see fit.

It's high time the taxpayers wake up and see that someone or some board should vote on the salary raises. No wonder so many people who want to move to Marin County can't do so. The cost of living here is prohibitive!

Tennessee Valley Unfit For Park

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Attention should be given to the incipient consideration by both school boards of a joint building program for Mill Valley's and Sausalito's kindergarten through eighth grade children on a possible 75-acre site on the Tennessee Valley Road.

As this road is the boundary between the two school districts, a cooperative educational park might be set up here, with each district buying its own land.

Drive out this road to the ranch area. The country is beautiful; the weather horrible; the road unspeakable. With the development of Marincello, the road would have to be improved, but would also be loaded with heavy construction equipment and other traffic.

Parents, picture seventy busloads of children transported out this road through the fog each morning, and back each afternoon. That is what it would require to take 4400 children (Mill Valley's 3500, Sausalito's 900) to the educational park.

Picture (if you can) the popularity of a "community cultural center" — far beyond the perimeters of the community. Picture the attractions of a "community swimming pool"—in one of the foggiest, windiest parts of Marin County.

Picture also the salary costs for perhaps 40 bus drivers—around $200,000 a year—not to mention purchase and maintenance of the buses. Could not this money be better spent on educational programs?

And how do we house and educate our children between the time the present schools are sold to finance this land purchase, and the time the educational park is completed?

These are questions the communities should be looking at, as well as the two school boards.

Anti-Obscenity Motive Challenged

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I was one of the 200 people present at Tuesday's (Jan. 11) meeting of the San Rafael Board of Education . . . .

The obscenity issue would be laughable if it were the only issue. No child can escape exposure to verbal and written obscenity unless he or she is raised alone in a soundproof room and never taught to read. This may be deplorable, but it is a fact of American life today.

In San Rafael, Chico, and San Diego, citizens are raising cries of anguish and alarm. The English language contains some dirty words. Teachers sometimes have opinions. In each city an attack has been launched against obscenity and a teacher. Sex and the School System: it's a great double bill and will always pack the house.

What really is at stake here, I think, is a professional person's right to do his job to the best of his ability, in reasonable freedom from harrassment and intimidation. Our teachers are professionals trying to educate our young people. I have had three children in San Rafael High, so I know firsthand of the unease felt by many teachers when class discussion concerns a "controversial" subject. I am grateful and surprised there is one stimulating, effective teacher left in town. That's the type who have "opinions."

Obviously the anti-obscenity group at Tuesday's meeting were scared to death of something . . . I very much doubt they are all that afraid of Jack Kerouac's "On the Road." There is little if anything in the book that the high school seniors, to whom it was assigned, have not already heard or read. I also doubt that those scared parents really fear there is an academic plot afoot to undermine the morals of the young.

So what is their real problem?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The parents and friends of the retarded children at Haven Cottage, Sonoma State Hospital, Eldridge, Calif., wish to thank the Corte Madera Merchants Assn. for its effort in making the Christmas season a very happy and satisfying one for the children at Haven Cottage and the other . . . groups at Sonoma State Hospital.

Members of the association contributed tricycles, wagons, records, and all types of toys, books, games, and dolls to the children's wards and were present during the holidays to pass out gifts and the "feeling" of Christmas.

Many thanks to the people who contributed their time in wrapping the presents, and to Hamilton Air Force Base for delivering them.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON does not always fare too well in his jousts with over-inquisitive Washington newshawks, but one of them wrote such a complimentary piece about him that it was read aloud to him by his secretary. The President obviously was gratified. He commented, "I wish my mother and father could read this. My father would enjoy it. My mother would believe it."

HISTORY OF a book called "The Cincinnati Kid": 1. Written by Richard Jessup, and submitted to a paperback publisher. 2. Rejected by same. 3. Submitted to a hardback publisher. 4. Accepted by same. 5. An overnight best-seller, reprinted by Reader's Digest, and sold for a whopping sum to MGM. 6. Sold to very same paperback reprint publisher who had originally rejected it for ten times what they had been asked at that time to put up for it. And this is what makes publishing such an unpredictable—and fascinating—business!

Johnson Using 'American Made' Appeal To End War In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's State of the Union message shows that the end-of-the-war proposals he has sent to Hanoi are more wide-ranging than first appeared.

Unquestionably there are grave risks in what the U.S. is offering, but there are bound to be great risks in any attempt to negotiate an end to a war which hasn't been won by either side.

The President is determined on one thing—to go the extra mile to show our will to obtain peace before being forced to the "hard decisions" — a stepped-up battle front on land, air, and sea—which would inevitably follow if North Viet Nam slams the door on every approach.

THE MOST publicized part of the U.S. offer, contained in the Rusk memorandum delivered to Hanoi, is our readiness to enter negotiations anywhere at any time without any conditions.

The less publicized part of our offer is a clearly stated willingness to join at once in cutting back the war to the point of a total cease-fire without any advance commitment to go to a peace conference.

This possibility — a reciprocal diminution of the fighting to the level of no shots being fired—has been touched upon by some U.S. officials, but only tangentially in public speeches.

SINCE THE HANOI government does not look upon public speeches as anything more than propaganda and certainly as never containing serious proposals, the United States has now gone further. It has directly communicated its views to the North Vietnamese authorities so there can be no doubt that we are extremely serious.

The President made a direct and significant reference in his message to Congress when he said in words not heretofore contained in official pronouncements on Viet Nam: "We will work for a cease-fire now or once discussions have begun. We will respond if others reduce their use of force."

The risks involved in such a de-escalation without agreement about the terms of the truce or how it would be supervised are evident. It would leave South Viet Nam in a precarious position. Would the Viet Cong, which controls 60 per cent of the countryside (though only 20 per cent of the population), be left holding these large areas of South Viet Nam hostage?

Would the government in Saigon be committed to allowing the Viet Cong to hold sway whereever they happened to be standing when the truce came into being? Would the North Vietnamese armed forces withdraw and permit slow pacification, if attainable, throughout the South?

THESE ARE SOME of the vast uncertainties.

But with these risks it is possible that the de-escalation offer is more meaningful at this stage than any naked offer to negotiate, since, from the viewpoint of either side, the issues at present are nearly unnegotiable.

Official thinking behind it is as follows:

The Johnson administration wants to give the North Vietnamese all the flexibility and latitude they may feel they need in time of crisis.

The peace-by-negotiation initiative is "American-made" and it might well be difficult for the Hanoi leaders, caught between a hostile and competing Peking and Moscow, to appear to be pushed by the U.S. into "unconditional talks."

Ending the fighting by de-escalation could be taken up by Hanoi as its own initiative perhaps first on the battlefield without public anouncement. It could take the first step—and then the U.S. would be responding.

Coal Industry Asks Subsidy To Japan

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The coal industry wants the government to provide an export subsidy to induce Japan to stop buying large quantities of coal from North Viet Nam and to use U.S. coal instead.

Industry leaders proposed this as a war measure to Vice President Humphrey following his recent visit to Japan.

JAPAN IMPORTS one-third of its coal from North Viet Nam, an estimated 50 million tons a year. American producers say all or most of this can be supplied by the U.S.

The producers contend North Viet Nam's loss of the Japanese market would be a double-barreled gain for the U.S.: It would deprive North Viet Nam of much-needed foreign currency and thus hamper its warring; and it would directly stimulate mining in depressed U.S. areas, particularly anthracite.

Warren, chairman of the seven-member group, has agreed to do that at the request of the four congressional members. They asked for the meeting to obtain a financial accounting of the year-long inquiry.

No report has ever been submitted, although the commission formally concluded its work in September 1964.

Several months ago the legislators, after discussing the matter for some time, decided that a detailed financial accounting should be presented and made part of the official records of the commission. It was their understanding this would be done before the commission disbanded. But for some unexplained reason, nothing came of that.

SO IN IDENTICAL letters to Warren and Lee Rankin, general counsel of the commission and now New York City Attorney in the new Lindsay administration, the lawmakers asked that the commission be reconvened for the express purpose of receiving and acting on a comprehensive financial statement.

Warren promptly agreed, and asked the legislators to set a date.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., former ambassador to India, who took the lead in this move, is conferring with the other lawmakers on this.

ON MAY 5 of last year, this column disclosed the commission's year-long investigation had cost $1.2 million.

Biggest single expenditure was $556,500 for printing. Next largest was $225,650 for "salaries and related benefits."

LA COSA NOSTRA is not the only target in the FBI's unrelenting war against organized crime.

Recently Director J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrest of five men in Miami on charges of interstate transmission of betting information. These were not small fry.

Two of them—Frank (Lefty) Rosenthal and Stanley Green—were connected with Multiple Sports News Service, one of the largest suppliers of sport news essential to underworld bookies.

Also in Miami, the FBI cracked an alleged extortion racket. One man, Joseph Bisogno, was arrested on federal extortion charges resulting from the reputed use of "strong-arm" methods in organizing the Statewide Carting Assn. Two others were arrested on charges of extorting protection money from owners of bars and night clubs.

Supervisors Have Tough Problem In Novato Fire Board Appointment

The resignation last Wednesday of Robert E. Campbell from the Novato Fire District Board left a vacancy that must be filled by an appointment by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, according to Fire Chief George Cavallero.

After the board accepted the resignation, it then recommended that the supervisors appoint Robert J. Busher of 1757 Indian Valley Road to fill the vacancy on the three-man board. Busher had been appointed to fill an unexpired term in 1961 and therefore had some experience on the board.

IN MAKING THE recommendation, Peter Ferrarese, board chairman, said that he felt that the board needed an experienced man on it. Ferrarese's term expires in April of this year. He has announced that he will seek re-election.

If he loses the election, then it would put almost all new men on the fire district board, Ferrarese said.

However, at the election last year, Henry V. Alvernaz of 1048 Eighth Street, Novato, tied with Joseph Silveira for the position. Silveira won by a toss of a coin. There are those who feel that Alvernaz should be appointed to fill the vacancy.

It will be a tough decision for the board of supervisors to make. They are expected to make the appointment within a month, or in time for the next monthly meeting, Cavallero said.

JOHN A. MACHADO of 1424 Dawes Street, Novato, who is employed in the meat department of the Purity Store in San Rafael, was the subject of a six-page picture story in a recent issue of a house publication for Purity Stores. In addition to many pictures of him at work, the article also had pictures of his home, wife Betty, and their two children, Laura and Jack.

The first of the year is always a good time to take stock of the progress made in the past year and see what could be done in the future.

We will not point out a bunch of things that need to be done in Novato. Such a list would be longer than several weeks of this column. The need to bring a rural community up to the standards of a city of its size is almost endless.

We would like to point out a couple of small projects which have been lost along the way.

ONE OF THESE is the city seal. One was adopted by the last council, but the present council did not like it and wanted further study and more suggestions. What has happened to those suggestions or studies, we do not know. We know that this project has been quietly dropped from the city council agenda.

The other is the sidewalks along the city hall and community house. Plans are now being made for the realignment of De Long Avenue, but these should be far enough along so that the city could install sidewalks around the civic center. If it does not take the lead, how can it expect the other citizens to start installing sidewalks, curbs and gutters where there are only dirt ditches and paths now?

We smile sometimes at Novato's motto of being a city of friendly progress. Progress sometimes is very slow. Those who attend planning commission and council meetings and witness the fighting wonder where the city gets that friendly bit.

Science Building Drawings Due Trustees Of College

Marin Junior College District trustees, meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in room G-3 of the College of Marin Physical Education Building, will be asked to authorize preparation of schematic drawings of the college's proposed two- and one-quarter million dollar science building.

Construction of the building will probably start a year from now and take two years, according to James W. Duke, college planning coordinator.

The board will also be asked to authorize expenditure of approximately $12,000 for topographical and soils investigation study for the district's north county campus.

Trustee Kent O. Seymour will ask for a 30-day extension of his 90-day leave of absence. Seymour was ill on a trip abroad and will not be able to attend a board meeting until Feb. 3, said college president Stephen E. Epler.

Nebraska has the nation's longest pheasant season, running 93 days, from Oct. 23 to Jan. 23.

Congressman Aid Asked In Flood

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Newell of Belvedere have turned to their congressman for help in a recurrent flooding problem.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell, of 35 Cove Road, claim their home was flooded with five inches of water four months after they bought it in 1960. Three years later it was flooded again. And on Jan. 4, it was flooded for the third time, forcing the Newells to move out for two days.

In a letter to Rep. Donald H. Clausen, R-First District, the Newells claim they have tried every remedy they could think of, and without success. The lagoon which floods their home, the letter says, is controlled by the Lagoon Property Owners Assn.

They ask the congressman's help for income tax relief and for "more responsible jurisdiction on control of the Belvedere Lagoon."

Orchid Society

Herbert Hager, commercial orchid grower of Santa Cruz, will speak on the phalaenopsis orchid at a meeting of the Marin Orchid Society at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Crocker-Citizens Bank in Fairfax. At conclusion of the program, outgoing president Roy Chapin will turn the meeting over to the new society president, David Lapidus.

Attorney Joins San Rafael Firm

William T. Bagley, senior partner in the San Rafael law firm of Bagley, Bernt, Biachi and Sheeks, today announced the association of a newly admitted attorney, James S. Reed.

A recent graduate of Hastings College of Law in San Francisco, Reed has just been admitted to the California State Bar. Reed will join the law firm in general practice of law and also will assist Bagley in his legislative duties as assemblyman representing Marin and Sonoma counties.

Reed lives with his wife, Maureen, at 215 Bayview Street, San Rafael.

Fur Coat, Jacket, Stole Are Stolen

Theft of $4,500 worth of furs from a car trunk was reported to sheriff's deputies by Barbara Ann Wilson, 617 Eucalyptus Way, Tamalpais Valley.

Officers said the furs, a $3,000 full-length coat, a mink stole, and a beaver jacket, had been placed in the rented auto's trunk at the residence Sunday for safe-keeping. They were missing when the car was to be returned to the San Francisco rental agency, deputies added.

HAL BOYLE

Author Of 'Collector' Muses Over Life, Writing, Freedom

NEW YORK (AP)—"Life is a kind of shaggy dog joke without a punchline," said the man with the brown beard.

"There is no final solution or conclusion. As the astronomers say, the universe is infinite. everything is simply endlessly repeated."

Although life may be inconclusive it is far from unrewarding to the man with the brown beard—British author John Fowles. At 39, Fowles, former teacher at a girls' school in London, has turned the corner of literary success.

His first published novel, "The Collector," the creepy story of a young man who captures a girl as if she were a butterfly and keeps her prisoner until she dies, was made into a successful film.

HIS LATEST NOVEL, which has an even eerier treatment of the man-playing-God theme, is the January selection of the Literary Guild. Fowles also has sold the paperback rights for $125,000 and is doing a movie script of it.

It is his qualities as a loner and a mystic that won Fowles the praise of critics. But he is a companionable man across a tea table, and his hazel eyes light up as he talks about his work.

"All writers are sick people. We have a compulsive need to have phantasy worlds around us—to create such worlds in which we can live," he says.

"I WRITE by instinct. If I don't feel like writing, I don't. If I do, I write as long as my body can stand it—15 or 16 hours a day. I revise and revise and revise, and occasionally throw whole chapters away."

To Fowles, the greatest problem in life is individual freedom.

"What I write about is whether people should be freer than they are, and the extent to which freedom can be a dangerous, two - edged weapon," he says.

"IT IS HARD to generalize about how much freedom one should have. I'd say you have plenty of freedom over here. France could do with a lot more. So could Russia.

"Until recently, I should have said the greatest threat to freedom was political creeds. Now I think it is the machine—including the modern city.

10 YEARS AGO

Mill Valley discontinued its emergency ambulance service after Fire Chief Leslie Armager said the vehicle was unsafe, and the city had no funds to purchase a new one.

Two inches of rain, accompained by a six-foot high tide which struck Point San Quentin, caused flooding in San Rafael, Tamalpais Valley and Corte Madera.

20 YEARS AGO

The Tamalpais High School District board filed condemnation proceedings to acquire land adjacent to Sir Francis Drake School for a proposed new high school in the Ross Valley.

One of the heaviest fogs in years blanketed the North Bay and the Richmond-San Rafael ferries, which were tied up in the afternoon, remained fogbound throughout the night.

Theater operator Abe Blumenfeld announced that bids would be opened for construction of a motion picture theater in Fairfax, the first theater in that city.
